Minus $500,000,000.
Crime, Not Beer, the Issue.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

E. D. FRANZ, a St. Louis grocer, died in 1898, leaving an estate consisting of Burroughs Adding Machine stock in which he had invested $21,000. Now his estate will be divided among his nine heirs, and as the result of that $21,000 investment, they will have $10,831,000.

Some investments in this country are excellent. And there are some on the "list" now that will be as good in time as the Burroughs Adding Machine ever was. The difficulty is to identify them.

IT IS WELL to remember and occasionally to repeat the lesson that the British are teaching the world as regards the value of air fighting, in their war against the Afridis.

At all cost Britain must defend Peshawar, commanding the Khyber Pass that separates the mild Hindus and the great British possessions of India from the savage tribes of Afghans and others.

IN THE OLD days a great army of white men, and many white deaths, would have been called for by the present Afridi attacks. Now Britain sends a few airplanes to drop bombs on fortresses, troops and private houses and the Afridis vanish—rabbits can't fight eagles.

RAILROADS SAY they will make this year $500,000,000 less in net profits than the 5½ per cent on their valuation that the government wants them to make.

The falling off in coal traffic is partly responsible.

COAL IS old-fashioned. Oil, natural gas, and hydro-electric power have pushed it into the background. Coal may come back by the development of its by-products, in transforming bituminous into anthracite in a process employed by the company of Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., in Chicago.

AND COAL VALUES may be re-established by transforming coal into electric power at the mines. But that won't help railroads. They will have to be helped by thinking about their problems instead of watching and waiting for something to cut into them, as automobiles, automobile trucks, motor buses and other things have done.

The railroads, very powerful, conscious of their powers, have stood like the sturdy African rhinoceros, waiting for the English sportsmen to come and shoot him.

"WETS," SPEAKING through President Curran, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, claim a gain of 29 votes in the House of Representatives. The drys probably will say "Not so."

IT IS NO LONGER a question of wet or dry, beer or water, but a much more important question of CRIME.

There is no doubt that prohibition finances bootlegging and that bootlegging finances our gigantic crime wave, to the tune of hundreds of millions a year.

The publication of a murdered bootlegger's account books in Chicago reveals that he had on his payroll judges, other officials, policemen and "reformers." That cannot be ignored.

CAPT. ARTHUR H. PAGE, of the Marine Corps, flying a Curtiss plane with an 800-horsepower engine, made a trial flight at 250 miles an hour. He expects to equal 300 miles an hour, in the Thompson trophy race September 1 in Chicago.

Everybody interested in airplanes should go to Chicago for the great air meet which starts on Saturday and will gather at least 2,000 planes from all over the world.

RUSSIA DOES not want silver hoarded or anything done to interfere with credit, or to monopolize money. Four men convicted of hoarding coin were shot dead, which is the Soviet method of showing that it is displeased.

If they ever have a Federal reserve in Russia you may be sure that it won't push the interest rate on call money up to 20 per cent.

IN FLORIDA three men are released under bail, accused of a plot to hire somebody to kill Doyle E. Carlton, governor of the state.

The modern gang idea of hiring somebody else to do your killing is spreading. Chinese of New York have adopted it in their tong wars.

WHEN THE TONG gentlemen became impatient and resumed shooting of their own accord, Mr. Mulrooney, the new and efficient police commissioner, and District Attorney Crain yesterday notified the Chinese that they would give them one week in which to stop shooting each other or they would all be deported.

It might be a good idea to adopt that idea in connection with others, not Chinese.

County Heads Increase Sum To Complete Project; Action Follows Hearing

The county commissioners today appropriated another $1,000,000 to spend on the county airport.

With the appropriation, Public Works Director Norman Brown promised that the airport, while not completed as originally planned, could be put to commercial use in five months.

The commissioners voted to obtain the money by selling commissioners' bonds to the sinking fund commission with the proviso that if the commission is not in shape to receive the bonds, they be offered publicly

FOUR RUNWAY FIELD

For the $1,000,000 Director Brown has promised to produce a four-runway commercial flying field. It will not be an A1A rated field under the Department of Commerce regulations Brown said when questioned by Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, but a commercial flying field. It will be ready shortly after the first of the year.

Commissioner Joseph Armstrong asked Brown:

"What do you have to do to get this government rating?"

Brown explained that it will be necessary after the field is put in shape for flying with the $1,000,000 to move the Lebanon Church road, construct additional runways and make other improvements.

Fencing, sewage, water supply, removal of hazards and one brick hangar to be placed on the field will cost $274,947, Brown estimated. Lighting, first aid equipment and necessary instruments will cost $80,440; administration building, post office, pilot quarters, fire department and field mainte-

Seeks Cure at Malibu Beach Cottage, While Temple Followers Offer Prayers

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, is temporarily blind and in a serious condition at the home of a friend in Malibu Beach, it was announced today by Miss Emma Schaffer, private business secretary to the four square gospel leader.

Miss Schaffer made the statement in contradiction to a persistent rumor that Mrs. McPherson was undergoing a second face-lifting operation at her beach home, following an unsuccessful plastic surgery operation performed at Budapest during her recent trip to Europe.

FAMILY FEUD DENIED

Miss Schaffer denied knowledge of another reported rift between Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, adding she had no idea where "Ma" Kennedy was at present.

Mrs. McPherson's blindness was attributed by Miss Schaffer to a nervous breakdown suffered last Saturday, which resulted in the paralyzing of her optic nerves, causing the loss of sight.

The evangelist is under the care of a nerve specialist and in a grave condition, her secretary said. The evangelist's condition was reported so grave that her daughter, Roberta, had been asked to return immediately from Europe and her son, Rolph, from the Middle West to be at her bedside.

Mrs. McPherson, her secretary said, was under the care of a Dr. Wilce, widely known nerve specialist.

FOLLOWERS SILENT

SUPREME COURT HEARS BROWN APPEAL

Pinchot Rival's Counsel Asks Justices to Throw Out 60,000 Luzerne Ballots

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader, chief counsel for Gifford Pinchot, admitted in the state Supreme Court today that the judges of Luzerne County have no more authority for ordering perforation of paper ballots than "the alderman of the ward."

Mr. Schnader agreed with a pronouncement to this effect by Justice Robert S. Frazer, of Pittsburgh, presiding in the high court's chamber, fourth floor, City Hall, where arguments were heard today on the petition of Francis Shunk Brown to throw out 60,000 Luzerne County ballots, on the ground that the numbered perforations constitute "mutilation."

The specific case before the court is the second division of the Eighth Ward of Wilkes-Barre, with a second petition affecting 373 districts of the county where paper ballots were used in the event the court finds their use in the one division was illegal. Numbers were stamped on the ballots by order of the County Court to prevent fraud.

AUTO BANDIT TRIO GETS $3,776

Robbers Terrorize Laundry Employes in North Side, Then Escape With Loot

Two women employes of the North Side Laundry Company, driving unattended to the laundry plant with $3,776 for the weekly payroll, were held up and robbed at the point of revolvers by three young bandits in Island avenue near Brighton road shortly after noon today.

Miss Margaret E. Hood, bookkeeper, of 313 Hutchinson avenue, Edgewood, who carried the bag containing the payroll funds, was struck in the face as she and her companion, Mrs. Albert F. Boucek, clerk, of Oak avenue, Perry Manor, were stopped by the bandits.

"Give us the money quick or we'll shoot."

This was the demand of one robber, and Miss Hood, struck on the nose as she hesitated, surrendered the bag, she told city detectives.

PATH BLOCKED BY AUTO

The women, in the absence from the city of company executives, were entrusted with the transportation of the funds from the Allegheny Trust Company.

As they were driving along Island avenue near Brighton road, a short distance from the plant at Winifred and Success streets, the bandit automobile passed them and was driven suddenly in front of their car, forcing them to halt.

The three young men in the car, evidently were Americans, according to the women.

Two jumped out and ran toward them with drawn revolvers. After they snatched the bag they jumped back into the car, all within the space of a minute, and the third robber, who sat at the wheel with the motor running, shifted quickly into high gear and fled at full speed.

WOMAN NEAR COLLAPSE

Miss Hood was on the verge of collapse when she reached the office of the company. She and Mrs. Boucek were taken to detective headquarters in an effort to identify the robbers from Bertillon records.

The license number of the bandit car was caught by witnesses, and records revealed the owner to be a resident of Grove City. An investigation was started to determine whether the car was stolen.

The payroll was insured, and additional funds were obtained from the bank and delivered to the plant this afternoon to pay the employes.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Two aged women and a man—the son of one of the women—were shot to death today by B. John Riutort, 45, a gardener, who then shot and killed himself, according to state police.

The dead, in addition to Riutort, are Mrs. Mary Parr, 75, of Pleasantville; her sister, Mrs. Annie Margaret Collins, 77, of Philadelphia, and Leo W. Collins, 50, the latter's son.

Before his death in a hospital, Ruitort scrawled this note:

"I never bothered or hurt anybody. Those two others have been looking for trouble for some time. That's all."

WAR MOTHERS SAILING HOME

The War Department has furnished a military aide to accompany the body home.

The party, known as Tour N, will take more than a week to return to Hoboken pier, the embarkation point, for home.

A previous group which sailed last week is scheduled to arrive at the United States Lines pier 4, Hoboken, late next Friday night or early Saturday morning.

A third group which sailed from Hoboken early this month will return within the next two weeks.

Glamis Set to Drink Toast to Royal Baby

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—While Britain awaited the announcement from Glamis Castle that the second child of the Duchess of York had been born, residents here eyed the casks of ale to be tapped in celebration of the event and hoped for its early occurrence.

By an old custom the Earl of Strathmore, father of the duchess, distributes the stimulant to the villagers whenever a family event calls for celebrating. The casks will be opened when the great beacon on Hunter's Hill flames up, to announce the new arrival in the royal family.

'STRIP' LIQUOR CASE DROPPED

Finis was written today in the Federal district court records of the "Strip" booze conspiracy case.

The government dropped the case against Luke Sullivan, former state legislator; John W. Orie, former police magistrate, and 22 other defendants, who were on trial May 28, 1929, when the trial abruptly ended after five other defendants withdrew their pleas of not guilty and entered pleas of guilty.

Judge Nelson McVicar, on petition of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, filed with the approval of Attorney General William Mitchell, nolle prossed the charges. The petition said there was insufficient evidence to warrant further prosecution. The blanket indictment charging 167 defendants in a city-wide rum conspiracy, which included the "Strip" defendants, was nolle prossed three months ago, because of lack of evidence.

The "Strip" trial was before Judge William H. Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia, sitting as a visiting judge. After two days of testimony by the government five defendants changed their pleas to guilty, and were immediately sentenced to one year and a day to the Atlanta penitentiary.

The convicted men were Stanley Orie, brother of the former police magistrate; Patrick Meenan, Walter J. Stec, Charles A. Wolf and Martin Grady. All completed their penitentiary terms.

Among others cleared of the conspiracy charges by the nolle prosse were Patrick O'Malley.

TAG CITY TRUCK IN PARKING BAN

Downtown traffic congestion will be relieved even if the towing campaign under way by the traffic division catches city-owned automobiles in its toils.

One city truck was tagged today. This example of zeal is evidence of police determination to carry on the campaign against illegally parked cars, according to Traffic Inspector Jacob R. Dorsey.

Several cars found parked illegally downtown were towed to garages, entailing the towing charges of $3.60 and $1 fines for the owners. Special attention will be paid to such narrow traffic lanes as Fifth avenue, Smithfield street, Oliver avenue and Wood street and to night parking in alleys.

India to Rule Self When Prepared, Says Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 19.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Our own interdependence and that of the rest of the world is emphatically exemplified by the present unrest in India. It has not only affected our direct trade in that region, but by reducing Indian imports of manufactured goods from England has reduced our sale of raw materials that would go into such goods, and by injuring British business has lowered its general purchasing power for our other exports.

Calvin Coolidge

While we have every sympathy with the aspiration for self-government, we realize from the historical development of our own institutions that self-government cannot be conferred upon one people by another people but must be acquired by long and painful experience. It is only of gradual growth through many intermediate grades, none of which can be omitted. When India is unified, educated and equipped for self-government, it will come with benefit to all concerned.

At present the problem is how the people of India can best be helped to progress along that pathway. Undoubtedly the British Empire furnishes them with guarantees of order and stability which are their first requisites in working out their own destiny. Meantime hope lies in such an adjustment of governmental and trade relations as will insure domestic tranquility.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Judd Gray's Child Waits Dad's Birthday Letter

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 19.—(INS.)—A letter from dad—a poignant epistle it must be, indeed—but, after all, a letter from dad!

Jane Gray will read it, perhaps with tear-dimmed eyes, on her thirteenth birthday—next Sunday.

Her annual birthday letter....

It is a letter from the grave, written by her father, Judd Gray, as he sat in the shadow of the electric chair at Sing Sing, awaiting to be electrocuted with Ruth Snyder for the sashweight murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor.

Jane, growing up now and understanding things, is living quietly with relatives here, where her mother, broken-hearted by the tragedy that wrecked their home, took shelter to avoid the fierce blaze of notoriety that followed the murder.

It is two years since Jane's father, in felt slippers, his white face immobile, shuffled through "the little green door" and calmly went to his doom.

On each succeeding birthday, until she reaches her majority, Jane will receive a letter from her father. It is turned over to her each year by the administrators of his estate.

Although saddened by the circumstances under which it was written, Jane looks forward eagerly to his birthday letter.

After all, it's a letter from dad!

SWIFT DEATH REPORT HINTS HE DIED IN STRUGGLE FOR GUN

DOUBT CAST ON SUICIDE THEORY

No Trace of Alcohol Found In Postmortem Analysis; Rigid Inquiry Launched

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. — (AP.) — The possibility that William E. Swift, son of Louis F. Swift, meat packer, was shot in a struggle for possession of a pistol in the sanitarium where he was said to have committed suicide Saturday night, was under investigation today by Dr. Charles G. Norris, chief medical examiner.

Dr. Edward S. Cowles, owner of the sanitarium, and others were under subpena to appear at a hearing before Dr. Norris in the Municipal Building this afternoon at which the medical examiner hopes to clear up all facts in connection with Swift's death.

NO TRACE OF RUM

Shortly before the body was taken to Chicago, in charge of Alden Swift, a brother, yesterday, Dr. Norris performed a second and more complete autopsy. Later he expressed surprise that the examination had failed to reveal traces of alcohol. When Swift's death was reported, police said they had been told he had suffered from alcoholism.

A sentence in the report of Dr. Robert C. Fisher, an assistant medical examiner who had charge of the case, caused Dr. Norris to believe that some facts concerning Swift's death had not been fully explained. This sentence was:

"Shot himself with his own gun, a .38 caliber Colt, while the nurse was trying to get the gun away from him."

Rudolph Heitmanek, the male nurse who was with Swift at the time of his death, is quoted by police as having reported that Swift shot himself with a pistol he drew from under his covers while Heitmanek was sitting in a chair nearby.

K. OF C. OPENS NATIONAL MEET

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—A colorful ceremony at the Boston Garden last night during which about 2,000 officers of Massachusetts councils were installed came as a curtain raiser for the first business meeting of the forty-eighth annual supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus today.

Several thousand delegates from all over the United States and its insular possessions arrived yesterday. In the morning the Knights of Columbus national golf championship started at Wollaston.

The first delegate to register during the day was from the Canal Zone, he was Theodore A. Aanstoos, of Cristobal Council. Another delegate who traveled far, Charles W. McGannan of Trinidad, Cuba, brought an invitation to the K. of C. to hold its 1931 convention in Havana.

Supreme Knight Michael H. Carmody, Supreme Director John E. Swift and other officers were given a luncheon by the Catholic Daughters of America.

out of the tunnel and was blown to atoms. The other workmen were saved.

HIS NAME WON'T be remembered for five minutes, but it is just as well to print it, at least.

No other name will be remembered either, for that matter, when this earth is a million or two years older.

THE NATION may be much better off for the recent sweeping out in Wall Street. But Wall Street and the farmers don't yet know it.

The stock market has been in the doldrums, and yesterday cotton dropped $2 a bale, to the lowest price since 1921—below 11 cents a pound.

Copper, cotton and other products cannot remain indefinitely at a price lower than the cost of production. But that truth doesn't help those compelled to sell now.

ROOSEVELT QUIZ ON EWALD OPENS

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today began an examination of all the papers and records in the Ewald case—New York City's latest political scandal growing out of the charge $12,000 was paid for George F. Ewald's appointment as a magistrate.

The case has been under investigation by the New York County grand jury, but it failed to return an indictment. However, it has reconsidered the evidence.

In view of the severe criticism leveled at the alleged failure of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain to press the Ewald case, Roosevelt asked Crain to send the records here.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—The New York County grand jury today concluded its reconsideration of the Ewald case. Rumors were current that the grand jurors again would refuse to hand down indictments.

In that event, District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain has announced he will present the evidence to another grand jury.

G. O. P. DIVIDED OVER HEFLIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 19.—(AP.) — The Birmingham Age-Herald says it has learned the Republican party in Alabama is faced with an open break over the question of throwing its support to Senator J. Thomas Heflin and Hugh Locke, candidates for Senate and governor on an independent Democratic ticket.

The paper says it has been informed the Republican organization is split into two rival factions, one desirous of supporting Heflin and Locke, and the other in favor of putting forward Republican candidates for these offices.

The question will be discussed at the Republican state convention here Thursday.

Senator Heflin and Locke were among those barred from participation in the Democratic primary for their failure to support the party's presidential nominee in 1928.

HOOVER NAMES DROUGHT AID BOARD

Headed by Secretary Hyde, Group of Eight to Work With State Committees

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Recognizing the plight of agriculture in the drought-stricken districts, President Hoover today named a special committee to co-operate with the states in providing relief.

He chose Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, to head the committee and named seven other members.

These are Alexander M. Legee, chairman of the Federal Farm Board; Paul Bestor, federal farm loan commissioner; Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; R. H. Aishton, of the American Railways Association; Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury; John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, and Henry M. Robinson, San Francisco banker.

ACUTE IN WIDE AREA

In announcing the committee, the President declared the drought situation acute in 300 counties, scattered over a dozen states.

He said recent rains had greatly improved the situation outside the acutely affected areas, but that in some sections, the situation is so bad it cannot be aided by rain, since the crops have been killed.

The President believes such areas will require relief next winter. For this purpose, he added, he is establishing the federal committee, to co-operate with state relief agencies.

WILL PROVIDE CREDIT

It is apparent that the federal government will provide credit facilities for farmers in the parched areas. This phase of the drought situation was met when the President put Mills, Young and Robinson on the relief committee.

They are expected to co-operate with bankers from the various states in arranging a credit reform.

The President expressed pleasure over the promptness with which the afflicted states are setting up local relief organizations.

'SNIPING' HURTS NUMBERS MEN ALONG 'HILL'

Alderman Griffin's Drive To Clean Up District, Competition, Slash Profits

"Numbers" bookies in the Hill district were selling their wares today with an eye out for the constables of Alderman Martin Griffin, whose efforts to stamp out the racket in the district are beginning to cut deep into the finances of the operators.

For two weeks, attaches of the alderman have been sniping off a writer here and there and the bookies are shifting headquarters daily to evade them. The raiding constables not only take the agent, but also his records, and operators complain they are losing business.

Continuing to pay off on a straight 600-to-1 basis, the racket men in the downtown and Hill districts are loudly denouncing the circulation of cards announcing reduced scales as a "blind."

They blame the North Side operators, who, they say, are passing propaganda in an effort to regain the business they lost when they adopted a reduced payoff scale.

BOY, 15, KILLS MAN AMUCK

DETROIT, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—John Bardoni, 45, who, intoxicated and armed with a cue stick and pool balls, went on a rampage here, lay dead today with five bullets in his body, fired from a revolver in the hands of his 15-year-old nephew, Steven Gorka.

Gorka, held by police pending an inquest, said that he shot Bardoni to stop the man from beating his mother. Before beating Mrs. Gorka, Bardoni, police said, had hurled pool balls at the three Gorka children, injuring two of them.

En route to the Gorka home, the man assaulted another man with a cue stick. The latter was seriously bruised.

House Looted, Set Afire as Owner Travels

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 19. — (AP.)—Under ordinary conditions, the Hammond papers might have recorded briefly under the local notes that "Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brooks have returned from a vacation in Southern Illinois."

But these were not ordinary conditions.

Among the discoveries which Brooks told of making were:

That his house had been on fire; that his radio had been stolen; that a neighbor's cat had eaten the canary; that Mrs. Brooks' fur coat and seven dresses had disappeared.

"Not to mention," he wailed to police, "that I left the basement lights burning."

EATON MERGER ASSAILED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—The manner in which Cyrus S. Eaton put together the consolidated Republic Steel Corporation was used by defense attorneys today in an effort to show that the Eaton interests were biased in opposing the terms of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger.

When Attorney F. H. Wood, Bethlehem counsel, began inquiry into the recommendations on which the Republic merger was based, an objection was raised by Clan Crawford, member of counsel for the plaintiffs in the suit to enjoin the Youngstown-Bethlehem merger.

Hassell Tippit, of the firm of Ernst & Ernst, which made audits for the Eaton interests both in the Republic deal and in their opposition to the Bethlehem deal, was on the stand for cross examination.

When the objection was raised, Wood told the court:

"I expect to show that the witnesses' practices in the Republic merger were directly contrary to the practices he has used in this merger."

Common Pleas Judge David Jenkins called a recess to consider the question, but when the hearing resumed, Attorney Crawford withdrew his objection and the questioning went forward.

AIMEE LOSES EYESIGHT

the directors met last night and issued their declaration which stated physicians held Mrs. McPherson's recovery doubtful.

The mystery heightened, however, when it was learned Mrs. Kennedy, the pastor's mother, was in a Brentwood sanitarium, her face covered with bandages, recovering from a plastic operation on her nose.

Reporters, accompanied by physicians, hastened to Malibu Beach and there through a window, they said, they saw attendants changing bandages on Mrs. McPherson's face. They knocked at the door and asked to see Mrs. McPherson. The answer was that she could see no one. Then they asked what bandages on the face could have to do with a nervous ailment, and were referred to the church board of directors' announcement.

RESCUE SHIP NEARS PORT WITH 261

Ventura Will Land Crew at Pago Pago, Taking 104 Passengers on to U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19. — (INS.) — The Matson liner Ventura was reported steaming safely toward the port of Pago Pago today bearing the 104 passengers and 157 crew members of the sunken steamship Tahiti.

Early reports to local steamship offices had reported the Ventura docked at Pago Pago, but direct cables from the island furnished the information that the Matson liner would not arrive there until late this evening.

CREW TO DISEMBARK

Members of the crew will disembark at Pago Pago, while the passengers will continue aboard the rescue ship to San Francisco.

Apparently none the worse for their narrow escape from what might have proved a disaster, passengers and crew said the Tahiti had been in distress three days after losing her starboard propeller.

RESCUER PRAISED

All aboard were transferred to the Ventura in small boats without mishap.

Capt. Meyer's heroic run through uncharted seas to the Tahiti's side was highly praised. Mariners said his trip would have been a speedy one had he arrived 18 hours later, considering the treacherous waters through which he had to pick his way. The route is studded with submerged shoals and coral reefs.

Passengers and Crew Tell Dramatic Story of Rescue

(Copyright, 1930, by San Francisco Examiner and Universal Service.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The first dramatic details of the sinking of the steamer Tahiti and the rescue by the liner Ventura were received in a special dispatch to the Examiner and Universal Service from one of the survivors last night.

The dispatch revealed that the Ventura arrived just in time to rescue the scores of men, women and children, who were clinging to the sloping decks of the Tahiti.

JUST IN TIME

Hardly had the last member of the Tahiti crew been transferred to the Ventura when the big Union liner plunged bow foremost to the bottom.

"The passengers just got off in time," according to the correspondent aboard the Ventura.

"The forward part of the ship was listing heavily with her nose much deeper in the water than her stern.

"The bulkheads were giving way and the water had risen in between decks scarcely 15 feet from the main deck.

"Just then the Ventura came up and hove to. First the passengers and then the crew were transferred. When all the humans were aboard the Ventura an attempt was made to have the mail. All the letters were rescued, but the newspapers and parcels were lost.

"All of a sudden the Tahiti lurched, rolled a bit and then plunged from view."

CAPTAIN LAST OFF

In accordance with the code of the sea, Capt. A. T. Toten was the last to leave his doomed craft. With his officers and part of the crew, he remained aboard almost to the last minute, directing the work of salvage.

He and his officers were highly commended by passengers.

As the Ventura sped homeward San Francisco was laying plans to welcome Capt. W. R. Meyer, of the Ventura.

U. S. Shy Enough Rainfall To Float World's Navies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—All the navies of the world could be floated many times over in the water which has failed to fall upon the United States because of the drought.

J. B. Kincer, chief agricultural meteorologist for the Weather Bureau, today computed the deficiency in normal rainfall for the states east of the Rocky Mountains during July. He found it would aggregate 230,000,000,000 tons. The average daily shortage, he estimated, was 7,400,000,000 tons.

As against this total, the fighting ships of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, under the terms of the London treaty, would displace only 3,000,000 tons of water.

An inch of rainfall over an acre of ground totals 113 tons, Kincer explained. That amount is commonplace in good, soaking rains.

July rainfall deficiency in tons was estimated as follows:

Kansas, 14,000,000,000; Arkansas, 11,500,000,000; South Dakota, 10,500,000,000; Nebraska, 10,500,000,000; Iowa, 9,000,000,000; Oklahoma, 9,000,000,000; Illinois, 9,000,000,000; Virginia, 8,900,000,000; Kentucky, 8,800,000,000; North Dakota, 8,200,000,000; Ohio, 6,500,000,000; Tennessee, 6,400,000,000; Montana, 5,200,000,000; Wisconsin 4,400,000,000; Indiana, 4,200,000,000; West Virginia, 4,200,000,000 and Missouri 10,500,000,000.

'Contour Bob' Is Latest, But How Different!

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—The feminine hair bob this fall is a far cry from the bob of this spring and almost no relation of the haircut of last year. It has gone sophisticated, and contour bob likely will be its name.

That was the consensus today of experts attending the convention of the American Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists.

The smartly-coiffeured woman this fall will wear her hair swept back from her forehead in loose, wide waves. The hair will be softly molded to her head. Its length is a compromise between the short hair cut and the long bob, and it won't end in curls. A fluffy crown of glory is simply out.

Among other things that are out—except for individuals whose types demand them—are windblown bobs, the pointed or rounded necklines, the shoulder-touching bob, bangs and ringlets.

Dresses, which can now be called gowns, are responsible. The fall fashions bespeak poise, and in the opinion of the hairdressers, baby curls, bangs and garcon bobs do not.

For the women for whom the style of no hair showing from under their hats would be too severe, the hairdressers have designed waves and curls of human undyed hair to be attached to hats.

SCHNEIDER SETS JUNIOR FLIGHT RECORD

Capone Credited With Saving Florida Governor's Life

NIPPED PLOT TO ESCAPE BLAME

Gang Chief Seen as Saving Official From Slayers To Avoid Killing Charge

International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Al Capone, Chicago vice lord, caused the arrest of three men held in Jacksonville, Fla., for plotting to assassinate Doyle E. Carlton, governor of Florida, the New York Evening Journal said today in a copyrighted story.

Capone did this, the Journal said, because if Carlton had been killed he would have been blamed for it. Carlton had many times attempted to oust Capone from Florida, and the Journal said it had learned exclusively that Capone, fearing for the governor's life, caused the arrests.

3 CALL STORY ABSURD

The three men held in the alleged plot are Fred O. Eberhardt, publisher of the Florida State News; Frank Rawls and Henry Helsema, Jacksonville real estate dealers, who said the plot charges were absurd.

According to the Journal, Capone sent his lawyer, Vincent Giblin, to Jacksonville, and Giblin obtained the confidence of the alleged plotters by offering to furnish a New York gunman to kill the Florida executive.

PAPER SCORED GOVERNOR

In his newspaper Eberhardt had attacked the governor for not forcing Capone to leave Florida.

It was said Capone heard of the reported plot three weeks ago, and immediately informed government agents who in turn told Sheriff W. B. Cahoon, of Jacksonville.

The sheriff and agents took action with the three arrests.

LAID TO RACKET FEUD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 19.—(INS.)—The authorities here attribute the alleged plot to assassinate Gov. Doyle E. Carlton to an effort to gain control of the liquor traffic and gambling business along the "golden" east coast of Florida.

Sheriff W. B. Cahoon, of Duval County, who led in the investigation, declared today:

"I think the idea was to get control of gambling and liquor on the east coast. We thought the case against the three men was strong enough to get warrants to that effect."

Betty Ann Schwartz, 19-year-old blonde from Chicago, who was arrested as a suspect, still is held pending a full investigation. Cahoon declined to say how she became involved.

'98 VETS HOLD BIG PARADE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—To the martial airs of '98 which carried them into battle against the Spanish rulers of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, the "Boys of '98" swung into line today for the "big parade" of their annual national convention.

The parade was the feature of the "Preparedness Day" program of the United Spanish War Veterans' thirty-second encampment now in session here.

All marchers were clad in the picturesque uniforms of khaki and blue they wore in '98 during the Cuban and Philippine campaigns.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, addressing the veterans yesterday, declared:

"I never yet met a man who had faced death on the battlefield who was not in favor of wiping out war. I hope you preach the doctrine of peace wherever you go."

GANG LOAN PAID POLICE CHIEF

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Another bombshell was exploded in official circles today when state's attorney's investigators announced that William O. Freeman, chief of police of Evanston, fashionable suburb, borrowed $400 from Jack Zuta, slain vice lord and "brains" of the powerful Aiello-Moran gang.

Responding to a summons to the offices of the state's attorney last night, Chief of Police Freeman, formerly a member of the Chicago police force for 20 years, was shown a penciled note which he admitted writing to the slain gang leader in requesting the loan of $400.

Investigators also made public the discovery of an uncancelled check for $50 which was made payable to currency and signed by John Craig, city editor of the Chicago Daily News. When questioned, Craig admitted that he had written the check and that Zuta had cashed it.

New records unearthed yesterday in Zuta's vaults showed that $700,000 was poured into the coffers of Zuta's vice, gambling and racketeering organization in one "period" alone. Disbursements show that vast sums of money were paid out regularly for "protection."

JONES SCOUTS ANTI-DRY 'AID'

WENATCHEE, Wash., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Senator Wesley L. Jones said here yesterday that he was never told and never knew it if Roy C. Lyle, deposed prohibition administrator, or William M. Whitney, former assistant administrator, gave $6,000 in liquor bribe money to his 1926 campaign.

He reiterated his faith in the integrity of both Lyle and Whitney, whose appointments as dry chiefs he had recommended, and who now are being tried in Seattle on charges of accepting bribes and conspiring with liquor rings.

Jones said he could not imagine the liquor men giving Lyle or Whitney $6,000 for his campaign and he not know of it.

Al Hubbard, former dry officer and rum runner, testified at the trial that the liquor interests gave $6,000 to enforcement officers for use in the 1926 senatorial campaign. He did not mention any names.

Ruth Barron, Hollywood flier, lost her bearings in the dash from Calexico here but landed safely 35 miles south of Holbrook, Ariz. She remained there over night, but flew here today to rejoin the others.

FLIES ACROSS U. S. IN 29 HOURS

Jersey Youth Betters Mark Of Goldsborough by Four Hours Despite Wreck

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—A slight, 18-year-old Jersey City youth, Eddie Schneider, today held the junior record for the fastest westward crossing of the United States.

Landing at the municipal airport at dusk yesterday, the young flier completed his transcontinental crossing in a total flying time of 29 hours, 41 minutes, just 4 hours 22 minutes less than required by the former record holder, the late Frank Goldsborough, of New York.

Schneider left Westfield, N. J., Aug. 14, flying only during the day time. He said he experienced much stormy weather along the route and damaged his plane slightly once when he struck a tree in landing at Altoona, Pa.

Leaving Albuquerque, N. M., yesterday morning, Schneider stopped at Holbrook, Ariz., for fuel at noon, taking off shortly afterward for Los Angeles.

At Ontario, near his goal, he encountered fog and landed for weather reports. Assured visibility was good over Los Angeles, Schneider took off again, but lost his bearings before he cleared the mi[illegible] and landed at Long Beach mu[illegible]pal airport.

Uncertain where he was, the young flier asked an airport attendant and was told he was at "The Municipal Airport." The answer led Schneider to believe he had reached his destination. Several minutes later he discovered his error.

Upon reaching Los Angeles municipal airport Schneider took no chances of making a similar mistake. To 50 enthusiasts who ran out to meet him he shouted:

"Hey, I want to know for sure before I cut off my motor, is this the Los Angeles municipal airport?"

Receiving an affirmative answer, Schneider got out of his plane. He said later he was undecided when he would start back in an effort to beat the eastward record of 28 hours, 18 minutes also set by Goldsborough.

BISHOPS FROWN ON FIELD RITES

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(Universal.)—The Rev. Geikie-Cobb, Vicar of St. Ethelburga's Church, where Marshall Field III married Mrs. Dudley Coats with full Anglican rites yesterday, is likely to receive a reprimand from the Archbishop of Canterbury for performing the ceremony.

It was only last week that the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops made public their resolution to exclude divorced persons from the privilege of a church marriage. The Vicar of St. Ethelburga's, however, journeyed to London from his country residence to reopen the church, always closed in August, and perform the ceremony.

The Rev. Geikie-Cobb is noted for his liberal ideas, and is one of the few clergymen in London willing to go against the wishes of the church prelates. He is not subject to the Bishop of London, and by the ancient charter of St. Ethelburga's, is responsible only to the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Carol Seeks Dictatorship, So He Can Wed Magda

BELGRADE, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Possible establishment of a monarchical dictatorship in Rumania, so King Carol and his brother, Prince Nicolas, can marry the women of their choice without political interference, was reported in messages from Bucharest today.

These came by telephone, evading the rigorous censorship, and indicated Carol's attempts to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Princess Helen, had failed, and that he was contemplating assumption of autocratic power, to end the domestic unhappiness which has followed h's return.

Carol plans a morganatic marriage with Mme. Magda Lupescu, with whom he spent five years in France, these reports declared. He will let Nicolas marry Lucia Doneti Dumitrescu, the beautiful and mysterious Rumanian girl for whom the king's brother, months ago, was said planning abandonment of his royal status.

Nicolas' attempts to elope were foiled by his mother, Queen Marie, who "ruled the roost" in the Rumanian royal household before Carol seized the throne from his son, Crown Prince Michael.

Premier Maniu, it is reported, violently opposes these plans, demanding at least a surface reconciliation between the sovereign and Princess Helen. This, the reports state, may prompt Carol to reply with establishment of the dictatorship, whereby he would have free rein to do what he chose.

His popularity indicates success for such a venture, it was said.

Suffragist Discouraged Over Women in Politics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Emily Newell Blair, who campaigned for suffrage in Missouri in 1914, is "frankly quite discouraged about women in politics."

She made this known today in her contribution—the first pessimistic one—to a compendium of opinions on women and the ballot gathered by the League of Women Voters to mark the tenth birthday of feminine suffrage in America.

All these views, gathered from notables of both sexes, are to be published for the anniversary, on August 26, of the signing by former Secretary of State Colby of the proclamation that actually culminated the movement.

"I am afraid," Mrs. Blair said, "the suffragists have made the same mistake as the temperance group. Both of them thought that with their victory they had only to defend their position; and so, just as the Women's Christian Temperance Union stopped its educational work for temperance and devoted itself to claiming the Eighteenth Amendment worked, so the suffragists stopped their educational work of convincing people that women had a right to equality and devoted themselves to other interests."

SUPREME COURT HEARS BROWN APPEAL

Republican Nomination Rests On Decision in Luzerne Perforated Ballot Case

zerne County vote would give the Republican gubernatorial nomination to Mr. Brown by 6,000.

The courtroom was crowded to capacity when former Attorney General John Hampton Barnes began his argument for the rejection of the county's vote.

APPEAL FROM DECISION

The case is on appeal from the Luzerne County Common Pleas Court, which gave a decision refusing a motion by the Brown forces to reject primary ballots cast in the Second election district of the Eighth Ward of Wilkes-Barre on the ground that perforations made in the ballots as a safeguard against fraud really constituted mutilation within meaning of the Pennsylvania election laws.

The Supreme Court's decision on that district will determine whether any further effort will be made by Brown's lawyers to have virtually the entire Luzerne County vote discarded.

At the outset of today's hearing William A. Schnader, deputy attorney general and chief counsel for Mr. Pinchot, planned to press a motion embodied in one of his briefs to quash the entire proceedings.

Mr. Schnader's grounds for that motion are that the Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction to review elections returns after they have been certified by a Common Pleas Court and county commissioners, that the appeal taken from the Luzerne County Common Pleas Court decision was not made in accordance with legal procedure, and that Abram Salzburg, one of Mr. Brown's attorneys at Wilkes-Barre, who filed the original petition to throw out the ballots, was not a candidate at the election, and therefore could not be harmed in any way by the perforated ballots.

HELD BALLOTS LEGAL

The Luzerne County Court held that the perforated ballots were legal. Judge Benjamin B. Jones of Luzerne, who supported Brown during the primary campaign, said in his opinion:

"The practice of perforating the ballots in our county has been in vogue for a number of years and has accomplished its purpose in deterring the substitution of spurious ballots. Every elected officer in our county, including three of our associate judges, were elected by the use of perforated ballots.

"In the case at bar there is no suggestion, intimation or proof of fraud or wrongful voting by reason of the perforated ballots, nor even a hint of such."

Regardless of the outcome of the Supreme Court hearing, the opinion here is that Pinchot will be in the race for the governorship in the November election. The former governor has preempted the Square Deal party in every congressional, senatorial and legislative district in the state and his friends say is prepared to make the race with that vehicle if necessary.

Barnes opened the proceedings after Justice Frazer had announced the court had convened to hear only the case of the appeal from the decision of the Luzerne County court rejecting the Brown petition. On the bench with Justice Frazer were Justices Emory R. Walling, of Erie; Sylvester B. Sadler, of Carlisle, and William I. Schaffer, of Haverford.

TWO JUSTICES ABROAD

Chief Justice Robert Von Moschzisker and Justice John W. Kephart are abroad and Justice Alexander Simpson declined to sit because he had been associated in law practice with Mr. Brown.

Attorney Barnes said:

"Your honor, these are appeals here on certiorari from the common pleas court of Luzerne County involving substantially the question of action of the county commissioners of Luzerne on order of the common pleas courts of the county. This order was concurred in by four judges, the fifth dissenting.

"The order was that the County Commissioners should open the packages of ballots which had been sealed as provided by statute and supplied to them for distribution to the election districts. Further, having opened the ballot packages, they placed perforations upon the individual ballots."

Mr. Barnes presented photostatic copies of the ballots without objection from Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader, chief of Pinchot counsel. He then continued:

"These marks are perforated figures such as you will see on a check and it is stated a different number was used for each election district."

FRAUD ALLEGATION

"The records brought here in the case involve in one instance the opening of the ballot box in the Second Division, Eighth Ward, of Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, under the act of April, 1927. There was an allegation of fraud in that instance.

"In the other is an appeal from the order of the court made on a petition involving 373 districts of the County of Luzerne, which are all the other districts except the Second of the Eighth Ward, Wilkes-Barre, and those where voting machines were used."

Mr. Barnes pointed out the places in the records where they would find the instances cited. He went on:

"The questions involved may be summarized first as to the jurisdiction of the Common Pleas Court to make an order directing the County Commissioners to open and mark the ballots—which the County Commissioners had declined to do until directed by the judges, and secondly whether the ballots after being so marked and deposited in the ballot boxes could be so counted. Those are the two main issues in the case.

PROPOSITION MET

"The courts below met the proposition on the broad ground as to whether they were legal ballots.

"Another question is 'Was there fraud revealed in the ballot box?'"

Justice Schaffer commented:

"The lower court found as a fact that there was fraud in this box when it was opened."

Barnes said:

"Yes, but it was fraud apart from the perforations."

The attorney said that an important question was whether the ballots should not be counted because of the perforations and he quoted a statement made by Judge McLean, of Luzerne County, in the proceedings before that tribunal in which the judge said to the attorneys:

"Don't waste your time on other questions."

Mr. Barnes described how the five judges of the Luzerne Court, assembled in chambers on routine matters, had been waited upon by Herman J. Goldberg, representing certain candidates, and informed the county commissioners had decided not to perforate the ballots for this year's primary. He said:

"A majority of the judges directed the perforating be done under the supervision of the county commissioners. These constitute the question of fact upon which we agree."

DECISION CITED

The attorney then cited a supreme court decision in a recent case in an effort to refute the motion which had been made by Mr. Schnader in a brief filed previously challenging the jurisdiction of the supreme court in the present matter. The lawyer read from the opinion written by Justice Kephart who had said: "The power of the supreme court in matters of appeal where there is no prohibition against an appeal will be exercised in the broadest possible way."

Mr. Barnes recited in detail the manner in which the ballots had been received by the county commissioners, how the packages had been opened and the perforations made and how the ballots subsequently had been deposited in the boxes on election day and tabulated.

AIRPORT FUND INCREASED BY $1,000,000

County Commissioners Vote Sum to Finish Project; Action Follows Hearing

nance will cost $86,900, and surfacing of the four runways and parking area, $662,865.

SEQUEL TO HEARING

The commissioners' definite action today climaxed the public hearing which McGovern's charges that the airport so far has been bungled brought about yesterday.

The motion to sell the bonds for the additional million was put by Commissioner E. V. Babcock. In putting it, he said:

"We've got to go ahead with this work. I think we should do it now."

The commissioners voted unanimously for the sale of the bonds.

McGovern charged that the airport plans have been "bungled." Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock defended the plans.

"When will the airport be finished and how much is it going to cost?"

This question was the "theme song" of the much-heralded hearing. McGovern asked it when the hearing started. He repeated it several times during the hearing. It was the last question put down in the official record of the hearing.

President of Council John S. Herron and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang were called by Armstrong. Herron testified the city is ready to cooperate with the Commissioners in paying the $500,000, that it agreed to pay as its share of the airport. Director Lang testified he has heard no complaints about the airport and that no person familiar with Pittsburgh's topography ever expected to get a completed airport for $2,000,000.

CHALLENGE IGNORED

In spots the hearing waxed warm. At one stage McGovern challenged Armstrong to submit the airport question to a referendum vote through the newspapers. He offered to resign as commissioner if the vote of the people proved they believe him wrong, provided Armstrong would do the same. The challenge was ignored.

George Vang, president of the Vang Construction Company, testified he lost $53,000 on the airport contract.

McGovern read his statement at the start of the hearing. It contained three questions:

"What was the original intention of the commissioners in building the airport—What caused the failure to complete the port in the manner expected by the voters—and, when will the port be completed and what will its ultimate cost be."

He failed to get direct answers to the questions, but he kept on asking them throughout the hearing.

Commissioner Armstrong gave his speech extemporaneously and heatedly. He declared after McGovern finished questioning G. Brooks Ross, engineer for the airport:

"You have rambled around questioning this man and you haven't gotten anywhere. You say that for 15 months you have been trying to find out something about the airport. You have never asked me or the Department of Public Works anything about it. If you haven't been able to get the information you say you have tried to get it's your own fault. There never has been a time that Director Brown has not given any facts you wished within reason. You have been dilatory in your work."

It was at this point that McGovern offered to go before the voters on the referendum proposition with either himself or Armstrong to resign at the outcome.

Babcock then arose and declared:

"I want to correct the impression that you are trying to create that this is your hearing. This is a public hearing and I want it to be public. If any mistakes have been made I want Director Brown to tell us about them. First, you said the airport was a bungle, now you say it is a mistake. So far as I am concerned I want to give Allegheny County the best airport in the country, if it costs another half, three quarters or a million dollars. There is nothing wrong with what has been done. Everything is in the open. We have no secrets and I want Director Brown to tell everything he knows about the airport."

Brown then took the witness stand. McGovern said:

"I have no crow to pick with Brown. All I want to know is why we have no airport, when we are going to have one, how much it is going to cost, and where we are going to get the money."

NEED ANOTHER MILLION

Brown gave a chronological history of the airport from the bond issue of 1928 to the present. He said he originally estimated that the airport would cost $3,000,000, but that the commissioners decided that $1,500,000 was all that they would put in the bond issue. He said he thinks the airport can be completed for approximately $1,000,000 more.

QUESTION UNANSWERED

R. S. Dake, vice president of the Pittsburgh Airways; Lou Berry, president of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh; Morris Scharff, president of the Main Aeronautical Corporation, and Barr Peet, former operator of Bettis Field, testified the airport as it stands is satisfactory insofar as progress in construction is concerned, from the practical aviator's standpoint. Each one, when asked by McGovern if they had any knowledge of the financial affairs of the airport, answered in the negative.

Judge Orders U. S. Mine Bombing Quiz

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A definite move by the federal government to assume charge of prosecuting those involved in the Providence, Ky., airplane bombing was made yesterday by Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson. He ordered District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks to begin an immediate investigation.

Judge Dawson's action followed a report that Illinois was undecided whether to try Paul Montgomery, Murphysboro aviator, who admitted piloting the plane, in federal or state courts. James Malone, another aviator, also is under arrest in Illinois, accused of introducing Montgomery to the men who planned the bombing.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Senorita Maria Elena Manzano, serving a six-year penitentiary sentence in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate state leaders in 1928, was granted her freedom under bond.

She had served a third of her sentence. With two men, the woman was arrested and charged with plotting to kill Gen. Obregon and Gen. Calles by pricking them with a poisoned pin at a dance in their honor. The plot was never carried out, but Obregon later was assassinated.

Pilot Lands Plane While Passengers Fight Fire

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 19.—(AP)—While his four passengers—one of them a woman—protected him and themselves with fire extinguishers, Bernard Rawson, 22, a Bay City, Mich., pilot, yesterday safely landed a burning airplane from a height of 3,000 feet.

Rawson, handling a cabin monoplane for the Aircraft Corporation, was taking the passengers from Cleveland to Bay City. Near here, Cleo Slagle and Miss Florence Davis, on the front seat, discovered the fire and called to Rawson.

While the pilot dropped looking for a landing place, Slagle, Miss Davis and the other passengers—George Commons and Bousfield Ward—seized fire extinguishers and kept the flames out of the cabin.

After dropping 2,500 feet, Rawson saw the blaze was growing more serious and landed at once, barely missing a hedge fence. A few minuts after the five left the plane, it was wrecked by a gasoline explosion.

LEAGUE FINDS DOPE VOLUME 'STAGGERING'

Output Far Exceeds Needs; Board at Geneva Fears Pan-American Call of U. S.

By KENNETH CLARK.
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Aug. 19.—The permanent central opium board of the League of Nations, which met behind guarded doors in regular session yesterday, is reported to have found that narcotic drug production in several countries had been found "staggering."

The drug production of these countries, it was said, was far in excess of the medical needs fixed by the Health Committee of the League of Nations, and it is this excess that makes possible the flooding of the United States with dope through illicit channels.

One question which arose was whether one member was sitting in violation of the Geneva opium convention of 1925, which the United States refused to sign. He is Sir Basanta Millick, of India, who admitted being a paid British official.

PAID BY BRITISH

The convention prohibits members holding any office putting them "in direct dependence upon their governments." Millick said:

"I am a member of the Council of State in London. I am paid by the British, not the Indian government."

The British government controls the opium monopoly in India, and it was this which brought about the dispute over the status of the Indian representative.

Purposes of the Central Opium Board are to gather statistics on opium production and consumption with a view to taking remedial measures against nations where the illicit traffic flourishes. Heretofore, the board has made little headway, and the American delegation in 1925, then headed by the late Rep. Stephen G. Porter, of Pennsylvania, refused to sign the convention because the board made no progress.

SEEK SHOWDOWN

The board, it is admitted, has deteriorated into a perfunctory organization, and members who do not belong to the League's "opium bloc" expect to make a fight for a showdown at this session, since it is common talk here that the opium bloc is on the run through the efforts of the United States to bring about a system to control the international flow of narcotics.

All that is needed to complete the bloc's surrender, it is said here, would be for the United States, in co-operation with Canada and Mexico, to call a Pan-American narcotic conference.

The purpose of such a conference would be to devise means to limit the manufacture of narcotics to the world's medical needs, with a view to stopping the enormous flow of dope into the Western Hemisphere from the uncontrolled factories of Europe.

Such a conference has been proposed by leaders of thought in the United States. The suggestions and reactions have been closely followed by the league's opium bloc, composed of those nations which have a financial stake in the narcotic business.

FEAR U. S. MOVE

The opium bloc, frankly, is frightened lest the United States call such a Pan-American conference, for if a limitation plan were adopted, it would result in wiping out the excessive profits gained from supplying poisonous and habit-forming drugs to miserable victims the world over.

Representatives of Latin-American countries here have been canvassed informally on the project, and with a striking unanimity they declare that their countries would welcome an invitation from the United States to such a conference.

From American experience it is obvious that the narcotic problem can be met only through collective action to limit both production of opium and the manufacture of drugs.

SLOT MACHINE 'FIX' CHARGED

SCRANTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—During his argument before the court en banc against the motion of Vincent A. Brennan for a new trial in the $1,000,000 conspiracy case, Thomas Lewis, special district attorney, charged that at the first trial Brennan told jurors had been given and $500. At Brennan's first trial, the jury disagreed, standing eight to four for conviction. At a second trial Brennan, a former resident of Philadelphia, was convicted.

"It cost the commonwealth $6,500 to protect the first jury but it failed," Lewis declared in court.

"There is no doubt there were forces working against the commonwealth that were far stronger than the commonwealth. We were openly told by jurors that they had been seen by officials in the court house and told to stand for disagreement or for acquittal for Brennan and Gomer Davis.

Davis is sheriff of Lackawanna County and is now awaiting trial in the slot machine cases.

BOOM EXPECTED BY FIRESTONE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Harvey S. Firestone, the manufacturer and friend of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison, told the Cambridge Industrial Association that the present slump in business soon would be succeeded by greater prosperity than America has known for 10 years.

To melt depression, he advocated good hard work and readjustments by business leaders to meet the changing conditions such as reduced prices and reduced overhead. He agreed with Henry Ford that soon there would be work for everybody.

Mentioning the recent Edison questionnaire, Firestone said he had sat up one night until 1 a. m. correcting papers of the 48 candidates. As to the famous desert question, he said all the examiners disagreed and that he gave 100 per cent to the boy who would have saved the guide, his sweetheart and himself.

HOUNDS TRAIL 2 HELD AFTER ASSAILANT

STONY POINT, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—State and Bear Mountain police aided by bloodhounds were scouring Harriman Park for William Horner, 24, of New York, who was alleged to have attacked a girl encamped near here.

The manhunt began after Horner escaped from Bear Mountain police headquarters under unexplained circumstances. Police said they had captured Horner as he was shoving off in a rowboat shortly after the alleged attack. He dove into the water but surrendered when a policeman threatened to shoot.

Three hundred West Point plebes on a march through the park originally were reported as engaged in the search. Academy officials later said, however, the cadets could not be put at such a task except by order of the Secretary of War and that they were merely keeping watch for the fugitive while going about their ordinary routine.

BANK ROBBERY

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Four hours after two gunmen robbed a branch of the Royal Bank in Hamilton of more than $2,000, Toronto police arrested Jack Nevins and said they found $2,156 in his pockets.

They announced Nevins, with Norman Sherratt, who was arrested earlier in Hamilton with two loaded revolvers in his possession, would be charged with robbery.

Nevins' arrest came after a tip that he was to meet Sherratt here. Detectives went to the rendezvous and when their man drove up in an automobile they subdued him after a struggle.

The arrests were the sequel to a holdup which brought all the police of this section of the country into action in an organized hunt. The two men entered the bank pointing revolvers, scooped up the money, then jumped into a stolen automobile and fled.

FOE OF LEAGUE GAINS WIDE SUPPORT

Route of Campaign Becomes Triumphal March For Candidate Fighting Geneva

By WOOSTER TAYLOR.
(Universal Service)

LA JUANTA, Col., Aug. 19.—On through the Arkansas Valley, on a mounting wave of popularity, George H. Shaw was traversing the Southern counties today in his campaign for the United States Senate.

Thunderstorms, lightning that played upon the windshield of his small car, the receipt of a death threat letter demanding $5,000, nothing served to dampen the ardor of the young Denver attorney whose campaign slogan is "Thumbs Down on the League Court."

His advance yesterday through Baca, Prowers, Bent, Otero and Lasanimas Counties, rich agricultural and cattle regions, was in the nature of a triumphant march.

BACKED BY VETERANS

His telephone began ringing before he was out of bed at the old Benmar Hotel in Lamar. A rancher ten miles away at Wiley had left off branding calves to invite him to speak to the hands en route to Las Animas. At the breakfast table he was met by a delegation of ex-service men headed by a captain whose civil service position prohibits use of his name here.

"We just wanted to let you know that we are for you 100%," he said. "We heard your radio speech from Denver denouncing the efforts to involve this country in the League Court, the World Court, or any other foreign alliance.

"We fellows know what it means, and you can count on every Legion man in this locality."

If Shaw lacks the funds of his opponent, William V. Hodges, protege of the so-called $50,000,000 Phipps machine, he easily makes up for it in campaigning stamina.

DEATH THREAT

After covering 10 strategic towns in two counties, including Wilde, Springfield, Walsh, Two Buttes, Holly and Granada, widely separated, Shaw returned on dirt roads through a terrific thunder and lightning storm to find a telegram from Denver advising him that he was one of 25 prominent men listed in an "extortionist" letter received by a Denver banker.

The anonymous writer appointed the banker "collector," threatening death to each of the 25 unless they paid over $5,000 each. Shaw's opponent was included in the threat.

"Sorry, but $5,000 is all I'm allowed for campaign expenses," was Shaw's answer as he plunged into a continuation of his anti-court crusade.

Last night on a 200-mile trek in which he talked to hundreds of farmers in the Arkansas River Valley.

SUBS. OF VICTORY

This morning Shaw leaves here on an 80-mile drive over unpaved roads to Trinidad, close to the New Mexico border.

"I've got these fellows licked," he said. "The reception I've received throughout Southeastern Colorado settles it. I'll carry Denver—I'll carry the state.

"The people of Colorado want world peace. They want representatives at Washington who will not endanger their industries, their progress and tranquil pursuit of life, by embroiling this nation in foreign alliances.

"Thas has been shown plainly to me during the past few days, as it has been shown in every state of the nation for the past 10 years from the election of President Harding in 1920 to what happened in Illinois last April.

"America wants none of the League Court, of the World Court, or any child of the League of Nations. This country must be free to act within the limits of her historic policy, unencumbered, maintaining her national independence and deciding for herself and by herself alone, what affairs require her attention and in what manner they are related to her own peace and security."

Court Says Dyer Act Covers Plane Thefts

DENVER, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has held interstate transportation of a stolen airplane constitutes violation of the Dyer act hitherto applied only to automobile thefts.

Federal officials said it was the first such construction placed upon the Dyer act by the Court of Appeals.

The opinion was written by Judge Orie L. Phillips, of New Mexico, and concurred in by Judge George T. McDermott, of Kansas. Judge John H. Cotter, of Oklahoma, dissented.

Ruling on Sunday Baseball Delayed

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Judge Edwin O. Lewis, of Common Pleas Court, announced that his decision on the question of the police breaking up Sunday baseball games would be delayed. He declined to state when the decision would be given.

Hearing in the case, which was an appeal by Malcolm McGowan, manager of the Passon A. A. baseball team; Edward Sherman, manager of the North Penn team, and Tod Vorhees, umpire, from 30 day jail sentences imposed by a police magistrate after they had refused to pay fines of $10 each and costs, was held last Tuesday.

Girl, 11, Confesses Burglaries To Aid Family

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 19.—(AP)—An 11-year-old girl who police said confessed to six burglaries was arrested in the act of robbing an apartment.

She said she was the youngest of five children and had robbed to help support the family. She told her mother she got the money by caring for babies.

Detectives investigating the theft of money and jewels from six houses surprised the girl as she climbed a fire escape and entered an apartment. She was sent home for the night while police started a search for an older girl said to have taught her to steal.

WOMAN, 98, DIES IN HOME FIRE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Reyberger, 98, Plymouth's oldest resident, was suffocated when fire broke out in her home on High street, Plymouth. The blaze, believed to have been caused by a defective flue, caused damage to the extent of $8,000 to furnishings of three families in the building and to the structure itself.

The victim was bedfast, having fallen and fractured her leg two months ago. Her grandson, Ray Royer, made a heroic effort to reach her in the front room on the second floor of the building, but was driven back by the smoke. When the blaze was subdued the woman was found dead by firemen.

CARDINAL HURT IN AUTO CRASH

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Cardinal Rouleau, archbishop of Quebec, suffered a dislocated shoulder in an automobile accident at St. Henri De Levis, Que.

The cardinal was returning to Quebec from Thetford Mines, Que., when a tire of his car was punctured. The car swerved into a ditch and turned over. The cardinal, who is Canada's only prince of the Catholic church, was brought to a hotel here, where an X-ray examination was made. A statement from the archbishops' palace said his injury was not serious.

His secretary and G. E. Cote of Quebec, also in the car, escaped injury.

'PEN' FIRE PLOT RUMOR DENIED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19—(AP.)—State officials, investigating the Ohio Penitentiary fire of four months ago when 320 convicts were killed, were busy denying the rumors of developments in their probe. In the meantime, the investigation was at a standstill, with Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill reporting that nothing new had been developed.

Two convicts, removed from the penitentiary to the city jail, remain in the lockup. Reports that one had confessed a convict plot to fire the penitentiary preliminary to general rioting and escape, were denied by authorities. A second denial that another plot to start a fire in the prison had been discovered last week came from Warden Preston E. Thomas.

20° Cooler Inside...

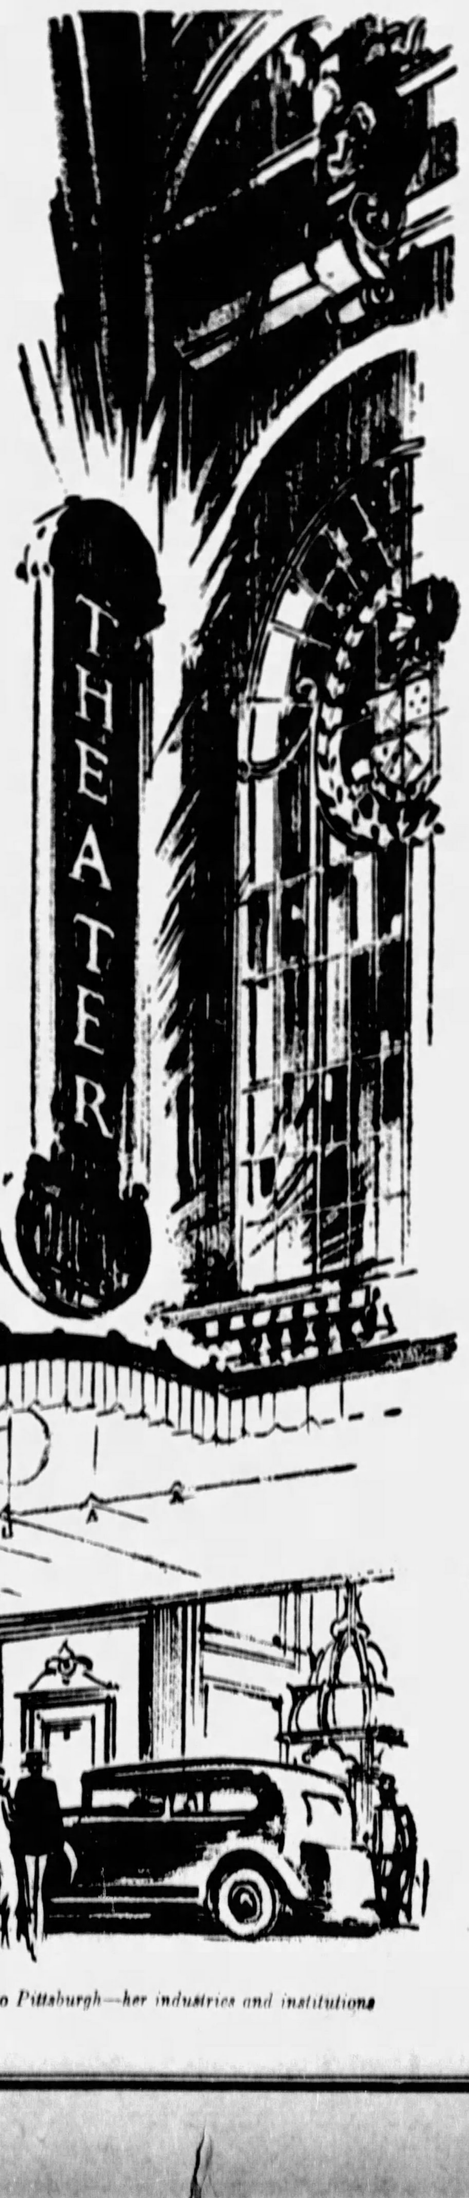
an actual fact in many Pittsburgh Theaters

IT MAY be hotter than hot on the streets, temperatures may go soaring, people may go about sweating and sweltering too uncomfortable to do much of anything...yet they go to the theaters on hot summer afternoons and hot summer evenings, and like it. One reason is, because many of Pittsburgh's modern theaters manufacture their own weather, through the aid of electric power. The pleasant cooling sensation which one experiences while enjoying the program of entertainment is brought about by the operation of extensive machinery and equipment electrically operated and controlled. The atmosphere is never too cool to be chilly nor too warm to be uncomfortable. It's just at that desirable in-between temperature.

Electricity does much for our entertainment. In addition to making us comfortable while watching the show it is an important factor in the presentation of the show itself. From the revues and musical extravaganzas with their spectacular stage effects to the more recent talking "movies" electricity plays a vital role.

Now pictures are not only electrically recorded, under the glare of huge high-powered lights but every picture theater must be electrically equipped throughout to display the films. All this, to say nothing of elaborate house lights .... brilliant lobbies .... and dazzling marquees, which glitter along the streets-sign-posts to hours of relaxation and enjoyment.

Always critical of its entertainment, Pittsburgh has demanded, and received, the best in road shows, movies and resident stock. It has been a source of great satisfaction to the Duquesne Light Company, to have been able to play its part in providing pleasant diversion to Pittsburghers—by furnishing electric power to Pittsburgh theaters.



The services of our engineers are available to theater owners and managers for advice and information concerning any power problems and in planning for the most efficient utilization of electric energy. Call GRant 4300 ... Line 233

PLANES SAVE 3 IN YACHT BLAST

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Coast Guards sought an explanation today of the mysterious explosion which sank the yacht Orion five miles off shore, late yesterday. Two Navy airplanes went to the rescue of its three occupants.

Lieut. Elmer J. Johansen and Ensign Victor Randeker, of the Naval Reserve, took off in amphibians when they saw the distant flash of the explosion, far out on Lake Michigan.

They rescued H. A. Brassert, his son, W. E. Brassert, and J. E. Flatley, who were clinging to debris. All three, suffering from burns and shock, were taken to the Naval Hospital at the Great Lakes training station.

Club Will Play Rummy Until Rain Comes

FAIRMONT, Minn., Aug. 19.—Whatever connection there may be between rummy and rain is not immediately apparent, but nevertheless the Fairmont Recreation Club has started a rummy game which is to continue as long as the drought.

Pastures around Fairmont are burned out and corn production has been cut 25 per cent.

A dozen members of the club—farmers and merchants—were talking it over last night, wondering what they could do about it. Somebody recalled college boys who didn't shave until their football team won. The upshot was the decision to keep on playing rummy in shifts, day and night.

GIFT CAR LEADS TO GIRL'S DEATH

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Miss Mary Pope, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Pope, of New York and Newport, is dead here, the victim of her own automobile, a recent gift of her grandmother.

A prospective debutante in the fashionable summer colony, she was injured fatally last night when her machine collided with another car. She suffered a skull fracture.

Miss Adelaide S. Whitehouse, daughter of former State Senator and Mrs. William F. Whitehouse, who was riding with Miss Pope, escaped with slight injuries. James W. Sullivan, Jr., driver of the second car, was unhurt.

Miss Pope's father is a widely-known architect.

CAROLINA MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

TARBORO, N. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—Oliver Moore, 29-year-old Negro, charged with attacking two small white girls was taken from the Edgecombe County Jail early today by 200 masked men, hanged to a tree and his body riddled by bullets after the mob gained admittance to the jail by a ruse.

Deputy R. O. Watson, who lives with his family at the jail, had retired when he heard a voice calling him. Believing it to be an officer with a prisoner, he went to the door and called "Have you got a man for me?" Someone in the mob answered affirmatively and Watson unbolted the door. As he did he saw the crowd of masked men and made an effort to throw the bolt. The men pushed through, forced him into his office and took all the keys from a peg on the wall. Moore apparently realizing his fate went to his death without a word.

Watson said none of the men in the mob had been recognized. This was the first lynching in North Carolina since 1921.

1,500 STRIKE AT TEXTILE MILLS

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Fifteen hundred employes of the American Mills Nos. 1 and 2 went on strike in protest against a proposed wage cut. There was no disorder.

The entire force of both mills, owned by Frank and Max Goldberg, of Gastonia, was said to have joined in the walkout. The movement was spontaneous, as the workers are not organized, according to E. L. Gillespie, spokesman for the strikers.

SOUTH DAKOTA JOBLESS FEW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—South Dakota set a new low in the unemployment census thus far with its 0.5 per cent of the population "without a job, able to work, and looking for a job."

Alabama, lowest in unemployment percentage of state, previously reported, had 0.8 per cent.

Of South Dakota's 69 counties, four reported the number unemployed as zero, five more had less than one-tenth of one per cent unemployment, 53 more had less than one per cent, and only seven had one in a hundred out of work.

Gypsies 'Hock' 2 Autos to Bail Women Out

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 19.—Wanderings of a group of gypsies will be checked, temporarily at least, as a result of the wanderers putting two automobiles "in hock" here for bail money to release two women members of the group who are being held for court on robbery charges.

A gold necklace, which the nomads declared was handed down from their forefathers in Romany, was also pawned to raise cash to release the two women.

CUT IN TREATY NAVY URGED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Chairman French, of the House Naval Appropriations Sub-Committee, said on his return from London that there was a strong sentiment in England and Japan against building up to the limits set by the London naval treaty.

He said Japan had decided upon a program involving only about one-third of the construction possible under the pact and urged a similar moderate policy for the United States and England.

"Many regard the treaty provisions as a maximum limitation and not as a mandate to build to capacity," he said. "There also is a feeling that if another conference is held in 1935, its accomplishments would be greater if the participating nations had not gone ahead with great construction programs in the intervening five years."

French said that if one nation initiated a maximum building program, the others probably would follow.

French, an Idaho Republican, added that a maximum program for this country would cost about $1,800,000,000 in the next five years.

PROSECUTE 885 IN ARAB RIOTS

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The record of legal proceedings in connection with last August's riots show that action has been taken against 724 Arabs and 161 Jews, as a result of which 421 Arabs and 19 Jews have been convicted.

One hundred and twenty-four Arabs were tried for murder and 55 convicted of this charge. 50 more Arabs had to answer a charge of attempted murder and 17 were found guilty. Of the remainder, 130 were convicted for robbery and incitement and the others for various other kinds of crimes.

Of the Jews, 70 were accused of murder and two convicted. 39 were charged with attempted murder, but only one of these was found guilty. Among the 31 accused of robbery and arson, seven were found guilty.

Collective punishment to the amount of $70,000 was imposed on the destroyers of three Jewish agricultural settlements and of the Jewish communities of Hebron and Safed. This amount does not include the sum payable for Safed, the figure for which has not yet been published.

Juneau Crowd Hails Senate Rail Group

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—A large crowd greeted Senators R. B. Howell, Nebraska; John B. Kendrick, Wyoming, and John Thomas, Idaho, members of the Alaska railroad investigation committee, at a Chamber of Commerce banquet here.

The commercial organization favors continuance of the present system of control and management.

Farmer's Wife Slain, He Kills Employe

BRENHAM, Tex., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Travis Smith, 40, was slain with an ax at her home near Brenham, and Cevalus Ben, Negro, was shot and killed by her husband, who accused the Negro of slaying the woman.

Smith said he came home to find his wife dead, and Ben, an employe on the farm, leaving the house. The farmer told officers he seized a rifle and shot the Negro.

TIME CAR SALES DECREASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Installment sales of automobiles in the United States for June fell considerably below those sold in previous months.

Commerce Department figures showed June financing of such deals involved 332,852 machines, and meant the advance of $141,888,000 to purchasers. In June last year such selling affected 384,520 cars and involved $178,983,000 in advances.

More than half of the June auto sales on time were second hand cars. The amount loaned on the second-hand machines, however, for installment purposes was but $48,000,000.

Traffic Whistles Pass to Help Quiet N. Y.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The tooting of police traffic whistles passed into the limbo today to join such other obsolete sounds as the swish of crinoline and the "clop-clop-clop" of horses' hoofs on pavement.

After a week's tryout, Commissioner Mulrooney ruled that from now on, except in Times square, traffic cops shall signal silently with their hands.

The step is part of a campaign to make New York a quieter place in which to live.

2 SEEK MOTOR BOAT RECORD

BERWICK, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Karl Lawall and Paul Crop, of this city were "chugging" away in their little motor boat on the Susquehanna river here today in an effort to break the motor boat endurance record of 120 hours.

Their boat, dubbed "The Top," started its attempt to break the record at 10:19 a. m., yesterday. The craft is a small boat equipped with an outboard motor.

If the two men break the record they will receive $500 with a bonus of $50 for each hour by which they exceed the present mark.

PARENTS SEE AUTO KILL BOY

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—While their parents looked on from an upstairs window, Gene Lemmon, 6, was killed and Verna Gail Lemmon, 4, perhaps fatally injured by an automobile in front of their home.

The children, playing near the automobile of their father, C. W. Lemmon, funeral director, darted into the path of a car driven by Victor Giles, 19, of Monessen. The car first struck the girl and she fell against her brother knocking him under the wheels.

Giles was held under $1,000 bond pending an investigation.

SONGS BY CONTRALTO AND FAMOUS SOUSA MARCH FEATURES ON RADIO

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The greatest malefactor of the air fell a radio audience to see a prize fight and in the first round.

The broadcasters have had bad luck with their prize fights this season. No sooner is there an end to the foul confusion which formerly characterized the bouts than a good wallop landed in the opening round knocks their piano sky high.

Were the broadcasters to go in for the good old custom of swearing they would long ago have gathered with the fans and their managers in some dark and sound-proof cell and arrived at some reliable method of agreement whereby the fans might be guaranteed the fight they're worth.

BOXING PROMOTERS IN RADIO MEN'S PRAYERS

Radio men, they say, include boxing promoters in their nightly prayers. They should. A championship bout particularly among the heavyweights, sells more sets, lures more listeners than any other type of broadcast. Let a heavyweight championship be scheduled and a whole nations runs—not walks—to the nearest armchair.

Caught unawares in the parting, I nevertheless have been genuinely stirred by a broadcast of a prize fight but once. It was the first Dempsey-Tunney meeting in Philadelphia when the veteran Andrew White informed an incredulous world:

"It's not the same Dempsey at all. It's not the Dempsey we know."

White's comments, free from the customary relentless generalizing that accompanies a microphonic account of a prize fight, were a glowing overture to the symphony of cheers, jabs and clinches which punctuated the rain-soaked air.

Vigorous melodrama loses much of its punch on the air because of the verboten signs against profanity. Radio authors, even those recruited from Broadway, have had to have recourse to the outmoded expressions of mid-Victorian novelists to convey the note of anger and astonishment—to such things as "Gadzooks," "Goodness, Gracious" and "By the great Lord Harry."

Fancy the radio men once they get their restless voices on the plays of today substituting "By the great Lord Harry" for the Deity!

MONARCHS OF MUSIC NEGLECT OLD TUNES

It is difficult to understand why the maharajahs of music do not go to the well of the old countryside tunes for symphonic refreshment. One of two of the tunes, "Pop Goes the Weasel," for example, have been captured—notably by Ernest Bloch—but the remainder are left unhonored by those composers who would reflect the spirit of the old America.

They are busy hunting down Indian airs, they are alert to the illimitable noises of the machine age, they are aware of the ceaseless note of jazz in the land, but they make no effort, with one or two exceptions, to set down the republic of the bustle and the moustache cup.

Were I summoned by a Senate investigating committee to name what, if anything, was the matter with America, with the oldtime American spirit, I would answer without hesitation that "Turkey in the Straw" was not heard enough in the land.

* * *

The parlors of the republic are all ready, have been ready for months—for the Napoleonic accents of Mussolini.

The Mississippi continues to inspire more songs than all the other rivers of the world combined, but the Suwanee, the Volga and the Shannon are best known to the ear-cuppers.

Of all the ballads of the naive Nineties resurrected on the air, "On the Banks of the Wabash" strangely receives the least consideration from the broadcasters.

The panicky condition of new concert violinists on the air is attributed to a fear that Fritz Kreisler may be listening. I wonder if Kreisler tunes into the radio recitals of, say, Mischa Elman?

Were all the politicians who have been heard on the air within the last six months to assemble in parade formation it would take them six hours to pass the reviewing stand of Herbert Hoover. Were all the radio speeches of the Great White Father within the last six months assembled for one program it would take six hours for them to pass the armchairs.

I have waited in vain to hear on the air the official Kansas State Song. For that matter I have waited in vain to hear the unofficial State Song of not only Kansas, but forty-seven other Commonwealths—"How Dry I Am."

ONLY POLO AND YACHT RACES LEFT FOR RADIO

The summer sports schedule of the radio men has only two important events left now for the disintegrating divans—the international polo matches and the international cup races. The polo matches, something really new under the radio sun, should be an exciting earful.

The broadcaster will have difficulty, it seems to me, in making the yacht races thrilling to the eardrums. McNamee may be reduced to such commonplaces as "A breeze has just hit the topsail of the Shamrock . . . Anyway, it looks, it feels like a breeze from here . . . I may be mistaken . . . It may be only an oath from the skipper."

MAKE UP YOUR OWN MIND—NOW!

Frankly, PEBECO Tooth Paste is for those who have found ordinary dentifrices seriously lacking—for people who have grown tired of tooth pastes that claim so much and perform so little. Pebeco keeps its promises—takes up where others leave off. It cleans. It whitens—without scratching the enamel. And by stimulating the flow of saliva it helps Nature check the mouth acids, and thus retards decay. Get acquainted with Pebeco's distinctive taste. It is a dentifrice for thinking people.

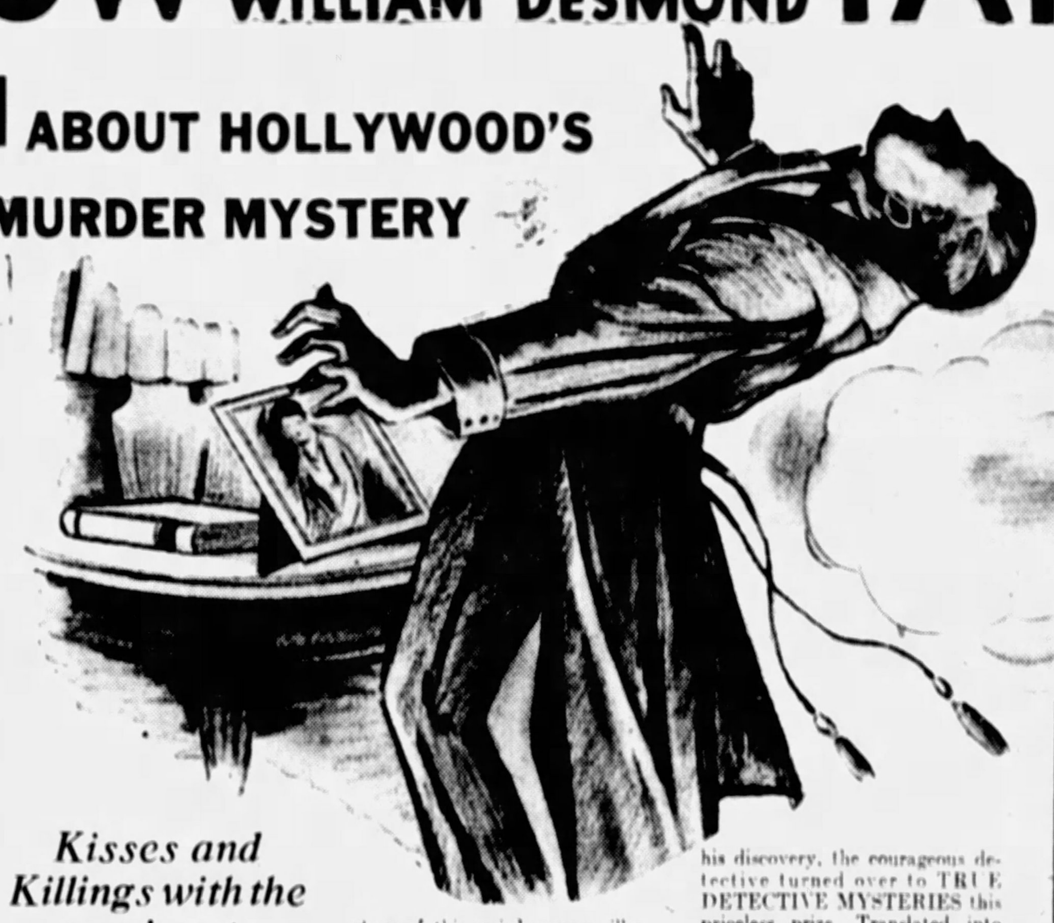
I KNOW WHO KILLED WILLIAM DESMOND TAYLOR

THE TRUTH ABOUT HOLLYWOOD'S STRANGEST MURDER MYSTERY



"I'm go to my room and put on something scant and flowing; then I would lie on the couch and wait for you. I might fall asleep. Then I would awake and find two strong arms around me, and two dear lips pressed to mine in a long, sweet kiss . . ."

Impetuous, ardent love letters from beautiful movie stars . . . clandestine meetings with famous women in his bachelor apartments . . . What was the impelling power that William Desmond Taylor, cultured and mysterious movie director, exercised over the loveliest women? And who was the person who ended this peculiar fascination?

Mary Miles Minter "I love you so"

Was it a blackmailer's gun that spat Death in his back that cold February morning? Did an enraged mother commit murder to rescue her love-crazed daughter? Or did this soldier, rancher, art connoisseur, and gentleman of the world meet his doom at the hands of beauty scorned?

Mabel Normand A fatal revolver

Now, for the first time, you can read for yourself the true evidence in this world-sensational murder mystery. Fact by fact, unsparing of high personages, it is told to you by the man whose keen brain unraveled the tangled maze of conflicting stories, and revealed to him the ACTUAL KILLER!

You simply can't afford to miss this fascinating TRUE story, in the great September issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES, on sale to-day at all news stands. Get your copy before the sell-out!

Kisses and Killings with the passionate "Tiger" Girl!

"My mama shot two cops like you," artlessly prattled 4-year old Donnie Schroeder. Thus came the feverishly-searched-for clue that started a grim 2400-mile hunt for pretty Irene Schroeder, 22-year old trigger woman, and for the Sunday school teacher who shared her illicit love.

Read how machine guns and airplanes assisted a posse of 100 men to rout the killers from their "last stand" on an Arizona desert crag, and how the merciless tiger girl melted to a tender mother when taken at gun's point. Marvel at her strange reaction when sentenced to death. You'll find the TRUE story of this weird woman, illustrated with official photos, in the fascinating September issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES.

The Black Hand Exposed—most sensational scoop in criminal history

Searching for clues in the fiendish slaying of James Caputo, Detective Ricci stumbled upon one of the greatest police finds ever made—the zealously guarded little black book containing all the inner secrets and rituals of the dreaded Black Hand, the Vultures of Death. Shot and almost killed for his discovery, the courageous detective turned over to TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES this priceless prize. Translated into English, it appears word for word, together with an enthralling true story of the secrets of the Black Hand Society. In three parts—the first amazing installment appears in the September issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES.

Tracking the Trackers in the Great Diamond Stick-up

It was one of the most sensational gem robberies of all time, pulled by two of the cleverest, wiliest crooks who ever shadowed a "rock" salesman.

Read for yourself how the observation of a simple train "butcher" ruined the get-away, and recovered $400,000 in diamonds for the San Francisco police.

It's a TRUE story you'll never forget. Look for it in the September issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES!

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

"At Dawning" and "When I'm Looking at You," from "The Rogue Song," will be sung by Alta Shultz, contralto, in the 6:15 o'clock program on KDKA tonight.

Sousa's famous "Thunderer March" will be a part of the Westinghouse Salute to Rochester at KDKA at 10.

The Ponce Sisters, Ethel and Dorothea, will sing "Moanin' Low" for WCAE listeners at 9 o'clock.

Ray Perkins, the Old Topper in the recent Crush Dry Cronies program, returned to the air last night as an added attraction of the Sign of the Shell Program.

Homer Smith, first tenor of The Southernaires, NBC Negro quartet, is the nephew of W. C. Handy, composer of "St. Louis Blues" and "Memphis Blues."

"Volga Boatman" will be sung in Russian by Isidor Belarsky on the 9:30 program at WJAS.

The alarm clock which the Landt Trio and White use to arouse WCAE listeners for their early morning program, "On the 8:15," is an ancient battered affair, which was painted blue in its youth to match someone's bedroom color scheme.

QUESTION A DAY.

Mrs. R. L. Kathius, Homer City —Years ago I heard "The Four Whitneys" on a Chautauqua circuit. Is the Edwin Whitney of Real Folks and other NBC programs, one of these boys and if so, what has happened to the other brothers?

A.—The Whitneys were with Chautauqua. Edwin is now at NBC; Cass Ward Whitney sings over KDKA and Bill and Alvin Whitney, the other boys, live in Bradford, Pa.

Genia Fonarlova, soprano, is to sing "Advice to Lovers" for WCAE listeners at 8 o'clock tonight.

* * *

"Forbes Field" wants to know how a KDKA standard wave program happened to be picked up within 10 degrees of the North Pole, as we stated yesterday in answer to "Question a Day." Inspector Joy, of the Northwest Mounted Police, heard the program and mailed KDKA a letter. It took a month for the letter to reach here. Inspector Joy at that time was approximately 3,000 miles from Pittsburgh.

REAL ART

Stephen Leyshon read the child's prayer "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," etc., with so much feeling a few weeks ago on the Sacred Song Concert that he has been besieged, with letters from mothers who want to know how many children he has. Mr. Leyshon blushes at every mention of the incident. He's a bachelor.

GRANT PERMIT TO KDKA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(INS.)—Station KDKA at Pittsburgh, Pa., operated by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, today was granted a permit by the Federal Radio Commission to remove its transmitter from Pittsburgh to Saxonburg, Pa., and to install new equipment.

The station also was authorized to operate the old and new transmitters in synchronization until power on the old transmitter is gradually reduced and that at Saxonburg increased.

It is understood the change was made in an attempt to correct the "fading" of KDKA's programs in certain sections of the country.

Commission Starts Sales Investigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Faced with the increasing unethical use of broadcasting stations for direct sales promotion, the Federal Radio Commission today was preparing for a showdown, the objective of which will be to place radio service to the public on the plane of "public interest, convenience and necessity," as provided by the law.

SUICIDE IN BANK TRAILS QUIZ

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 19 (AP.)—Officials of the Lumberton National Bank announced in a signed statement that "some irregularities" were found in the department in which Gaylord M. Crady, 35, who shot himself to death Saturday, was employed as assistant cashier.

The amount of the irregularities was not revealed but President Harry Lamberton said the institution was amply protected.

"In his McCrady's absence," the statement said, "some irregularities in the department in which he was employed were discovered. In response to a request, Mr. McCrady attended a conference."

It was following the conference that McCrady took his own life. The "absence" referred to in the statement was caused by an automobile accident in which McCrady several weeks ago suffered a fractured arm, forcing him to remain away from work.

PAINT GAS KILLS TWO ON SHIP

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Chemical reaction between fresh paint and the sides of the hold of the British tanker Tascalusa, is believed by police to have caused gas fumes that killed two workmen and affected 13 others.

The dead are Guadalupe Escalanti and J. Montova. Three others dragged unconscious from the hold, and the other 10 men were taken to a hospital. The Tascalusa was docked at the Bethlehem shipyards for interior cleaning and painting.

Joseph Belentano, foreman of the painting crew, said the paint used was of a kind commonly employed for ship tanks.

STATE LAYS 743 MILES OF ROAD

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—With more than 50 miles of new pavement laid during the week ending last Friday, the total contracted road construction on state highway routes reached 616 miles for the season, the Department of Highways announced today.

The department's own forces built 127 miles of new roads themselves, which brought the total to 743, considerably above the half-way mark of the 1,300-mile program which has been laid out by the department for 1930. The contractors and the department had 26,500 men employed last week in building roads.

The department yesterday awarded contracts on 20 road, bridge and grading projects in the state, for which bids were opened last Friday.

NEVILLE COKE

From Neville Island

NEVILLE COKE is made on historic Neville Island.

This island once belonged to General John Neville, a gallant and beloved officer during the War of the Revolution. It was part of a tract of land deeded to him by the government in recognition of distinguished services. General Neville was about the same age as George Washington, whose friend he was. Like George Washington, he belonged to Braddock's expedition. Like him, after the close of the Revolution, he continued to serve his country. And Neville Island Mansion, the home of his daughter, was—like Mount Vernon—a place of unbounded hospitality. Neville orchards and gardens, that once surrounded the mansion, are historic memory. Now, the actuality of the place is the scientific manufacture of smokeless fuel—NEVILLE COKE. Fuel with such a name has a tradition of fineness to carry on.

Neville Coke time signals are given every hour throughout the day over KDKA. Listen for Grandfather Neville's sayings at 9 a. m., 12 noon and 6 p. m.

Ask your dealer about NEVILLE COKE now, while summer prices are available, or telephone Atlantic 2290. Interesting information will be sent to you.

Five $1,000 Bills

ALLAN TENANT, MANAGER OF THE HANCOCK NATIONAL BANK IDENTIFIES THE BODY OF OLIVER WEADON
SERGEANT OWENS
CAPT. MORGAN
DALE AND REPORTERS BEING DIRECTED TO REAR ROOM WHERE THE BODY OF WEADON LIES.
DALE
PHILIP DUROCKER
RUTH— "GEORGE, WHAT HAVE YOU DONE?"
GEO— "KEEP OUT OF THIS, RUTH!, I'LL HANDLE IT!"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Oliver Weadon, bank cashier, absconds with $100,000. Among the loot are five $1,000 bills. Shortly after his disappearance Weadon is found murdered. The newspapermen, with headquarters at an undertaking shop, get on the case.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER II.

Watts snapped out of his snooze and quickly followed the three other reporters out into the rain. The precinct was diagonally across the street from Durocker's undertaking and embalming parlor. Sergt. Owens was at the desk and he nodded toward the rear of the station, where the boys found Capt. Morgan and two of his detectives, Clymer and Reardon, in a room with something that looked like a body covered with a huge sheet.

Capt. Morgan told them it was Oliver Weadon. The body had been discovered by a watchman in one corner of a little-used covered dock near the foot of West Sixty-ninth street, not more than an hour before.

"Skull bashed in with some blunt instrument . . . probably the butt end of a gun."

"Was the money found on him, Captain?" asked Robin Dale.

Capt. Morgan shook his head. He reached into his pocket and drew out a single banknote. He held it out. Dale and the other reporters saw that it was a $1,000 bill.

"That's all, boys. One thousand bucks, all in a lump, and not another sou on him. No one saw anybody enter the dock or come out of it. We have a couple of people under suspicion and expect to make an arrest before the night is over."

"That's okay, captain," grunted Watts. "We'd say that anyway, even if us fellows don't believe it. Just for our info, have you got any dope on this thing at all?"

"Sure. Clymer and Reardon here are working on something and Sergt. Owens is going out on something else tonight."

They were interrupted by the entrance of Allen Tenant, the manager of the bank. He went through the grizzly task of identifying the dead man. He then took the $1,000 bill and compared the numbers on it with a list he had in his pocket.

"That's one of the stolen bills, Capt. Morgan! The number is on our list—C 3358 M 1726."

Tenant was about to pocket it when Capt. Morgan shook his head.

"You'll get it back, Mr. Tenant, but we'll have to hold it awhile as an exhibit in the case. It's safer here than it was in your bank."

The following day it was still raining and, if anything, it had become colder. Robin Dale went into Durocker's early in the afternoon. Sig Lippman was just stretching and yawning after a long session of rummy. O'Reilly and Pop Durocker had been in the game.

"I think I'll go over to Mickey Flanagan's an' ward off a cold. Comin', Dan?" Lippman said as he rose to his feet.

Robin Dale had been left alone in the shop to take messages for the gang when, some little time later, the door opened and a young man came in. He seemed to be very nervous and looked around furtively, spotted Durocker and went to the little railed-in portion of the shop that Pop kept to transact his own business.

"I want to buy a casket!" said the young man.

"Of course, sir . . of course!" And Pop Durocker took down some dusty folders and laid out pictures for the young man to look at . . . "Here's something very nice, sir . . . one hundred and fifty dollars . . . unless you want something better."

"What I want is a good, strong pine box . . . yes, that one will do. Send it, this afternoon, to No. 1142 West Seventy-eighth street. The name's Bradshaw . . . Jack Bradshaw. Here's a deposit—get the balance C. O. D."

Robin Dale could not help overhearing the conversation. The young man hurried toward the door. As he was about to open it it swung back and a young lady entered the shop. Dale had been looking toward the door. He immediately recognized the little lady as the secretary he had spoken to at the Hancock National Bank. He remembered her distinctly; in fact, he had thought about her not a little since the casual meeting at the bank. He overheard the few words that passed between the two at the door.

"George, what have you done?"

"Keep out of this, Ruth! I'll handle it!"

"You must tell me, George. What have you been doing here?"

The young man made no further answer, but brushed past her out into the rain. She stood for a moment in indecision. Robin Dale had risen and was walking toward her. She recognized him and tried to smile.

"Maybe I can help you, Miss—Miss——" said Dale a bit shyly.

"Miss Hackett. Please, what was that young man in here for?"

"I heard him order a casket. It's being sent to 1142 West Seventy-eighth street, I think the address was—the name sounded like Jack Bradshaw."

"But there' no one dead at that address! What will I do?"

She seemed very unstrung, trying to hold her emotions.

"Maybe I can help you. I'm a newspaper man," . . . that a little proudly. "I'm on the Daily Journal. You say there's no one dead at 1142 West Seventy-eighth street. Why the casket?"

"Oh . . I'm afraid." She looked up at Robin and for a long moment was silent. "No, please . . you're too . . . nice, to be brought into this."

Without another word she turned and almost ran into the street. Robin Dale felt the urge to follow, but she had refused his offer. Finally he walked meditatively toward his rickety chair. For almost an hour he could not get the little lady with the deep blue eyes from his mind . . blue eyes that looked so sad and troubled. The telephone bell broke his silence finally.

He listened to the city editor's voice in a daze. This was the message.

"Go up to 1142 West 78th . . , the police just reported a murder. Phone the story when you get it an' make it snappy."

1142 West 78th! A murder but a few minutes before! The casket was ordered for someone who was still alive when the order was given. And the girl was mixed up in it! Robin Dale buttoned up his overcoat and dashed out.

GIVE TO Charity BEFORE YOU GIVE UP THE GHOST!

NINE-TENTHS of the history of generous impulses can be summed up in the single word: POSTPONED—think, for example, how many millions for charity are locked up in the Wills of the living waiting for the testators to die!—and think how much more charitable it would be if some of those frozen funds were working now to alleviate human suffering and distress—how much greater is the charity that gives before dying instead of dying before giving!—why not do a little more while you're here and leave a little less when you go?

The DE PAUL INSTITUTE would like to be remembered in your Will but that does not help the DE PAUL INSTITUTE right now—it cannot take care of today's burdens with tomorrow's bequests—its needs are imperative and immediate—it must raise $40,000.00 a year to carry on its Christ-like activity of making the deaf to hear and the mute to speak—and it asks you in your charity to draw a check in behalf of the great charitable work that every hour draws upon it for support.

Bishop Boyle has ordered a collection for this great undertaking in every Catholic Church on Sunday, August 24th, the day on which the Gospel relates the miracle of Christ healing the deaf mute. A dollar from every one in the Diocese of Pittsburgh would carry on this noble charity. If you can both hear and speak, may we count upon your contribution of at least a dollar next Sunday?

Mary Nolan Not to Play Movie 'Ex-Mistress' As Was Planned

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Hard luck continues to follow Mary Nolan. Due to story changes and a delayed starting date on the picture, it is likely that she will not get the feminine lead in "Ex-Mistress."

This is the Warner film, for which the blonde star gave up a role in Universal's "Boudoir Diplomat." Since then, Warners have re-written the story so that it calls for a different type.

Even so, Mary might have been retained but for the fact that Universal isn't willing for her to remain idle while "Ex-Mistress" is being worked into final screen shape.

Mary Nolan

The only other player affected by the delay is Ben Lyon, the leading man. Roy Del Ruth, the director, is under long term contract to Warners.

Friends of Mary Nolan say she has lost eight pounds through worry because of the unpleasant publicity that followed the charge of two nurses that she took narcotics. Officials vindicated her of the accusation.

EMBARRASSING MOMENT

Al Jolson complains that it is hard to live up to the reputation he gained by knocking out a man who annoyed his wife, Ruby Keeler.

The other night at the fights, a fellow sitting behind the Jolsons persisted in knocking their favorite. Finally, Ruby turned and glared at him.

"Your man is pretty weak, too, isn't he?" she taunted.

"Shh!" cautioned Al, "that guy is plenty big."

"Oh, that's all right," said Ruby, "I knew you had him, Al."

GROWING UP

Jackie Coogan, who's making his audible debut in "Tom Sawyer," is growing up. He is 15 years old, is 5 feet in height, weighs 95 pounds and has dark blonde hair and brown eyes.

MARY ASTOR SIGNED

After her performance in "Holiday," Mary Astor has been sought by a number of film producers. A contract calls for her to appear as the feminine lead in "Taming the Beast," the picture which Louis Wolheim will direct and act in for R. K. O.

Mary Astor

Keane Thompson is writing the story which has a sea background. It is said that he, also, will act in it.

Wolheim is the second actor to be given a chance to direct at R. K. O.

Lowell Sherman has done very well with his first attempt. Incidentally, I met Wolheim today on his way to pay $1,400 bridge debt to a United Artists producer. A certain clique of actors and producers play for dizzy stakes almost nightly in the film colony.

They call Wolheim "the professor" in Hollywood. This harks back to the time he taught mathematics in a preparatory school for Cornell.

PRODUCERS PUZZLED

All you hear around the studios is praise of Pathe's "Holiday." Rival producers are just as keen about it as its makers.

John Considine, general manager of United Artists, is one of its many boosters.

He says that it only heightens the puzzle of how to produce talking pictures.

"There are two trends in the films today," he explains. "One is to put stage plays on the screen with as few changes as possible. 'Holiday' is the outstanding argument for this theory.

"The other method is to stress motion, to take every possible advantage of the camera's flexible range. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer seems to have come pretty close to the proper formula here with 'The Big House,' 'The Divorcee' and 'Our Blushing Brides.'

"My own opinion is that motion is the most important of the two, but it is a teasing question."

TOL'ABLE DAVID

"Tol'able David" is to receive a careful treatment in the audi-films. John V. A. Weaver has been engaged to write dialogue for the picture. There will be two directors, Jack Blystone on the film end and Perry Ivins on the dialogue. Studio heads realize that one of their chief handicaps will be the halo that surrounds the silent picture made by Dick Barthelmess years ago.

Mrs. Hudnut Sues Over Stock Deal

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Two suits aggregating $17,500 with interest, alleging fraudulent representation, were filed in United States District Court here by Winifred K. Hudnut, widow of the cosmetic manufacturer, and the National City Bank of New York, against Ellis C. Freed, of this city.

They allege the Hudnuts, personal friends of Freed, believed representations he made concerning the value of stock in the Ellis Holding Company, which they bought to the value of $17,500. They claim they found later there was no such company.

Birds Rout Snake From Tree, Boy Kills It

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—A "tree sitting" snake's endurance efforts resulted in its death in Penbrook, a suburb, when birds routed it from its perch. It fell on the head of Marlin Weaver, 10 and the boy clubbed it to death.

Marlin was standing under a plum tree in the rear of his home when his gaze was directed upward by the shrill cries and antics of several birds, hovering around the tree top. Marlin felt something land on his head, saw it was a snake and promptly clubbed it to death.

The Weaver family said the snake was a copperhead, 18 inches long. A controversy was threatened over the questions of whether it was a blacksnake or whether snakes climb trees.

4 DROWN WHEN FERRY SINKS

WESTMORELAND, N. H., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Divers today were endeavoring to recover the bodies of four persons, drowned in the sinking of an old flat-bottomed cable ferry in the Connecticut river here last night.

Ray Austin, 30, of East Putney, Vt., his wife, their baby daughter, and William Clark, a boarder at the Austin home, were those drowned.

They were trapped in one of two automobiles crossing from this town to East Putney when the ferry sank. The automobile was located at the bottom of the river.

An occupant of the second automobile, a foot passenger, and the 75-year-old operator of the ferry, swam to safety.

An uneven distribution of the weight of the two automobiles was believed to have caused the accident.

Six prisoners from the Westmoreland House of Correction responded to a request for divers.

Two Waive False Pretense Hearing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Dr. W. W. Stonestreet and George C. Phillips, both of this city, waived a preliminary hearing before a Grafton justice of the peace and posted $1,000 bonds to await action of the Taylor County grand jury on charges of obtaining money under false pretense.

Howe R. Knotts, Will Grimes and Dorsey Shroyer, all of Grafton, signed warrants charging that Dr. Stonestreet and Phillips induced them to join a so-called Masonic lodge which they claim is not recognized by regularly constituted Masonic bodies.

HOMELAND CUSTOM GOOD PRACTICE

Polish Mother Was Too Sick To Follow Best Way

"It is the custom in the old country, and we believe it is good practice, for the mother to raise her children on breast milk. Often it is considered a disgrace for her to do otherwise. My older children were all raised that way," said a Polish lady who has lived here for about fifteen years. "But when my last baby came I was too sick to try to nurse her. This climate had proved too changeable for me. I would get up in the mornings with my throat full of phlegm and my stomach as heavy as lead. I could get around somewhat, but whatever I did tired me out completely. I coughed some, but the main trouble I had was with my stomach, which had bothered me ever since I had the flu. I was constipated and had to take physics. My stomach would swell up after eating and I would belch gas. If ever I was homesick for the old country it was then. It seemed to me if I could get away from the fogs and the sudden weather changes I could get well.

"So you see my baby was not born under the best of conditions. I did not have the strength to feed it properly, and the little girl has never been as strong and healthy as the other children. I did not get better rapidly after the child came, and had a good deal of trouble with my liver. I had bilious spells, that gave me a headache and made me feel light-headed at times.

"I dragged around for several months, and had begun to think I never would get well when my husband got me a bottle of World's Tonic, the new medicine that helps us foreigners that I understand comes from different parts of the world. A few doses made a great change in me. The bilious spells disappeared almost at once, my stomach got well, and my cough and dizziness left me. Now, after a few weeks' treatment, I feel as well as I ever did, and will try to make up to the child for what she has been deprived of, in extra good care. If I had known of World's Tonic before she was born I am sure she would have had a better start in life."

World's Tonic can be obtained of Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Marflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-97)

JEWELER UNDER BOND IN ARSON PLOT

Seven Injured in Auto Accidents

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

We can't make up our mind what to do about today's mail. There is a letter from an unidentified person in Chicora, Pa., who writes that there is an auto-greasing shop in New Castle street, Butler, which calls itself a lubritorium.

Then there is a long letter from a gentleman who describes himself as Graham Francis Bott, chalk-talk entertainer and cartoonist, of Wilson, Pa. Among many other things Mr. Bott writes that he likes this column best in the Sunday paper and that the illustrations are good. There is, too, a note from a friend who reveals that John M. Phillips and his daughter, who is a society editor, are going to hunt grizzlies in the Canadian Rockies, or somewhere in Canada.

Then there is this:

"Dear Mister Pfarr:

"I don't suppose you listen to Amos and Andy. Your work probably keeps you pretty busy. But I do, and I know a lot of people who never miss them. There is such a gang which gathers in a Mt. Washington funeral home every night. When Henry Van Porter was negotiating for Amos' $75, more than $500 changed hands among this bunch of fans. They were betting whether Amos would fall for the holding company proposition.

"You do not have to put my initials under this if you use it. Somebody may think that I am trying to muscle in on your racket.

Two prohibition items: On one of the recent hot days, Attorney John S. Pyle, former deputy prohibition administrator, was defending in Federal Court a client charged with possessing 50 barrels of good, cold beer. And Attorney Pyle, a practical prohibitionist but sweltering in court, confessed later to a friend that a glass of the moot beverage certainly would have gone far at the moment.

Item No. 2: Headline: Attorney Gets Revenge: Just before he departed Pittsburgh, Commander Pennington was driving near Morgantown, W. Va., when his car broke down. Attorney Mason, prominent Morgantown lawyer, happened to drive by. He and Pennington have had several court differences. Mason saw to it that Pennington's car was repaired and drove on, saying to himself that one of the sweetest revenges possible was to repair a prohibition administrator's broken-down vehicle.

A friend of ours has just given us an item about a safety pin which we have decided not to publish. However, this reminds us that in the eight months or so we have been writing Sidewalks we have never said anything for or against safety pins. Probably the thought never occurred to us that we should take sides on the safety pin question. We have gone on record as opposed to the powerful Pennsylvania Railroad's clock and have minced only a few words on masters of ceremonies, but—and we hope you don't think we're afraid—we have been strangely silent on the matter of safety pins. We shall ponder this problem and, if the demand is strong enough, announce our decision publicly. The safety pin interests had better beware.

Will Rogers Says:

TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Aug. 19.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Highlights in today's news are about as follows: They have a home-made miniature golf course at Mr. Hoover's Virginia camp, so the hardships of his staying on the job all summer have been greatly exaggerated.

St. Louis fliers come down to play vaudeville till somebody breaks their record, when they will resume their flight. King Carol's coronation has been called off, as nobody offered to buy the moving picture rights. Three senators visiting Russia looking up material to help prolong debate next session.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

TWO SISTERS VICTIMS IN COLLISION

Four Riders Hurt as Cars Crash Near Duquesne; Forest Hills Wreck Scene

Five of seven persons injured in two automobile accidents, one in Forest Hills and the other near Duquesne late yesterday, were in hospitals today.

A young woman was injured slightly in the accident.

The fire destroyed a small shed in the rear of the home of Mrs. W. Zehfuss, 1923 West Liberty avenue, with $100 loss.

The machine of Richard Baker, 24, 57 Wyoming street, ran against the rear of the halted machine of Robert E. Allenbach, 23, of 1509 Metropolitan street.

Allenbach's car struck the machine of Jesse Bahl, 23, of 1029 Saw Mill boulevard, throwing Bahl's car against the rear of a Pittsburgh Motor Coach driven by Robert Kegler, 23, of Willock road, Brentwood.

MAN ARRESTED IN SWINDLE

While Meyer Giffin, 31, of 15 Wellsford street, was being held in the Oakland Police Station as a fake automobile insurance agent, police today were searching for a second man said to be Giffin's accomplice.

Giffin's arrest in Forbes street yesterday was caused by Mrs. Anna Napoleon, of 3139 Ward street. Representing himself as an agent for an automobile protective service, Giffin, according to police, collected $15 from Mrs. Napoleon for protective service several months ago. She failed to get her certificate of membership and becoming suspicious, wired the company in Philadelphia. She then discovered that she was swindled, police reported.

State Senator Frank J. Harris, father of voting machine legislation, has denied charges of Charles J. Pommer, Philadelphia councilman, that he represented a voting machine company.

In part Senator Harris said:

"I want to say to Councilman Pommer, in language as strong as I can command, that I am not now, nor have I ever been the owner of even one share or any part of a share of stock in any voting machine company; that I have no connection directly or indirectly with the same, and that I am not interested either as agent, officer, representative or friend of any such company, and I now call on Councilman Pommer to either prove his statement or retract it."

HURT ON DUTY, OFFICERS SUE

Two city policemen have filed damage suits in Common Pleas Court as a result of injuries they received in traffic accidents.

Anthony H. Hein, traffic officer at West Carson street and the Corliss tunnel, sued Edward Hawkins, of Dormont, for $20,000. He charges that July 6 he signalled Hawkins to stop his automobile, but says the latter disregarded the order and drove on, knocking down the officer. Hein says his right knee was dislocated and he suffered body bruises.

Thomas W. McGuire, motorcycle patrolman, sued the Pittsburgh Railways Company for $15,000. He says that July 2, while patroling North Negley avenue on his cycle, a street car disregarded a red stop sign at Negley avenue and Baum boulevard and hit his machine. He avers his left ankle was broken and that he suffered other hurts.

Sues for $40,000 As Result of Fall

A price of $40,000 has been placed by Mrs. Frances Efremenko, of 35 Reed street, on injuries she sustained when she stepped through a hole in the sidewalk beside a broken cellar door, in a suit on file today in Common Pleas Court against the City of Pittsburgh. She claims that August 13, while walking in front of 2204 Forbes street, her leg went through the hole, causing her to fall and suffer severe injuries.

FIND RUBBISH SOAKED IN GASOLINE

Lighted Candle Put Out By Firemen; Odor in Penn Ave. Store Causes Alarm

Because city detectives had not completed their investigation into an alleged arson plot at the wholesale jewelry firm of Friedman Brothers, 812 Penn avenue, Max Friedman, 38, of 6654 Ridgeville street, a member of the company, was released today in $10,000 bond following a hearing in Central Police Court.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg released Friedman under bond after the detectives told him they still had several threads to unravel before summing up their case. A later hearing date has not been set.

The alleged plot was discovered early today.

Eddie Panner, Negro porter in a barber shop beneath the jewelry store, detected a strong odor of gasoline and notified Charles Lucas, superintendent of the building, it is said. Fire Capts. Charles Carroll and John McGlumphy, called to the place, found a pile of gasoline-soaked paper, rubbish and excelsior in the rear part of the store, according to detectives. Atop of the pile of rubbish, the firemen said, they found a candle burning. Celluloid toilet articles and other inflammable material, detectives allege, were piled on shelves in the rear room.

The blaze, Fire Chief Richard Smith believed, probably would have proved disastrous.

Friedman was arrested at his home on a suspicious person charge three hours after police were informed of the alleged arson attempt.

Agents First Customers, Rum Shop Failure

As a retail bootleg liquor dealer, Edwin Buettner was a decided failure, according to testimony before the United States commissioner, when he was arraigned on a charge of selling and possessing liquor.

He opened an establishment last week in Virgin way, it was said. Business was poor and the only customers Friday were said to be two strangers. The following day he learned they were prohibition agents, when they led a raiding squad on his place and reported seizing gin and whisky.

Buettner said he tried to escape from a rear door but found it guarded by a big prohibition agent.

"The only way I could have escaped the raiders was by the windows," said Buettner, "and I had no wings to fly."

He was held for court under bond.

GETS PROPOSAL, BUT MAN'S NOT ACCEPTABLE

Five Letters Received, Some Lauding Purpose; Watches for Postman

Gertrude Schrader, the 18-year-old East End miss who announced yesterday that she would marry "any American under 35" for $8,000, still was single today.

At her home at 5338 Kincaid street Miss Schrader received five letters, and one of them contained an acceptance of her offer, but Gertrude said it was not the sort to consider.

Two of the letters were from New York admirers, who lauded her willingness to marry for money which Gertrude says will pay the family debts and allow for an operation to save her father's failing sight.

Another letter, anonymous, suggested that Miss Schrader was "crazy," and the fifth was from a man in Freeland, Pa., who asked for a full-length photograph and said he would be pleased to help her, but did not propose marriage.

Miss Schrader is awaiting the next mail.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question — An East End girl would wed any American, with $8,000, to aid her father. Is such a sacrifice necessary or desirable?

MISS ELVIRA KENNEDY, clerk, North Side—I should say not. In my opinion love is always first. Money, of course, is necessary, and is always good to have, but it isn't the most important thing in life.

Miss Kennedy

Harry Sende

HARRY SENDE, shop owner, Bellevue—No, it isn't. Any girl is foolish for going in for such a proposition, no matter what it's for. There are other things she might do to help her father rather than that.

Mrs. Barber

MRS. A. L. BARBER, shop owner, Bellevue—No, I don't think so. If she's ambitious she could go out and earn the money. Of course, that's a lot of money to earn if she needs it right away, but there ought to be some other way out of that situation.

Miss Brown

MISS VIOLA BROWN, beautician, North Side—No, that's altogether too far-fetched to be sensible. And it's a foolish thing to do even if she does need the money for her father.

James Davis

JAMES DAVIS, barber, Bellevue—No, that would never be either necessary or desirable under any conditions. It's a silly thing to do when there are so many ways a girl could get help.

Miss Kearns

MISS NANCY KEARNS, beautician, West View—No, that's too great a sacrifice on the girl's part to be sensible. With the opportunities of making money that there are today she should have more consideration for herself than that.

The boys are Robert, Lawrence and James Gravely, and their cousin, Samuel King.

2 FINED IN DRY 'SHAKEDOWN'

At the hearing this morning Guidone charged Mrs. Lapinski with giving him $20 to buy liquor for her. He stated that he had turned the money over to his wife to return to Mrs. Lapinski.

Magistrate Sweeney added, after passing a sentence on the two men, that if Anna Guidone, the wife, did not return the money, Mrs. Lapinski should come in and make a charge of extortion.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke and a third hurt in a fall.

The show was a special performance of a religious drama held under the auspices of the Italian Fascist Society.

Longer Pilot Flies, Safer He Is, Until—

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—In a report issued by the Actuarial Society of America, statistics were cited tending to show that the longer a pilot flies the safer it is to fly with him—up to a certain point.

The report said the death rate among licensed transport pilots who had less than 400 hours in the air was 79 per 1,000 during 1929. Among those having 400 hours the rate was only 20 per 1,000. But the 400-hour mark seemed to mark the peak in the path to perfection. As the time aloft mounted above 400 hours, almost no decrease was found in the death rate.

WOULD FIX WAR MEDAL POLICY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Faced with a shower of measures providing for the award of decorations to veterans of the World War, a House committee has decided to formulate a policy for disposing of this legislation.

Present law set a five-year period for the award of medals for World War heroism and the War Department is opposed to any extension of the time. Congressional efforts have been made to secure such extension, but Army officials feel awards should not be made after memories of witnesses begin to dim, and the daring deeds take on proportions they did not possess on the field of battle.

A Board of Awards and Decorations composed of army men has been at work on individual cases, but friends of the veterans fear many may be passed up in the short time available.

The pressure has led to attempt at congressional action. Hearings on the subject, it appeared today, will be initiated soon after the December session of Congress begins.

BOY, 11, BURNED IN CAMP, DIES

The heroic efforts of Richard Gibson, 16, of 3235 Latonia avenue, Dormont, to save Sidney Cohen, 11, of 2410 Shady avenue, from death by fire were unavailing when on Saturday night Cohen's clothing caught fire from a kerosene lantern at Camp Porter, Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. camp, near Conneaut, O. He died in the Brown Memorial Hospital at Conneaut Sunday.

According to witnesses, Cohen's clothes caught fire when he attempted to light a lantern filled with gasoline. Gibson and his father, standing 150 feet away, were attracted by the boy's cries. Young Gibson rolled the youth on the ground. One of the cooks wrapped a coat around Cohen, extinguished the fire.

HOLD SLEUTH IN SURETY CASE

Edwin T. McGough, former inspector of city detectives, head of the Edwin T. McGough Detective Agency, and president of the Edwin T. McGough Motor Aid Society, was ordered by Police Inspector J. N. Hoey, of the Oakland Police Station, to post a $1,000 bond today following a hearing given Meyer Giffen, 35, before Magistrate James J. O'Connor this morning.

Giffen, charged by Anthony Napoleon, 3139 Ward street, with obtaining money under false pretense, was held over for court by the magistrate. He was arrested when Anna Napoleon, wife of Anthony, recognized him on Eighth street, followed him and had him arrested.

Napoleon charged that Giffen, representing himself as an agent for the United Service Company of Pennsylvania, with headquarters at Philadelphia, promised Napoleon, in case of accident, that for $29 he could call on the company for bond up to $10,000, the services of an attorney, towing services and repairs up to $5. Napoleon is alleged to have declared that an agent of McGough had approached him before with an almost identical proposition.

He said he had given the McGough man $10, with the balance due when the certificate was delivered. Giffen said he would take the $10 certificate and $5 and would make everything all right. The certificate of protection again did not come and the balance was not paid.

McGough will be given a hearing tomorrow.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher Marries in Georgia

There's something romantic, even to determinedly unsentimental twentieth century minds, about the last weddings of summer, especially if they take place in the glamorous South.

In a wedding which took place last night in the South there's more interest than elusive romance since the bridegroom is one of Pittsburgh's sons.

The bride was Mathilda Lumpkin Upson, daughter of the Stephens Cummins Upsons, of Athens, Ga., and the bridegroom was Paul De Forest Hicks, of Pittsburgh, son of the Harry Wade Hickses, of Pittsburgh and the Lake Placid Club, N. Y.

The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock in the drawing room of the Upson home, decorated with palms and ferns and smilax and sheaves of gladioli and vases of Easter lilies.

Lovely Gowns

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisitely simple gown of white tulle with a veil of tulle and real lace and carried orchids and gardenias.

Mrs. Ralph M. Goss, aunt of the bride, as matron of honor, Louise Upson as her sister's maid of honor, and Marie Upson, another sister of the bride, and Mrs. Harriet Hicks Smith, of Pittsburgh, Mr. Hicks' sister, as bridesmaids wore dresses of mouline de soie in green, and carried bouquets of vari-colored garden flowers.

Livingston T. Merchant, of New York, was best man, and Charles Lockhart and George H. Flynn, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and Stephen L. Upson, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following a wedding trip the Hickses will live in Pittsburgh.

The bride is the great granddaughter of Georgia's first chief justice, Joseph H. Lumpkin, and the daughter of the president of the Southern Law School.

If you doubt for a second that Pittsburgh is nearly deserted during late August by society women, just try to call up a few of your friends. I dare prophesy that nine out of 10 will be enjoying the final days of resort life in the East.

Leaving Resorts

Late this month folks will begin to return, and by mid-September there'll be a satisfying representation of society here in town again.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park are expected home the latter part of this week. They've been at Newport and other resorts on the Atlantic coast. At Newport they had entries in the horse show Saturday.

Miss Vivian Janice Cahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Maier Cahan, of Coraopolis, became the bride of Albert Harold Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reeves, of Germantown, Pa., on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Hotel Ritz-Carlton, Atlantic City, with the Rev. Sherman Hallperin, of Pittsburgh, officiating, before an altar of palms, ferns and seven-branched candelabra, entwined with smilax.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin with a flared skirt, long tight sleeves and a court train. From a coronet of real lace fell her veil of tulle. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies and white orchids.

Her only attendant, her sister, Mrs. David Whitman, wore chartreuse chiffon and ecru lace, and carried Pernet roses. Leonard Cahan, brother of the bride, was best man and Jay Harris, David Whitman, Albert Cahan and Dr. Nathan Shaeffer, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Leonard Goldenson, of Scottdale, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a gown of sand-embroidered net, and the mother of the bridegroom, lavender chiffon. They both had corsages of orchids.

A dinner with covers laid for 50 followed the ceremony.

Following a Canadian trip Mr. and Mrs. Reeves will be at home in Germantown after September 15.

Verein Leader Raps Equal Rights Trend

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—The assertion that legislative adoption of extremists' ideas of equal rights would result in throwing women into closer economic competition with men was made yesterday by Mrs. Sophie Catherine Weavering, of Quincy, Ill., president of the National Catholic Women's Union, in an address at the convention of the Catholic Central Verein of America.

Formal presentation of a cash gift to the verein from its membership, totaling $30,000, was made.

As a preliminary meeting to the National Safety Congress, which convenes here September 29 to October 3, the Congress of Clubs will give a safety luncheon on Wednesday, September 17, at the clubhouse. The program, which has been arranged under auspices of the speakers' bureau of the Safety Congress, will include a talk by the Rev. There will also be a slow motion film.

LAWYERS HEAR CRITICISMS

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Kind words for prison inmates and harsh ones for lawyers were spoken today at preliminary conferences of the American Bar Association, which formally opens its 1930 convention Wednesday.

The kind words were spoken by Attorney General Percy Saint, of Louisiana, who ventured the belief the prison population could be reduced 25 to 30 per cent under the parole law, and that it would be for the good of society.

At another group meeting, by attorneys seeking a closer union of bar associations, the hard words were spoken by Justice Royal A. Stone, of the Minnesota Supreme Court. Justice Stone said:

"No profession is put on a lower plane than ours. There have been 19 centuries of constant criticism, with no real effort at counter-propaganda."

NECKLINES ARE ONE-SIDED IN THEIR FALL ATTITUDES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, AUG. 19.—Necklines are taking a decidedly one sided attitude toward Fall daytime dresses. Despite their definite sartorial gestures in this direction there is a softness about them that is determinedly flattering. These effects are gained in multitudinous ways, each designer finding the neckline a point for individual expression. Soft draped effects either in self or contrasting material, often terminating with a bow at one side obtain generally, however. Often the neckline is cut with a V pointing down toward one hip and now and again there is a bow accenting the lowest point of the V with another bow posed at the waistline on the opposite side. From our observations here we recommend that you watch this trend closely and consider its possibilities in choosing your first Fall frocks, especially those of afternoon or semi-dressy conception.

DOEUILLET DOUCET shows how the neckline may thoroughly be in accord with this one-sided movement yet provide a neat and interesting finish for a tailored daytime dress, as illustrated in the drawing today. The model is of black broadcloth with a narrow upstanding collar of white satin which ties in a soft bow at one side. The skirt is intricately cut with a long peplum effecting a restraining flare on one side and a casually uneven hemline which gives the tailored model an interesting dressy suggestion.

ALTHOUGH THERE IS much discussion here regarding the lengths to which evening wraps will go this season, we find that the short wrap remains an item of featured importance in many collections. Others are sumptuous affairs in rich fabrics, lavishly furred developed in full and evening trailing lengths. A model, however, that deserves more than brief comment is that created by Irene Dana as shown here in a lovely shade of almond green velvet. Almond green, incidentally, is a shade that we are seeing frequently these days. This little evening jacket is made with long tight sleeves with the severity of the plain neckline and cuffs being relieved by a short, flared peplum and a soft drape fluttering from one shoulder down the back.

STATE FORFEITS U. S. ROAD AID

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Pennsylvania will be unable to derive benefit from the advance by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde of funds for federal road aid, amounting to $5,500,000, from next January to September 1, it was said today at the State Highway Department.

State funds for building highways in Pennsylvania have all been set aside for work now under contract or more to be contracted, department officials said. Consequently the state will have no funds to match the federal appropriation this year, which is to be spent entirely on federal-aid routes, comprising rural postal roads.

The federal allocation must by law be distributed by applying no more than $15,000 on each mile of new road. The cost of a road in Pennsylvania varies from $30,000 to $50,000, according to the type of construction.

As usual the federal aid will be taken up next year, it was said, when the state will be in a position to allocate sufficient of its own money to meet the difference in total cost.

END OF STUDENT STRIKE SOUGHT

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Heroic measures have been taken by the council of the University of Chile to bring back striking students to their classes. The students have stayed away since the government recently intervened to prevent formation of a students' council.

The university council decided to cancel the present school year and open a new one Monday. If the students persist in their refusal to attend classes, the university will be closed until April, 1931, when the regular academic year starts.

The university reopened last week, but the students refused to return until all those detained or expelled in connection with disorders arising from the situation had been released and reinstated.

LOW PRICE OF SUGAR AROUSES INTEREST IN PRESERVING

Housewives Cannot Resist Great Economy in Preserving Fruit This Year

Fruit jars, jelly glasses and preserving kettles are claiming the attention of women these days. For they have figured that there is real money to be saved by putting up the maximum of fruit.

One only needs to go to market to realize the economy of home-canning. Everywhere is an abundance of fine fruits and berries amazingly low in price. As far as the cost of sugar is concerned, never before has it been so cheap.

There is a place in every normal diet for canned fruits. Many are rich in vitamins. As a dessert for children there are few foods more appropriate than canned peaches, plums, apricots or pears.

It is much easier to plan menus when there are jellies, jams and preserves within reach. A tart-sweet jelly is a fine accompaniment for meats and fish. And a bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

FREEPORT ROAD SURVEY MADE

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 19.—Extensive surveys are practically finished as the first step in the Freeport road widening program between here and Springdale, Henry E. Kloss, State Highway Department engineer, announced. The road, most of which is only 18 feet, will be converted into a 30-foot traffic artery, excluding the Allegheny Valley Street Railway Company tracks.

It will be widened on the hillside, a 12-foot space being cut into the western bank to West Kensington.

Contract for the work is expected to be awarded this fall, with excavations this winter and concreting next spring.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 19.—In two weeks the $1,000,000 dam built by the Mahoning Valley sanitary district to conserve the waters of Meander Creek will be completed. Other construction work will require two years for completion.

The dam will impound 10,000,000 gallons of water. The basin thus created will furnish a domestic water supply for Youngstown and Niles, and leave the Mahoning River free to supply the valley's industries.

Raquel Talks With Wife of Blackmail Victim

CHAPTER XXX

Raquel knew the significance of the motherly woman's stare. She surprised it often on people's faces when they saw her closely for the first time. It annoyed her almost as often as it thrilled her, that state of open-mouthed amazement, unbelief.

"I come from a part of the country where there is much sunshine, though mostly it is too hot for comfort," she said cordially. Why had she suggested to this woman where she came from? That motherly face with the rosy cheeks and the kind eyes was a bid for confidence. Like a nice pitcher with fat sides in which one might pour all the secrets of the universe and spill it would not be filled nor spill a drop of them.

"Do you?" The woman was at ease again. "We come from Minnesota, father and I. My husband's claim is right next to this one."

The wife of the man with the baggy pants. The one Greta had fooled about the ether-ship.

"Do you?" Raquel asked stupidly.

"Yes," proudly, as if coming from Minnesota were a special mark of distinction bestowed by Providence. "From St. Paul. It's pretty cold up our way sometimes. But father and I don't mind it. We're used to it. It's healthy for the children, too. They never had colds when they were babies, and now that they're grown up they're as hardy as can be. I have four children, two boys and two girls."

Raquel Smiles

Her face softened. Her voice was like a benediction.

"You—left them at home?" Raquel wanted to give the motherly woman that which she craved most: a chance to talk of her children.

"Oh mercy, yes. They are grown men and women now, with children of their own. I have five grandchildren." She was like a mother hen clucking its boast of its brood.

Raquel's smile urged her to go on.

"You see, this is the first time Father and I have left the children, for any length of time. We've taken several trips on the Great Lakes—they have fine big boats on the Great Lakes, you know—and Father goes to Chicago five or six times a year. But we've never been on the ocean before."

"I've never been on it either," Raquel said, as one who confides a delightful secret.

"Haven't you?" wonderingly. "My, you look as though you'd been everywhere. Kind of a—"

"Foreign look, haven't I?"

"Maybe that's it. But it's becoming. Father and I have been planning on this trip for a long time. Kind of saving up for it. I thought we ought to use what we'd saved to buy a little house for Elsie—she's our youngest girl and she didn't marry very well—but Father said, 'No, she made her bed and she'll have to lie in it. We didn't want her to marry—the man she did.'"

Woman Shocked

"Girls take their own way, don't they," said Raquel.

So that was the money Greta was going to use to "throw a party, a wow" in Paris. Money this motherly woman with the kind eyes had saved. Pinching little economies. Self-denials. Greta would squander on senseless extravagance what this woman's Elsie might have spent on bare comfort. Because Baggy Pants was a fool. An amorous old man trying to recapture the buds of youth when he should have been finding content in the harvest of the years.

"I'll bet mother had done most of the saving," Raquel decided. "Those trips Baggy Pants made to Chicago."

She looked at the woman gravely. She wanted what she was going to say to register definitely.

"I hope you are going to make the most of the trip," she said. "Women are always the care-takers. My mother was in—that way. It should not be. Men do not like it. Inside themselves they laugh at us. A pretty dress, a beautiful hat. They are more than that saving."

The woman looked at Raquel as if she had uttered sacrilege.

"With some men, maybe," she said. "But Father is different. He is all for his family. A saving man. It is his nature."

Raquel closed her lips tight. To keep them from burbling the things she felt it was a duty to tell this woman.

What was the use? The woman would only dislike her. She would sow unhappiness where there was faith and pride. The destruction would be without profit. It was too late. Too late for the man to tear down a false god to build a true god in his place.

No Regrets

"I think I'll go down and mix up father's medicine," said the woman. "He always likes a little dose of iron and wine about this time. It builds up his blood."

"I hope I'll see you again."

"Yes, indeed. I'd have been here before, but father thought that I should stay in the room. He was afraid I'd get seasick. He said if I stayed in I wouldn't even know I was on a boat. If he comes in and finds me gone, he won't know what to make of it."

"The old fox," thought Raquel. "He's done it on purpose. Got mother to stay out of sight so he could prowl with the Gretas. I'll bet he has plenty of money. Mother doesn't know about, for his own pleasure. I wish Greta had got enough money for an emerald as big as a house. I wish she'd taken every cent he had."

For the first time the loan she had not paid, the money she owed Farrell, rested easy on her mind. Men. They paid only when they could get. Or thought they could get. Or when they were forced into a corner, as Baggy Pants had been when Greta threatened to call the purser and expose the old fox in sheep's clothing for what he was.

Greta was right. Greta rifled their pockets and laughed. What she stole was so much salvage.

Annoyed

"I should have taken something from Johnson," she told herself. "I could have found an excuse. He'll only give it to another Lily. I ought to have asked him for something, as much as I could get, and left it for Lucy. And for little Jose."

A mist blurred the bright sunshine, the moving figures on the deck. The mist of tears. By a sheer effort of will, she dried them at their fonts.

The small man with the horn-rimmed spectacles and the armfuls of books at her right—the one Greta called "the professor"—was coughing again.

She wished he would find some way to check his perpetual irritating cough.

She glanced at him impatiently.

Excuse me," he said, and gazed at her solemnly, like an owl in the daylight. "This sea air is heavy. It seems to get at my throat."

Raquel returned the gaze. Annoyance flickered in her eyes.

"I have been too much indoors," said the man, removing his spectacles, placing them carefully in a leather case. The case snapped shut with a note of finality.

"I need to get out, to breathe," he added.

He had said "to breathe." Words. He meant "to live."

Raquel turned away her head.

Alphonse was coming toward her along the deck. His saunter became a kind of a swoop, as if he would catch her up in his long tapering hands and carry her away from danger.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Dancing daughters, who get up in the morning looking like frost-bitten gardens in late autumn, have no right to register beauty whines. Loss of sleep means that body repairs do not go on as they should, and evidence of tissue wreckage is shown in the pallor of the lips, dullness of the eyes, and impaired coloring of the complexion.

There are various causes of an unpleasant breath. Diseases of the throat and nose will produce it. Constipation is a common source of this distressing ailment, so are decayed teeth and pus pockets in the gums. The reason for it must be located and treatment sought. After brushing the teeth, the mouth should be rinsed with an antiseptic solution, which will impart sweetness and freshness.

Even in the summer season, a hand lotion should be used freely and often. Constant washing of the hands removes the natural oils, necessary for softness and whiteness of the skin. Housewives, doing rough work, especially need a soothing application for their little paws.

Beautyteriums are just going in for reducing departments that are becoming more and more popular. Electric horses and jiggle machines are the joy of gels who are too lazy to clip off a five-mile walk each day. They break down fat cells, and, through vibrations, increase the activities of the liver and intestinal tract. Though curves are in again, they must be kept under restraint. The adipose fighters must continue the old war.

Persistent Pursuit Gets Your Man in Modern Scramble, Says Fay King

HE'LL NEVER KNOW HOW MUCH I REALLY CARED I'LL GET YOU YET!
I THINK HIS MARRIAGE WAS QUITE A BLOW TO HER!
SHE ALWAYS RIDICULED HIM TO ME!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

In this day of aggressiveness it is very foolish for a girl to sit back and sigh while some other girl beats her to the man she likes.

It was all very all right in the old days when all the other girls had to sit safely at home, too.

But in these more modern times, in nine cases out of ten, it's the girl who gives a man plenty of encouragement and is persistent in her pursuit who lands him.

What chance have you if you refuse to show the least interest you feel and ridicule any sentimental suspicions your friends may have?

He may like you, also, but has too much pride to offer attentions which you let him think will be unwelcome.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Succeeds in Calming Noel.

Noel Veritzen's face ran the gamut of emotions from despair to joy and back again while I told him of Mary's reaction to his father's letter and warned him that if his fiancee went out of his life it would be solely because he had sent her away.

For an instant when I had told him that Mary would have flung Philip Veritzen's letter into the writer's face if the elder man had been near her, there was a radiance in his face which mirrored the ecstasy of a torturing doubt resolved. But it vanished almost immediately and when my warning was finished, there had crept into his eyes the terrified pain which they had held when I had said that I was taking Mary away because of his apparent aversion to her.

He did not speak for a few seconds, then his stiffened lips began to repeat in a queer, terrifying monotone some of the phrases I had used, with jerky interjected comments of his own.

"Poisoned my mind! — my father!—against her!—cannot bear to have her near me!—if she goes out of my life it will be because I send her away—and I can never tell her why!"

If Noel were a woman, I reflected, I should have a case of nervous hysteria on my hands in another minute. As it was, I was not particularly easy concerning his voice or the expression of his eyes. Both were more like those of a delirious person than of one in full possession of his senses. I rose abruptly, and crossing to his chair, put my hands firmly upon his shoulders.

"Noel! Stop this at once!" I commanded in the same tones I would have used to Junior in a paroxysm of childish grief. "This thing isn't as hopeless as you think. But I have only two or three minutes longer to stay here, and you must listen quietly to what I have to say to you."

I felt his shoulders stiffen under my grasp, and he lifted his head and looked at me with a shamefaced yet determined gaze.

"Please, forgive me," he said. "I am—not quite myself. But—I'm all right now." He drew a long, shuddering breath. "Tell me—what it is you wish me to do."

"Nothing." I returned with deliberate explosiveness, "except to rid your mind of all the rubbishly fears which appear to be obsessing it. I can see that there is something in your father's letter, some threat or other, which you are taking seriously. Now if you will forgive a fling at your reverend parent, I'd like to tell you that he is acting like a spoiled little child who lies down on the floor and kicks and screams because no one will give him the moon. Mrs. Underwood says that he will not stay away from his beloved theaters very much longer, and when he does come back some one of us will deal with him, find out what he is trying to do—and see that he doesn't do it."

There was distinct terror in Noel's face now.

"No, no, you mustn't ask him what he means. You don't—know."

I shifted from high to second immediately.

"I'll promise you this," I said slowly. "No one will say anything to him unless you sanction the saying."

The tension around his mouth lessened and he looked at me with relieved eyes.

"That helps," he said simply, "and I can't help feeling a little less—hopeless if you're going to talk to him."

He stressed the pronoun, and I choked back a hasty disclaimer that I personally was to undertake the interview with Philip Veritzen. There was no use in upsetting the boy, I said to myself, even though I was not yet ready to accept Lillian's dictum that I must be the one to broach the subject of his treatment of Noel to my employer when he should return from his theatrical and self-imposed exile.

"Of course, all this is academic so far," I said, evading a direct answer to his last words. "What I want of you is a promise to stop worrying about this whole thing, at least until I come back and can talk with you again when I say that all of us here are on your side, and we are quite resourceful—some of us. Won't you trust us to do everything that is possible to straighten matters out for you?"

He put out his hand impulsively and I took it in both of mine.

"I will trust you to do everything but the impossible," he said slowly, "and I am afraid that is what will confront you. But at least I have your blessed word about—Mary—and I am so ashamed——"

Of doubting her even for a second? I retorted. "You have need to be. Would you like to tell her so yourself? I'll delay our going for three minutes—"I looked at my watch—"and send her in to say good-bye, if you wish."

He shrank back as if from an actual blow.

"No, no," he said. "I musn't—let—her—think—anything different until—after—you—see my father."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, August 20.

While the sidereal operations for this day point to expanding and benign conditions generally with advancement for new projects and profitable possibilities for renewed contracts, yet frustrating and entangling forces are also observed to be in strong influence. There may be tenacious obstacles to be disposed of before any degree of progress may be made. Also there is a menace of fraud or duplicity and personal affairs may not be entirely harmonious.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of important deals, with encouraging new contracts and successful new ventures, yet there are likely to be tenacious obstacles to overcome before definite progress may be made.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious to a marked degree, yet it may have many definite obstacles to its success before attaining the goal of its ambitions.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Who Pays for the Bride's Bouquet

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it a custom for the best man to pay for the bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets? S.

No, indeed, it is not. The position of best man is one of honor, not of "financial responsibility." The groom always sends the bridal bouquet to his bride, and either the bride's parents or the groom sends the bouquets to the bridal attendants.

Entertaining a Friend's House Guests

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—A friend of mine, who has been very good to me, is entertaining her aunt and niece from another state. I have never met them but would like to entertain at luncheon and bridge while they are here. Now, this is what I would like to know: Should I wait until I meet them, or extend the invitation to my friend before they arrive, so she can arrange their visit?

2—What do you think of my letter paper? G.

1—It would be quite proper for you, and a gracious gesture to make to your friend if you arrange before they arrive to entertain for them. Then she can arrange for the time of your party and will, of course, be very proud to have such a kind and thoughtful friend as you will show yourself to be.

2—I like the paper itself, but I do not especially like the printing of your name and address. For the business or professional letters for which we use this general type of paper it is best to have the printing of our name and address done in frankly block printing—not this golf effect, imitating engraving. For our social paper, it is best to have either the address engraved on the top, or our monogram. Also, abbreviations should not be used, in either case. The use of your first name, too—when you indicate in another part of your letter that you use your formal name otherwise—is not in good form.

Acknowledging an Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a girl is introduced to a boy at a dance, should she stand up if she has been sitting down?

CONSTANT READER.

When a boy is introduced to a girl at a dance, she should not rise to acknowledge the introduction. She should bow and smile graciously, and say, "How do you do?" or "How do you do, Mr. Mann?"

Household Hints

Write your name and address inside of your gloves. Then if one is lost you stand a chance of some kind person finding it who will slip it into an envelope and mail it back to you.

When mailing fudge or any soft candy to anyone, wrap each piece in waxed paper before putting it into the box. It is the only way to insure it against getting stale and hard or broken.

If you are certain that your parchment shades have been shellacked and varnished you need not be afraid to wash them with a white soap and lukewarm water. Rub after with a little furniture polish on a perfectly clean cloth.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Wedding Rings for Husbands? Are You for 'Em or Agin'?

Who wants to know? Clarice wants to know. Clarice is all for them—and she has plenty of suspicions about Married Men who want their wives to display the platinum shackle but refuse to wear 'em themselves.

Do you agree with her . . . or do you think she's All Wet? Here she is, in person—with the fur flying!

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I'm very curious to know something . . . What is your idea . . . and the public's . . . on the subject of wedding rings for men?

"Personally, I would feel very proud if my husband would wear a wedding ring. I would feel that he was proud to be my husband, and wanted the whole world to know it. I am sure that this is the attitude he expects his wife to have, and that he hopes for more than just mere affection.

"All the jewelry shops are displaying engagement rings for men, and they seem to have met with the approval of most of the men I know. Perhaps that is due to the fact that engagement rings can't hardly be told from the general run of rings worn by men, while the wedding rings are very perceptibly what they are, and class man as a 'One Woman Man.'

"From my experience with these men . . . and I've known them from all walks of life . . . I have found that the man who wears a wedding ring is usually very much in love with his wife, and not trying to hide the fact that he is married, from the rest of the world.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

"Women are never asked if they want to wear wedding rings. It's just taken for granted that it's the custom and it'll be done accordingly.

"The men, however, seem to strenuously object to 'branding' themselves as 'married.' Apparently they see no reason for making themselves less attractive by openly admitting family ties before the Sweet Young Things in the office, whose sweet smiles and admiring chatter are so soothing to the Tired Business Man.

"Never satisfied with the love and admiration of one woman, man seems to crave the 'flattering' reputation of being free to be the Sweet Wonderful Dear to all women with whom he comes in contact. But he raises a squawk like a banshee if his wife doesn't label herself as his property.

"Yes, Sally, I have been married and had a wedding ring. My husband would have passed out with injured astonishment if I had demurred about wearing it. But he flatly refused to ever allow me to even try it on his finger. His excuse was that he 'couldn't ever stand wearing a ring.' Oh, yes! Well I'm not crazy about the feeling, myself. But I wasn't asked. It was just stuck on to stay, whether it annoyed me or not.

MARRIAGE MARK

"No doubt, some men would consider it terribly 'old-fashioned' to be definitely shown as Married. Although most men choose old-fashioned girls . . . and then pay fabulous sums for antiques to furnish their houses with.

"Anyway, my admiration goes out to the man who wants and wears a wedding ring. The man who is in love with his wife and isn't afraid to admit it.

"What do you think of the subject, Sally? And I'd like to know what the rest of your readers, both married and single, think of it, too.

"CLARICE."

Well, what about it—Bob, Mary, Tom, Harriet? What do you think? Should men wear 'em?

Personally, I can't see any sensible reason why gents as well as ladies, shouldn't frankly admit that they're married. Why a wedding ring should cramp the style of any honest hombre.

When you think of the socks they wear, and the trick shirts, with never a blush, why should a simple band of metal smoke 'em up?

But maybe my notion's all wet.

If you think so, speak up. We're listening.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Wage Earners Show Health Improvement.

Ever so often interesting reports are forthcoming of health statistics among policy holders of certain life insurance companies. The first quarterly report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, for the year 1930, shows the best condition of health among its 19,000,000 industrial policy holders for any similar period of any previous year.

DR. COPELAND

That the first quarter of 1930 has been an improvement over this period last year is evidenced by the absence of epidemics. In 1929 influenza was prevalent and health conditions in the country were the worst experienced in a decade.

The statistics on deaths from tuberculosis for the first quarter of 1930 are encouraging. The death rate from this disease showed the sharpest drop of any disease, the mortality among the white population having been 65.3 per 100,000. This is a reduction of 10.3 per cent from the lowest previous figures for the first quarter of any year. Among the Negro population the death rate from tuberculosis for this quarter was 207.8 per 100,000, a drop of 4.6 per cent.

Most of the principal childhood diseases have shown reduced death rates as compared to the same period for 1928 and 1929. Scarlet fever was an exception in this respect.

A noteworthy drop was recorded for diphtheria. The mortality rate to this disease at the end of March among the white and Negro population combined was shown to be 8.9 per 100,000 as compared with 10.7 in 1929.

A considerable reduction in the death rate from all causes is shown in the report. A marked improvement is recorded for pneumonia, influenza, intestinal complaints, chronic nephritis and tuberculosis, as has been noted. As to the cancer death rate, a pronounced drop has been noted among the white population of the country.

These are hopeful signs. With increased individual knowledge of and interest in preventive measures against disease and added facilities for the treatment and cure of disease, public health conditions in the country as a whole should see even greater gains in the future.

It is a happy thing for all of us that the scientific world is at work on means of bettering the public health. The report I have quoted gives us courage.

ROBINS STILL IN FIGHT

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Brame Beats Handicap. Lifted Only Six Times. Kelly Helpful to Cubs. | Pirate Outfield Shines. Zinn Leads on Coast. Third Tennis Star Out.

BUC STAFF TOILS UNDER DIFFICULTIES

PIRATE PITCHERS ARE working under a severe handicap these days, for not only is the staff short-handed since Heine Meine quit the club on account of failing health, but the form of three of the regulars is impaired as the result of injuries. Glenn Spencer is out altogether for a time with a battered knee, Larry French is nursing a sore shoulder, and the third finger of Ervin Brame's left hand, struck by a batted ball last week, is in such bad shape that he is wearing a splint. In consequence of slab conditions and a recent string of double-headers, Manager Ens was forced to pick Steve Swetonic for starting duty in the final game against the Robins though Steve had not begun a contest this season.

Ervin Brame

In view of the condition of his left hand—and, incidentally, that also deprives the Bucs of a strong hitter, as Ervin cannot grip a bat properly—Brame's performance in downing the Dodgers yesterday was all the more creditable. It takes real pitching to stop the slugging Robins, but the big right-hander was equal to the contract.

BRAME'S WORK IN the eighth inning was particularly impressive. He placed a nifty bit of pitching to his credit in that round, when, with a Robin on second base, the score tied and none out, he fanned such swatsmiths as Herman and Boone and got Lopez on a foul fly. That's the second time in three attempts that Ervin has beaten Brooklyn this year. The Pirates failed to score behind him in the one game that he lost.

With the exception of Spencer, who has begun only eight games and finished five of them, Brame has been taken out of the box fewer times than any other present starting Pirate regular. In 19 starts he has been lifted only six times. Remy Kremer has been lifted 14 times in 28 starts, French has been taken out 12 times in 27 starts, Meine was lifted 11 times in 15 starts, and Leon Chagnon, before he was sent to Wichita in exchange for Charley Wood, was derricked once in four starts.

JOE M'CARTHY, Cub manager, has made a smart move to protect his club's pennant lead just before the Giant series, starting Thursday, in bringing George Kelly back from his minor league berth in Minneapolis to fill the hole at first base caused by the incapacitation of Charley Grimm.

With Charley Tolson also ailing, Lester Bell has been hitting well as Grimm's substitute, but Bell is not a first baseman and his inexperience at the position might eventually have caused the loss of important ball games.

George Kelly

KELLY PASSED HIS peak long ago and can no longer play for an extended period the all-around game he was once capable of putting up, but he can still perform well enough for a short time to hold up his end on a major league club. Even if Grimm is able to get back sooner than expected, there may be some danger that his injured leg will give him trouble again later, and in such a situation Kelly will serve well as an insurance policy. George ought to hit well in the Cub park, too, as the field is made to order for right-hand hitters. With Kelly in Grimm's place, Clarence Blair will be the only left-hand batter in the Chicago lineup.*

IN ONE RESPECT, the Pirates right now may be said to measure up to any club in the land. That is in the matter of outfield strength. Since Lloyd Waner's return to form, the Bucs have in the Waner brothers and Adam Comorosky a garden trio with few equals.

Even players on rival clubs admit the superiority of the Pittsburgh fly-chasers. While the Giants were here recently, Coach Irish Meusel, himself a former gardener, pronounced the Corsair outfield, in fielding, batting and base-running class, the best in the National League.

THOUGH HE FAILED to come through in another major league trial with Cleveland last year, Jimmy Zinn, former Pirate pitcher, is still able to show the way to many younger hurlers in the minors. He is having a big season for San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League.

Jimmy Zinn

While he doesn't top the list in point of percentage, Zinn, who pitched for Pittsburgh in 1920-21-22, has won more games than any other flinger in the circuit, having 18 victories to his credit against eight defeats.

THE LEADING COAST pitcher in percentage is Gordon Rhodes, Yankee cast-off, who has won eight games out of nine for Hollywood. Tony Freitas, of Sacramento, ranks second with 11 won and four lost, followed by Jim Turner of Hollywood, with 12 and 6. Among the former big-show chuckers in the far Western loop are Elmer Jacobs, 13 won and 6 lost; Clyde Barfoot, 10 and 6; Emil Yde, 12 and 8; Earl Kuns, 5 and 3; Dutch Ruether, 10 and 10; Johnny Miljus, 8 and 8; Duster Mails, 8 and 10; Arthur Delaney, 9 and 10, and Carl Mays, 5 and 6.*

BECAUSE SOME OF the New York boxing critics expressed the opinion that Al Singer and Jack (Kid) Berg were too friendly to promise a real fight, if they were matched to meet for the lightweight championship, Sol Gold, Berg's manager announces that all negotiations for such a match will be dropped. Speaking for himself and Berg, Gold says they'd rather go without the title than have it said there was something funny about the match.

That's all very pretty in print, but it might be asked why they didn't take such a stand before the Madison Square Garden Corporation turned down the demands of Singer and Berg for 40 and 25 per cent of the receipts, respectively, instead of the 37½ and 12½ allowed by the New York regulations governing championship bouts. They appeared willing enough to meet, in spite of all the criticism, if they could get their respective prices.

THE LOSS of star players from the women's forty-third national championship lawn tennis tournament now under way at Forest Hills did not end with the failure of Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs to enter for competition. Another world famous player who is missing

MISS NUTHALL SCORES EASY TRIUMPH

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Betty Nuthall, with a bright red band around her head and all her strokes in beautiful control, led a parade of favorites through the opening round of the forty-third national women's tennis championship on the turf of the West Side Stadium yesterday.

Playing her first match in the United States since she was upset by Mrs. Molla Mallory in the quarter finals of this event last year, the English challenger turned back Louise MacFarland, of Pasadena, Cal., by scores of 6-0, 6-1 in a one-sided encounter that lasted less than half an hour.

SHOWS FINE FORM

Against her comparatively unknown opponent, Miss Nuthall employed the methods characteristic of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, calmly outdriving her from the baseline in a competent fashion that indicated this English girl is indeed a dangerous contender for the title Mrs. Moody has relinquished.

Two of Miss Nuthall's leading American rivals, however, won by scores as decisive as hers. Mrs. Anna Harper, the lefthanded San Francisco veteran who was seeded first among the United States players, crushed Dorrance Chase, of Boston, 6-0, 6-1, and Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., outplayed Laura Pittenger, of Camden, N. J., 6-1, 6-0, despite numerous double faults.

In a busy afternoon of play witnessed by about 500 spectators, the field was reduced from 57 to 32 and among the survivors were all 10 members of the seeded group, all but two of whom advanced in straight sets.

MISS CROSS SURPRISED

The two exceptions were Ethel Burkardt, pint-sized San Francisco miss, and Edith Cross, No. 3, ranking player of the United States, who hails from the same city. Miss Burkardt finally won from Marjorie Sachs, Boston, at 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, and Miss Cross came back after a shaky start to beat Mrs. Phillip B. Hawk, of New York, 6-8, 6-2,6-0.

Mary Greef, of Kansas City, the principal standard-bearer of the Middle West, scored a creditable victory over Anne Page, of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-4, and Catherine Wolf, of Indianapolis, the Western champion, also played good tennis to turn back Mrs. K. J. Sherber, of England, 7-5, 6-4.

Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., kept the South in the running by overcoming Dorothy Andrus, a sturdy young player from Stamford, Conn., 11-9, 6-4, but the Far West and the East were the sections that captured most of the 32 places in the second round.

COAST STARS WIN

Nine of California's best were still in the battle and intent on keeping the title in the golden state despite the absence of Mrs. Moody and Helen Jacobs, the first and second ranking players of the country.

Eastern hopes for the championship rested primarily upon Sarah Palfrey, Eleanor Goss, the New York veteran, who easily subdued Eleanor Cottman, of Baltimore, 6-2, 6-2, and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., who drew a bye and will not see action until tomorrow.

NET PRO MARRIES

DENVER, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Hans Hummell, nationally known tennis professional, and Miss Monica S. Yeager, of Denver, were secretly married at Castle Rock, Col., last night. The announcement was made after the couple left for New York on a honeymoon. Miss Yeager was employed at the Denver Country Club where Hummell has been tennis instructor.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: STOLE, THE BEAN EATER—To repent the murder of a man and to have his many sins forgiven, Stole vowed he would live the life of a beggar and eat nothing but beans. For almost 30 years, he has kept this vow to the letter and never has changed his clothes or slept in a bed. The drawing I made was from a police picture taken in 1923 while on his travels about Europe. Despite his lack of material things, and his apparent disbelief in accomplishment, he speaks every European language, and has traveled extensively.

TOMORROW—"FILING" THE NEW TESTAMENT.

CHAMP RISKS TITLE TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Tom Waggoner, of the Nemacolin Country Club, began his fight to retain his amateur championship of Washington and Greene counties as the qualifying round of that annual tournament started this morning at the Monongahela Valley Country Club.

The star golfers of four clubs in the two counties were on hand to vie for Waggoner's laurels, including the low-handicap players from Washington, Nemacolin, Monongahela and Greene County. Eddie McLeod, Nemacolin champion, was favored to give Waggoner the greatest competition.

Long George Back In Big Time With Cubs

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Long George Kelly's baseball travels have brought him to Chicago, where his famous uncle, Bill Lange, played more than 30 years ago for Cap Anson.

George Lange Kelly was obtained yesterday from Minneapolis, of the American Association, by the Cubs in a trade involving Malcolm Moss, lefthanded pitcher, and another to be named later this week. Kelly will report today and probably will be sent to first base to play until Charlie Grimm recovers from a spike wound, suffered Saturday.

Kelly spent 14 seasons of baseball in the National League, most of them with the New York Giants. He went to the Cincinnati Reds in 1927, where he remained until about a month ago, when he was released. He signed with Minneapolis and in 33 games had compiled a batting average of .352.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, I guess you read while we wuz knockin' off the Cubs in Chicago that we wuz gonna have a lot of fun smearin' all the birds that think they're favorites for the flag. We left them Bears moanin' right in their own lot and now we got these Robins in a pretty bad way.

We all like Uncle Robbie, but it's a case of treatin' everybody like Boviets when you're out there on the diamond. Ol' Erv wuz a star yesterday, bad hand and all. There's a fella that knows what he's doin' on every pitch.

BRAME IN FORM

I've heard some of the older fellas say that Matty used to remember it against you for years if you got a hit off a certain pitch and you wouldn't get it again until he wuz sure he had you crossed up with it. Brame has a good memory that way, too.

If you wuz out there I suppose you wuz watching how Erv worked on them cleanup birds in Robbie's lineup when the winnin' run wuz on second and nobody out. Erv took Herman out with a high one and then tried to make Dangerous Del hit a bad pitch. Del wouldn't go for it and walked, but Brame wuz just as well satisfied as that dude has been breakin' up our games. Erv then fanned Battleship Boone and made Lopez foul to Hemsley. There wuz one of the best pitching tricks I've seen for a long time.

GLENN FOOLS 'EM

We decided to make Glenn Wright hit to rightfield, for fear he'd pull one over the leftfield wall. Well, we made him hit to right, but Glenn says there's know law against hittin' them over the rightfield fence and he finally did it in the ninth after hitting a three-bagger against the same fence.

Our new lefthander has Jule all crossed up. He's a sensible boy that you wouldn't know was a southpaw until you hand him a ball. He doesn't act daffy in any way and I think he has the boss stumped.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

While they do not try to hide their keen disappointment over the results obtained on the present invasion of the West, the Brooklyn Robins insist they are still in the thick of the flag fight. In view of the arrangement of the last five weeks of the schedule the Flatbush crew sees have real cause for their optimism.

Uncle Robbie will lead his flock into Redland Field, Cincinnati, tomorrow. On top of a four-day stay in Cincy, their western cards for the season will have been complete and the Robins will hustle toward the home crop.

DISASTROUS TRIP

The past two weeks have been the most disastrous in the whole playing schedule of the Brooklyn boys and if they lose the flag they will look back on this jaunt with anything but happy recollections.

But the Robins have their eyes on the future and the future looks toward the east and home-cooking. Perhaps the club will re-establish the fine co-ordination it enjoyed as it drove a wedge to the top of the heap.

It would be well for all of us to remember that Uncle Robbie was left entirely out of the pennant reckoning when the experts arranged their promise cards in the spring. The Cubs, Giants, Pirates and Cardinals were picked generally as the four first-place contenders, so that Robbie has had the satisfaction of laughing at the experts in this connection.

While the flock is fighting it out with Dan Howley's mob, the Giants and Cubs will be engaged in bitter strife in Wrigley Field, Chicago. The series, beginning Thursday, may establish even bigger gate figures, provided the weather is favorable for play.

BUCS WIN IN NINTH

The Robins swallowed an exceptionally bitter pill in the Oakland Orchard yesterday. They went into the last half of the ninth with a one-run lead, only to see the Freebooters score two runs to switch victory to the home dugout. The score of the exciting fight was 4 to 3.

Dick Bartell's nervy hit in the ninth scored Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky with the runs necessary to record the triumph. The Dodgers had walked Al Bool

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Well, folks and other people, this will be a wild week in National League baseball. The Giants will start gumming up things for Mr. Wrigley on Thursday to decide the pennant for the fourth time in the last month. The Cubs have had so many crucial series this season, a world series will seem like a layoff. In fact, the Cubs played their last world series like they were laying off. Attendance in St. Louis continues something terrible. They could only get a crowd of 500 present when O'Brine and Jackson, the endurance experts, came down. Those St. Louis fans are not only hoarding their nickles for a rainy day, they are saving them for a flood.

AMERICAN LEAGUE LEADERS WIN; BRUINS GAIN

YANKS, NATS A'S DEFEAT FOEMEN

Associated Press

The three leaders in the American League pennant race Philadelphia Washington and New York turned back their opponents yesterday the league chase remaining at status quo The As downing St Louis 6 to 4 Washington turning back Detroit 5 to 4, and the Yankees beating the Chicago White Sox 11 to 4

An uprising in the eighth inning gave the Athletics the decision over the Browns Four runs crossed the plate during that session while Walter Stewart took an early trip to the showers George Earnshaw who went the route for the world champions hung up his nineteenth victory of the season and Mickey Cochrane blasted out his eighth home run during the eighth inning

HADLEY HERO

Irving Hadley was the hero of the Senators triumph over the Tigers He handed out just six hits although enough of them were bunched in the sixth to allow the Tigers to count three times Hogsett was touched for nine safeties including a triple and four doubles over five innings

Herb Pennock turned in a sterling performance in the White Sox downfall The 36-year-old southpaw was hit hard at times but was stingy in pinches while not issuing a base on balls Meanwhile the Yankees in general and Chapman Gehrig and Byrd in particular were doing some steady hitting Chapman collected four hits, Gehrig three including his thirty-fifth home run and Byrd the same number

PIRATES BEAT ROBINS

A few days ago the Brooklyn Robins were fighting to keep a foot hold on first place in the National League pennant race They failed in a crucial series at Chicago and now they are battling to stave off the mad rush of the Giants

The Robins dropped a game further out of first place and a half game nearer the idle Giants in third position yesterday when they lost 4 to 3 to the Pittsburgh Pirates Going into the last half of the ninth Uncle Robbie's boys held a one-run lead by reason of Glenn Wright's homer Dick Bartell advanced to the plate with the bases loaded and rapped a sizzling double down the third base line—a blow that scored two runs and gave the Pirates the game.

CUBS ROUT PHILS

The Cubs pounced on two Phillies pitchers for 17 hits to win 17 to 3 and increased their lead over the Robins to three and one-half games It was the champions' eleventh victory in the last 13 starts with one tie Big Pat Malone held the Phillies to eight hits and accounted for his fifteenth game of the season while Hack Wilson connected with his forty-second homer, one short of the league record set last season by Chuck Klein, who saw the ball sail into the bleachers from his position in the Phillies outfield

Cleveland and Boston were rained out Only two games were scheduled in the National circuit.

Cullop Breaks A. A. Home-Run Record

CHICAGO, Aug 19—(AP)—Bunny Brief's nine-year-old American Association home run record has been ruined by the power of Nick Cullop's war club

ROCCO VICTOR OVER PIRRONE AT BOWL

By JAMES MILLER.

Experience weight and a perpetual body attack proved too great a handicap for Patsy Pirrone youthful Canton, O. light-heavyweight, to overcome in his 10-round slugfest with Emmett Rocco stocky Ellwood City heavyweight last night at the Meyers Bowl North Braddock Rocco was awarded the decision

But despite the fact that he gave away 11½ pounds to the Ellwood City Italian who weighed 186½ pounds Pirrone came within a hairbreath of keeping Rocco on the floor for the full count, when he caught Emmett flush on the chin with an overhand right in the fourth round that dropped him in his tracks for the count of eight Rocco managed to get to his feet at this count and back into the ropes where Pirrone, all set for the kill, sank several more hefty rights into Rocco but Emmett just wouldn't visit the floor again

BOXERS START SLOW

The first three rounds of the fight were as tame as Pal, the family dog with Rocco forcing the issue, and Pirrone contenting himself with pushing out a half-hearted left jab that missed the mark more often than it landed Rocco, by his aggressiveness, won these cantos.

Then came the fourth, the round that almost ruined Rocco His ability to recover quickly saved the night for the Ellwood Citian

The fifth round also went to Pirrone, who came out of his corner with plenty of zip and punch and rocked Rocco with a stiff right to the head, but Pirrone's inability to follow up with another dose of the same medicine gave Rocco time to recuperate and do a little punching on his own accord, but not enough to shadow Pirrone's early flurry.

From the fifth round on Rocco's greater strength took its toll Pirrone, tiring fast, could not compete with Rocco in the clinches, and the result was Rocco played a constant tattoo on Patsy's midriff with both hands until Pirrone was like a toy in his foe's hands.

ROCCO TOO STRONG

In the ninth and tenth rounds Rocco was more than his busy self, forcing Pirrone around the ring, banging him about the body with telling effect. Pirrone slipped to the floor from exhaustion in the ninth round for a count of two. He was just a tired kid at this stage

After the fight, Pirrone complained that he injured his right hand in the seventh round and could not use it thereafter. The commission doctor examined the hand and found that the knuckles were injured

All three officials cast their vote in favor of Rocco. Al Grayber refereed the bout.

Chet Smallwood, of Akron, came back to town to prove that he holds the Indian sign over Mike Ray's fighters when he defeated Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the eight-round semi-final, Last week Smallwood surprised the boys by handing Eddie Brannon, Smackey's stablemate, a lacing in eight rounds.

Smallwood weighed 137½ pounds and Smackey a half pound more.

YAROSZ WINS

The other eight-round fracas on the card found Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, left-handing Billy Holt, promising Negro fighter, of Canton, into defeat. Yarosz tipped the beam at 143¾, while Holt came in at 140¾.

Steve Senich, of Homestead, won a close decision over Joey Angelo, of Braddock, in the second six-rounder. The vote was unanimous and the affair was hard fought.

Hans Roberts of Brookline finally discovered a punch and knocked out Fast Black, formerly of Buffalo and now of Braddock, after 1 minute 7 seconds of fighting in the opening round of their scheduled six-round curtain-raiser Black weighed 141 and Roberts 143

Al Grayber and Jack Henderson alternated as referees, with Frank Ferris and Freddie Lux as judges Tommy Grant and Max Zeugschmidt were the timers. Dr. M R. Goldman was the commission physician.

Before the main bout Harry Klaas announced that Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Frankie (Kid) Anslem, of New York, will box the main bout and Battling Gizzy, Donora Windmill and George Baldue, of Canada the semi-final next Monday night.

ALEKHINE WINS

LIEGE, Belgium, Aug. 19—(AP)—Dr Alexander Alekhine, of Paris, chess champion of the world, played against 23 volunteer players simultaneously yesterday in the formal opening of the International chess congress After three hours and a half, the champion wound up with a score of 21 wins and two losses.

Woodward Denies Tampering Charge

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19—(AP)—William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox, yesterday took cognizance of reports that his champion three-year-old had been tampered with at Chicago and denied emphatically he ever had intimated or it had crossed his mind that all was not well with his star prior to the running of the Arlington Park classic.

The vice president of the jockey club spoke for his trainer, James Fitzsimmons, as well as for the other employes of the stable. He said such a thing was unthinkable and the Arlington Park Jockey Club had protected the horse at all times.

MANDELL, KANE BREAK

CHICAGO, Aug 19—(AP)—A contract with nearly a year to run notwithstanding Eddie Kane has had his last cut in Former Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell's earnings as far as Sammy is concerned

After nine years of association Mandell and Kane broke up yesterday and apparently not on the best of terms

Kane announced that he no longer was the Rockford Sheik's manager but would collect his share of the latter's purses until July 6 1931 when their contract expires

Mandell last night said Kane would get no more money from him and that he would go to court to keep his money. Mandell also said that a statement by Kane in which the latter said the former lightweight king had earned $400,000 under his management, was fiction.

"Kane is careless when talking about money," Mandell said, "and this $400,000 business is a sample. I didn't earn anywhere near that much and I know I could have made more than I did if someone else had been handling my business."

Mandell said he would rest for another month, then would start a comeback attempt as a welterweight or junior welterweight

ALL-SCANDINAVIAN TEAM

The following all-Scandinavian team, picked by a group of football coaches recently, are mostly from Minnesota and Wisconsin. There always has been a difference of opinion as to the relative merits of the Swedes, Norwegians and Danes Each of these three groups, of course, considers itself superior to the other two. The team:

Knute Rockne

Larson, Notre Dame—Center
Thorpe, Minnesota—Right guard.
Ecklund, Minnesota—Right tackle.
Ofstie, Wisconsin—Right end.
Arndson, Minnesota—Quarterback
Larson, Wisconsin—Left half
Erickson, Wash-Jeff.—Right half.
Eckberg, West Virginia—Fullback.

I talked to Dr Williams, of Minnesota, who probably has had more experience than any other coach handling Scandinavians, and it was his observation that the Norwegians were better on offense, the Swedes better on defense and the Danes best in team play He said that all three nationalities were the greatest eaters he ever knew.

is Molla Bjurstedt Mallory. Rarely has any sport lost so much of its class from title play in one year.

This is the first American championship tournament since 1915 in which Mrs. Mallory has failed to compete. It is a knee injury of long standing, a condition that was not wholly relieved by a winter operation, that is keeping her on the side lines.

Molla Mallory

EVEN MRS. MOODY'S brilliant record of tennis achievements is not yet equal to that of the Norse woman, though Helen defeated Molla for the American title in 1923. Mrs. Mallory won the national singles championship eight times, whereas Mrs. Moody has captured the honors only six times, and no other woman in American tennis ever defeated Suzanne Lenglen, as Molla did at Forest Hills in 1921, 6-2, —, defaulted. Molla has held a place in the top 10 of the women's rankings in American tennis no fewer than 13 times, her lowest, and also her last, ranking in that select set having come in 1928. She was placed at No. 1 seven times against six for Mrs. Moody. In Europe she won a number of championships, reached the final once and the semi-finals twice at Wimbledon, played on the Olympic and Wightman cup teams with success, and in general made a record that other women stars will be shooting at for some time before it is equaled.*

THE CUBS HAVE another hard Eastern trip to make, but if they continue to fatten their lead at the rate of progress that has marked their efforts of the last few days they will have a wide enough margin to make their chances of holding on to the leadership look very promising. Their main advantage is in the "Lost" column, which shows that they have lost three games fewer than the Giants and five fewer than the Dodgers.

The western trip has been a disastrous one to the Robins. They have lost nine of their last 12 games, with the result that they have not only fallen three and a half games behind the Cubs but are only one point ahead of the Giants, and have two more defeats charged against them than have the McGrawites. The Robins may rally again when they get back on their own grounds, but there is a hard uphill fight that may prove too much for them.

BROIDA TENNIS VICTOR

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

LOCAL WOMAN CHAMP MEETS DEFEAT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19.—Frank Broida, doughty little Harvard southpaw and men's singles victor in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh public parks tennis championships last month, yesterday swept to an impressive first-round triumph over hard-hitting Alex Goodman, Scranton youth, as nearly four-score municipal racquet stars from 33 cities as widely scattered as New York, Los Angeles, San Diego and Honolulu swung into action here to inaugurate play in the eighth annual national public parks net conclave.

Broida's tally read 1-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. The margin of his win, gained largely by virtue of excellent forehand driving, was just about as decisive as the result would indicate.

MRS. ARTZBERGER LOSES

But while Broida was upholding Steel City prestige in the man-to-man division, Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Pittsburgh's lone feminine representative, suffered a tough 6-2, 6-2 setback at the hands of Helen Germaine, a very clever young lady from New York, in an initial bracket contest that saw the West Penn luminary extremely nervous, erratic and below the par of her home appearances.

The women's singles jousting, it had been understood, was not to get under way until tomorrow, but for some unaccountable reason it was moved up unexpectedly. Its draw of only 17 would lead one to believe that it would have been started not before today at the very earliest. But started it was, and Mrs. Artzberger, not yet quite acclimated to the atmosphere of nation-wide competition, was eliminated without opportunity to display her game at its best.

BROIDA STARTS SLOW

Broida was slow in warming up to his tilt with Goodman. His backhand troubled him considerably, the high bounds prevalent on the sun-baked surfaces distracting him and forcing him to adjust his stiff offside drive to a more conservative defensive stroke.

With the beginning of set two, Broida stepped out in true form. Goodman led at 40-love on service in the opening game, whereupon the Pittsburgher struck up the band for five consecutive points and the game. This sudden reversal disconcerted Goodman so that he was able to garner but a point apiece in the next two games. A love game went to Goodman on service for 5-2, but Broida swirled right back with another pointless game in the seventh for the set, 6-2.

Broida was clipping his forehand deeply and prettily as the third stanza got going. After being down two game points in the sixth game, he slashed deeply to compel two hostile misplays for the game and an instant later it was a Pittsburgh set as Goodman netted a backhand volley to drop service in the seventh.

LOCAL STAR RALLIES

Service prevailed through five games of the fourth set, Goodman regaining a measure of poise during the brief rest period allowed after the third frame.

Mrs. Artzberger never really swung into high gear in her tussle with Miss Germaine. The New Yorker grabbed off 12 straight points for three love games at the commencement of hostilities ere Mrs. Artzberger put temporary halt to the parade by crushing the Germaine service with aid of a passing drive and a double fault at deuce in the fourth game.

Miss Germaine flashed a rather effective forehand as her main weapon of offense. Her first service was hard, but her second was cream-puffed and would have been stowed away easily by the Pittsburgh woman had the latter been less nervous. Both players were wobbly off backhand.

The sole major upset of the day occurred at the expense of Jack Castle, former Pittsburgher, who now shines in the livery of Buffalo. Castle, third on the national public parks ranking list and seeded number three in the current milling, fell by the wayside in a bitterly fought almost endlessly protracted fray with Arnold Simmons, Louisville contender, 7-5, 1-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0. In another, though less signal, dope reversal, Edgar Yeomans, Washington youngster who has pushed several of the nation's highest rated satellites to extra sets, was retired by Alex Keiles, Baltimore star, 5-7, 8-6, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

Today's card calls for Broida to encounter Ted Drewes, St. Louis ace and former national public parks champion. Broida and Mrs. Artzberger will compete in the doubles in their respective classifications, but neither has as yet definitely settled upon a partner. The summary:

Jack Gagnon Loses To Frank Cawley

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Frank Cawley, youthful heavyweight from Pittston, Pa., won the decision over Jack Gagnon, of Boston, Mass., in a 10-round main event at the Arena last night. Cawley weighed 189; Gagnon 190.

The former coal miner and the Boston strong man slugged away on fairly even terms for eight rounds, but in the closing sessions Cawley cut loose with a two-fisted attack that had his hard-hitting opponent worried.

FIVE CHAMPS CERTAIN TO SHOW HERE

By JESS CARVER

At least five, maybe six and perhaps seven holders of A. A. U. track and field records will lend their presences to the entry list of the national championships which will get under way in Pitt's Stadium Friday. Of the five certain to be on hand, all are defending champions.

Pittsburgh, of course, will have first class representation in this list in Reginald Bowen, Pete to you, who holds the Association mark for 440 yards, set last year at the Denver meet.

FRED STURDY HERE

In addition to Bowen, Johnny Gibson, 440-yard hurdle star; Ed Hamm, broad jumper; Fred Sturdy, the pole vaulter; Herman (Hoiman) Brix, shot heaver and Jesse Mortensen, the spear spinner, are the record holders booked for engagements in the Stadium.

These lads, with the exception of Gibson, are also defending champions. Gibson did not compete in the nationals last year but is reported in trim for a comeback effort for the local meet.

If Eric Krenz comes East for participation in the discus tossing, he'll make the seventh.

ARBITERS TO MEET

Walter R. Okeson, commissioner of the Eastern Association for Selection of Football Officials (at $5,000 per year) has called a meeting of all directors of athletics, graduate managers, coaches and all officials of the association for Saturday and Sunday, September 6 and 7, in the Hotel McAlpine, New York.

Commissioner Okeson, who is a pretty smart fella, wants the boys to get together for the purpose of discussing officiating, the relations of coaches and officials and for a general study and interpretation of rules.

The meeting is for the organization only, but Commissioner Okeson has kindly offered to admit any members of the press who might wish to get in five or six hours of good sleep, by card only.

There are a lot better places the scribes can get in by card, where they don't have to listen to football rules. A card, three knocks and the right sort of a whisper.

Clark and Erv Brame were slab heroes in the gruelling fight. Glenn Wright slammed a homer into the rightfield stands in the first of the ninth to put his club out in front.

Local Horses Sent To Shows in East

Newton Victor, Knight Banneret and May Hop, harness horses owned by Mrs. Oliver M. Kaufmann, and 12 head of hunters and jumpers from the Fox Chapel string, shown by A. Douglas Ness, are to make a tour of shows in the eastern states.

The Pittsburgh equine aristocrats were shipped to Derby, N. Y., yesterday, where they will be shown at the Derby Show, near Buffalo. From there they will be taken to Hamburg, Rochester or Syracuse, N. Y., and Springfield and Brockton, Mass.

Highland Lad and Christmas Morning, saddle horses owned and shown by Mrs. Lewis A. Park, of Sewickley, won ribbons in the Newport show that closed Saturday.

McAuliffe Meets Shanks Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Jack McAuliffe, of Detroit, and Andy Shanks, Grand Rapids (Mich.) heavyweight, will meet in a 10-round bout at the Congress Arcade arena tonight.

ALLISON, VAN RYN WIN

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles player, was the first player to enter the fourth round of the fourteenth annual Newport Casino invitation singles tennis play here today when he scored an easy 6-3, 6-1 victory over Edward Jenkins, of New York.

Jenkins qualified for his third-round match on a default awarded when Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., withdrew from the tourney. Gregory Mangin, of Newark, seeded seventh on the list of 10 headed by Bill Tilden, the defending champion, followed Allison, number three, into the fourth bracket on the default that followed the withdrawals of Julius Seligson, New York, and Judge Beaver, of Gainsville, Ga.

Tilden tenderly nursed his injured hip during his 26-game match with John S. Millen, husky New York youngster, and by applying pressure at the proper time gained an easy victory by 8-6, 7-5, to move into the fourth round with the other leaders. Johnny Van Ryn, another Davis Cup player, reached that bracket by defeating Dave Jones, of New York, in an extra-set match 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

NEW ATCHISON RAIL LINES ON COAST

Road Announces Intention to Build Large Terminal On San Francisco Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway will construct a 319-acre industrial terminal fronting on the Richmond inner harbor of San Francisco Bay. The project calls for the filling of 162 acres of submerged land to cost $250,000.

Although Atchison has been linked with the ownership of the Berkeley Waterfront Company, holdings of which company lie along the Richmond and Berkeley tide lands areas, the land to be developed has been owned by the road for some years, through its subsidiaries, the Santa Fe Land and Improvement Company.

TO USE NEW LINES

The road would participate in the use of the proposed "Belt Line" of the Key Terminal Railway, Ltd., subsidiary of the new Railway Equipment and Realty Company, Ltd., which will serve the West Oakland industrial area and the outer Oakland harbor port docks. Atchison's tracks now connect with those of the Key System, which has an application on file to be permitted to connect its lines with the Western Pacific.

Reports that Atchison is considering the abandonment of its Richmond freight and passenger terminal and entering San Francisco via the Key System mole or via the proposed Western Pacific peninsula road, are denied.

STOREY OPTIMISTIC

W. B. Storey, president, says crops in California are good, and while the orange crop this year is two-thirds that of 1929, farmers are getting higher prices, but the railways are suffering from the decreased tonnage. Prospects for the fall are satisfactory, but prices probably will be lower.

While the corn crop in the Middle West is off materially, losses ranging from 10 per cent to 75 per cent, the freight loadings will not be materially affected, as consumption of corn is in the area where it is grown and consequently it does not move by rail.

The drought has not hurt the wheat crop. It is estimated the road will haul as much wheat this year as last, but it is not moving now on account of low prices.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

OIL PRODUCTION DECLINES

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 19.—(AP.)—The Oil and Gas Journal reports a decline of 25,254 barrels in the estimated daily average production of oil in the United States for the week ended August 16. A decline of 26,270 barrels was reported in the Oklahoma City field, offset by increases elsewhere.

The total estimated daily average output for the week was 2,453,005 barrels, compared with 2,478,259 for the preceding week. The estimated decline in the mid-continent area including both light and heavy gravity oil, was 25,250 barrels, almost equaling the downward movement for the entire country. Production in the Oklahoma City pool dropped to 70,615 barrels and Oklahoma's total was placed at 537,755 barrels, a decrease of 22,320 barrels. A noteworthy feature of the report was found in a comparison with the production for the corresponding week of last year, showing that last week's daily average was 512,000 barrels under that of the same week of 1929.

Darst Creek Oil Curb Is Approved

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 19.—The Texas Railroad Commission has approved curtailment of oil production in the Darst Creek field to a maximum of 44,000 barrels daily.

Hospitable Pittsburgh

When a stranger enters Pittsburgh and goes to a hotel to register, he gets his first impression of the city from the greeting of the "man at the desk." Frequently it is the impression that remains with him longest.

Arriving, tired and perhaps "out of sorts," a friendly greeting, a welcome hand, awaits him at his hotel. It makes a world of difference. He begins his day with a warm feeling of friendliness toward the city that makes him feel glad to be here. When he continues on his travels, he has a pleasant word to say about the city to all he meets.

Pittsburgh is a hospitable city because the "man at the desk" has made it so.

OLD-TIME BULL FORCES SEND STOCKS UP

Professional Operators Trying to Rally Market, Brokerage Gossip Says

NEW YORK Aug 19—(AP.)—The old time bulls once more tried their hand at managing the balky stock market today, hoping for better success than they had in July.

Brokerage gossip said that a handful of the more active professional operators were seeking to rally a following around the bull standard feeling that the completely sold out condition of the market as indicated by its performance during the past two sessions, had definitely injured the popularity of the bear cause. The line of the least resistance appeared to be upward.

The market made a broad advance running from 2 to 4 points in a long list of important stocks as bears relieved their short contracts but there was no repetition of the bear panic of Friday. The advance embraced practically all prominent groups with the tobaccos and utilities notably strong. United States Steel American Can, Radio, Liggett & Myers issues the American Tobacco stocks North American, American Water Works, Stone & Webster, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Fox and New York Central gained about 2 to 4 while such wide movers as Allied Chemical, Atchison Case and Columbian Carbon mounted about 5 to 10. Royal Dutch was an isolated weak spot.

BULLS SEIZE CHANCE

Although the market has been unresponsive to optimistic pronouncements for some time professional operators finding themselves up against a stone wall on the bear side of the market were quick to make the most of available material susceptible to bullish interpretation.

Secretary Mellon was quoted as saying in Pittsburgh that as soon as the merchandise markets are cleared of present supplies on hand, the business situation should improve.

He said:

"Curtailment in output without a question will correct the present condition within a short time."

Bankers and statistical services have been pointing out for some time that consumption was running ahead of production, thus paving the way for a fresh start, but speculators have found it difficult to interpret slack industrial operations bullishly, healthful as they may be economically.

A statement by Harvey Firestone to the effect that America is on the eve of greater prosperity than it has known during the last 10 years, also helped market sentiment. In addition the American Machinist's review of business conditions struck a more optimistic note than this publication had sounded all summer.

TRADING LIGHT

Although the volume of trading picked up a little, it was still light and almost entirely professional. There are still a few flat notes sounded in the chorus of business reports and opinions.

The crude oil situation is again causing wide concern in Wall Street, and some observers believe another price cutting orgy may break out in the mid-continent area, although production was cut further last week to the lowest in years. Furthermore, most bankers now state that a healthy business recovery must be a slow one. Many brokers are advising their customers to maintain substantial cash reserves.

Another factor making many traders cautious is the fact that stocks have not generally been reduced to the high yield levels of past bear markets. It is pointed out that one must have faith in another extraordinary growth of business profits to buy any of the numerous important stocks still selling from 20 to 30 times annual earnings. On the other hand, dividend yields on most industrial and rail stocks are ample to pay carrying charges twice over, so that any varied portfolio of shares will about carry itself, and with at least seasonal business improvement in sight, holders are not easily stampeded into selling by bear tactics, money remained easy, with funds plentifully available outside at 2 per cent.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Cotton opened very steady today at an advance of 8 to 15 points in response to the firmer showing of Liverpool, while the stronger technical position following recent severe declines was reflected by a good deal of covering.

Some trade buying was scattered buying for a rally was also reported and while the advance met considerable southern selling, prices worked about 20 to 27 points net higher during the early trading. The new October contract sold up to 11.04c and was ruling around 11.01c around the end of the first hour, while March sold at 11.16c compared with 11.20c at the close of business yesterday.

The early advance to 11.04c for the new October and 11.18c for March contracts, or about 23 to 28 points above yesterday's closing quotations, met increased offerings. This supplied the demand and prices later eased off under selling by spot houses. Wall Street and some of the local traders who had bought earlier in the day. At mid-day trading was less active with the market ruling around 10.86c for October and 11.01c for March or within 6 to 10 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 19.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices lower. American strict good middling 7.34; good middling 6.99; middling 6.69; middling, 6.49; strict low middling 6.19; low middling 5.64; strict good ordinary, 4.91; good ordinary, 4.54. Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—No change occurred in raw sugar early today with Cuban available at 3.15c for spots, duty paid, and duty free offered at 3.16c. The only sale reported was 38,700 bags Philippines in port to a local refiner, but the price paid was not made public, although some believed it was at 3.15c delivered.

In refined the demand continued of a day to day character, while prices were unchanged at 4.50c for fine granulated.

Pool Operations Account For Heavy Turnover In Radio

Radio Corporation continued tremendously active today rising to new high ground on the movement on transactions in large blocks. Radio's volume of 192,100 shares in Monday's session represented more than 10 per cent of the entire stock exchange turnover, bearing out rumors of the formation of a huge new pool in the stock. Wall street was greatly interested in the line-up of this reported operation. Names mentioned in this connection were regarded as evidencing a change of front on the part of several of the street's leading speculators. Among those supposed to have taken on substantial lines of radio are M. J. Meehan, R. V. Hiscox, George F. Birett, Joseph E. Higgins and William E. Danforth. These men were prominent on the bull side during the Coolidge regime. Reports that they were undertaking an ambitious program in radio were interpreted to mean that they considered fundamental market conditions again favorable to bullish operations.

Bearish propaganda ancnt the preferred dividend on Radio Corporation was circulated in Wall street. For the first six months but $1.25 of the $1.75 preferred A dividend was actually earned, but the corporation went through the worst period in its history. If the company was able to earn a large part of the preferred dividend in this trying period it would appear more than likely that there will be earnings applicable to the common after preferred dividend requirements for the second six months.

In accordance with its action in the last six months, Loew's, Inc. is again meeting good support every time it sells down in the lower sixties. Although public enthusiasm for the amusement stocks has been dulled by the passing of the Warner dividend, still the best information obtainable suggests that Loew's will show close to $10 a share for the year ended August 31.

There are a number of stale bull accounts being liquidated in rail shares, some of which are for foreign account. Some of these are a throw-back to the summer of 1929 and have been carried along in the hope earnings would improve in the late summer. Now that there is not much expectation of this, much of the stock is being thrown on the market, particularly in issues where the dividends are in question.

There are still a few stocks that are being bought in large amounts gradually by investment trusts and investors and one of these is National Biscuit. So far this company has shown amazing stability in earnings. Buying of the stock has been insistent throughout the weak spots and one investment trust is said to be accumulating 25,000 shares of the stock.

A special analysis of the Allis Chalmers Company reveals the enviable position which it has attained in the heavy machinery industry. Earnings for the first half of this year showed an increase in both the first and second quarter earnings over the like periods of 1929, with the ratio of increase in profits amounting to 8 per cent. Due to an increase in the amount of stock outstanding net earnings per share for the first six months of this year were $1.87, as compared with $1.91 in 1929. Allis Chalmers has added numerous new products to its line in recent years, with operations co-ordinated into eight departments producing some 22 major lines.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Corn and wheat parted company in today's early price changes, corn going down, whereas wheat averaged higher. Additional rains and moderate temperatures over the corn belt led to much selling of corn. On the other hand, unlooked for upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool brought about considerable buying of wheat future deliveries here. Opening unchanged to 1 cent lower, corn afterward underwent a sharp general setback. Wheat started unchanged to ¾-cent higher, reacted somewhat, and then rallied.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Apparently encouraged by the manner in which leading issues have resisted spasmodic attempts to send them lower the past few days, a good buying movement developed in the New York curb market today. While there were a few laggards many leading shares notably in utilities and specialties participated in the rally. The general tone was firm.

Building Activity Increases in July

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Some improvement in the building situation throughout the United States was noted during July, according to official reports of building permits issued in 589 leading cities and towns as compiled by S. W. Straus & Co.

July volume of planning construction was $187,570,740, against $184,665,439 in June, a gain of about 1.6 per cent. Normally there is a decline of close to 13 per cent between the two months. However, July declined 36 per cent from the $292,912,550 volume of permits issued in July, 1929, indicating that building generally is still far from normal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Upper Merion and Plymouth Railroad received authorization from the Interstate Commerce Commission to acquire tracks located at Swedeland, Pa., now owned by the Rainey-Wood Coke Company.

The road was also authorized to issue 2,560 shares of common capital stock, valued at $128,000, to be sold at par to the Alan Wood Steel Company, and the proceeds used in acquiring the track mentioned above.

AUTO INDUSTRY GAIN SEEN IN SECOND HALF

New Models and Opinion That Trade Is Improving Will Help, Franklin Says

By MERRYLE S RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — To an increasing extent, the automobile industry has become a balance wheel of prosperity and depression. Accordingly, trends in this basic trade must be observed carefully by analysts of the general situation.

Apart from Ford and Chevrolet the whole industry has faced a shrinking demand.

Mr. Rukeyser

H. H. Franklin president Franklin Automobile Company, in a message to this column said:

"Our shipments for the first six months of 1930, in common with the industry, are low compared to last year. We are only 4 per cent below 1928, however, while the industry excluding Ford, is approximately 15 per cent below.

"Retail business has held up exceptionally strong. We are 16 per cent below last year, which was the largest year in our history, and 44 per cent ahead of 1928.

"Sales for the second half of 1930 should be helped by introduction of new models and through a growing opinion that general business is improving. However sales and profits for 1930 will be low compared to last year."

PURCHASING TREND

Queried as to whether the apparent increasing preference for cheap cars represented more than a temporary phase, Mr. Franklin replied:

"Excluding Ford, there is no indication of any marked trend to lower priced cars over 1929. There is a 4 per cent decrease in the $1,000 to $2,000 wholesale price range, which has gone into the below $1,000 range, but the cars selling above $2,000 show the same percentage as in 1929. In my opinion, should there be any indication of a permanent trend for low-priced cars, price adjustments would be in order."

Questioned about the status of dealers, Mr. Franklin added:

"Our dealers' situation has improved. Additional capital, new capital with new personnel have been secured in many important distributing points. Dealers' stocks are low. Most of the manufacturers have introduced methods, personnel, etc., to improve the dealer in merchandising and management."

Mr. Franklin has no knowledge of any radically new appeal which industry may have up its sleeve but pointed out that the tendency is for increased power and speed.

PENT-UP DEMAND

Asked whether the decision of many to continue to drive old cars was resulting in a pent-up demand for automobiles, the executive said:

"If there is any pent-up demand created by the decision of owners to drive their old cars, it will be reflected in 1931."

As to operating economies established, Mr. Franklin said:

"During the last two years we have completely arranged our plant and manufacturing processes, installing the most modern machinery."

Queried about wages, Mr. Franklin said:

"We have not and do not intend to change hourly wage rates. Present wages should be maintained. Cost reductions must be secured through improved methods."

Asked what is needed to improve exports, Mr. Franklin whose headquarters is at Syracuse, N. Y. pointed out:

"Import business has been poor because of depressed business conditions and tariff agitation. The normal purchase of foreign goods and foreign securities by United States interests will give credit facilities abroad which should increase exports."

INSTALMENT SALES

The final question was, has the depression strengthened or diminished your faith in the efficacy of selling automobiles on the instalment plan.

The rejoiner was precisely phrased as follows:

"Statistics of the four leading finance companies on June 30, 1930, show that they had on hand $528,000,000 of retail paper, compared with $539,000,000 on the same date last year, and that less than one-third of one per cent was overdue as much as 30 days, compared with one-fifth of one per cent last year. Paper overdue more than 60 days was not quite one-fifth of one per cent, compared to one-eighth of one per cent last year. Value of repossessed cars, representing final defaults, one-half of one per cent, compared to a little over one-quarter of one per cent last year.

"While it is possible these figures will not look so good the next six months, they prove that instalment selling of merchandise to date has been controlled and is sound."

Incidentally, though the well managed finance companies are coming through the present industrial test satisfactorily, I understand that their collection costs have risen very sharply.

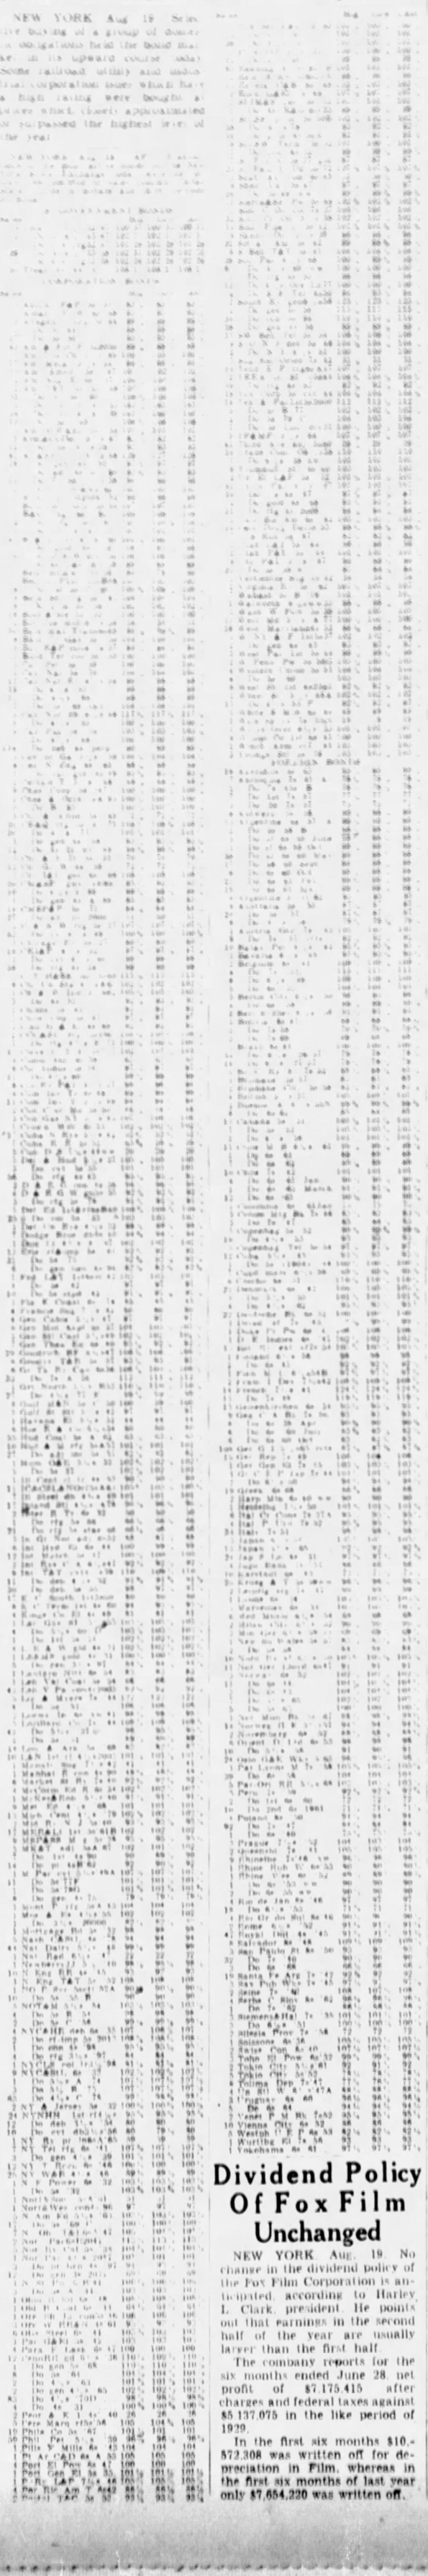
NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — Selective buying of a group of domestic obligations held the bond market in its upward course today. Some railroad, utility and industrial corporation issues which have a high rating were bought at prices which closely approximated or surpassed the highest level of the year.



Short Stock Interest Believed Large

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE SHORT INTEREST IN STOCKS is understood to be larger than at any time in many months. Uncertain action of the market, news of the drought and discouraging earnings statements of many corporations have been important factors on the bear side. While the short interest reflects the rather gloomy outlook for general business, it may also prove a strong market factor if constructive influences develop before a large part of these shorts have had an opportunity to cover.

Just as the profit taking of shorts proves to be a stabilizing influence during a decline, the squeezing of these interests during a period of advance tends to accentuate the upward movements. These comments are not intended as a market forecast. They are made purely to disclose a technical condition. Whether or not the many shorts are correct in their appraisal of the market outlook is anyone's guess.

Stocks Loaning Flat

THE EXTENT OF THE SHORT interest is indicated by the large number of stocks which are being loaned on a flat basis. Ordinarily only a few issues are in such a loan demand. It must be remembered, however, that the prevailing low rates for call money have materially reduced the spread between loaning rates on stocks not in great demand by the shorts and those needed in such quantities as to loan on a flat basis.

At the end of last week 52 out of 85 stocks loaning rates on which are quoted were on a flat basis. Of the 33 loaning at an interest rate only 12 commanded the prevailing call money rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. On the New York Curb 76 out of 92 stocks in active loan demand were on a flat basis. None loaned at a rate over 2 per cent. This condition indicates that there is an especially heavy short interest in the market. If the market declines these shorts will make money. If the market develops strength, many of them will be forced to cover and their buying operations will act as a marked stimulous to an advance.

How Short Sales Work

WHEN A CUSTOMER ORDERS his broker to make a short sale, that is to sell a stock which he does not possess in the hope that its price will decline and that he will be able to complete the transaction by a purchase at a lower price, the broker must make delivery of the stock just as if a normal sale had been made.

To do this he must borrow the stock from some other broker. As security he gives this other broker cash equal to the market price of the stock. The broker who lends the stock has the use of this money. It is the equivalent of his borrowing money with the stock as collateral. In view of this it is customary for the broker lending the stock to pay interest on this money at the prevailing call money rates.

Loaning Rates Vary

WHEN THERE ARE MANY SHORTS and loans of particular stocks are in great demand, the interest paid will naturally be lower than the call money rates. If the demand for certain stocks is heavy no interest will be paid and the stocks will be loaned flat. It sometimes happens that a premium will actually be paid by the broker borrowing the stock.

A short transaction is completed when the seller covers by buying an amount of the stock equal to the number of shares he sold. This permits his broker to return the equivalent of the borrowed stocks and to get his money back.

Can't Eat? Can't Sleep? Can't Drink?

Left Out of Parties and Good Times Because of Acid Stomach and Gas?

Here's Instant Relief

More than two million people are already using new formula, Acidine, to relieve acid stomach troubles. They are enjoying new happiness and health because they can eat and drink what they want and enjoy a restful night's sleep afterwards. Thousands of these users have written us telling of their experiences with Acidine.

What Users Say:

Mr. E. J. Moore of Cincinnati, Ohio, a regular user of Acidine now, was deeply discouraged due to three years' acid stomach suffering before he enjoyed the relief this new formula brought him. He says "For the last three years I have been bothered by food souring, causing a burning sensation that at times I felt like jumping in the river. I tried innumerable medicines, consulted a stomach specialist, but no relief. Finally I heard about Acidine and got some. No more burning or sour belching and vomiting, no headaches. Acidine is certainly a marvelous medicine." Such relief is yours too—not just temporary relief, but a quick end to burning acid stomach, gnawing pains before or after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness and if you take Acidine. It is best for acid stomach trouble.

Long, Sleepless Nights Often Caused by Gas

If you are troubled from sleeplessness due to gas and burning acid, Acidine will give you quick relief and restful sleep. Try it next time you lie awake waiting for a seemingly endless night to end.

The Scientific Way to Combat Acid Stomach Troubles

Acidine will help you because it is a scientific development entirely different from other remedies. Contains an effective digestant, Japtase which promptly liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy food, under proper conditions. Five other scientific ingredients neutralize burning acid, stop gas formation, soothe irritated stomach lining. No other remedy contains this scientific combination to aid acid stomach troubles.

Make This Guaranteed Test

If you have been suffering from acid stomach disorder which prevents you from eating and drinking what you want and if gas causes you sleepless nights, you owe it to yourself to test Acidine at once. Go to any drug store and buy it. If you are not more than pleased with the results after testing it, take the Acidine back and get your money back. You take no chance. The risk is ours, the benefit, yours. Don't be any longer without the joy Acidine will bring you—get it today.

DAILY TRUE STORY

By McClure Tice

I hadn't seen my brother for 15 years, or since he bought a large but run-down place in Virginia and went there to make his home.

"I thought," I said when he met me at the little country station with a handsome car, "that you didn't like cars."

"Man is privileged to change his mind, Cal," he said.

"I know that well enough, Joe," I answered. "You went away from home a sort of woman-hater and here you are married and driving a car. What else did you change your mind about?"

"Whatever it has been it's for the best, I reckon, and that reminds me my wife went up to Roanoke to visit her sister. She won't be home until late this evening."

"Too bad! I'm filled with curiosity to see what sort of a wife you picked out, Joe."

"Suits me. Too bad you couldn't have brought Sue down—she looks a lot like my wife."

Sue is my wife. I hadn't expected to visit my brother but was coming up through Virginia for the first time in years and knew he would be offended if I didn't make a side trip to his place.

He drove in through a wide gate, a colored boy being there to open it for him and close it afterwards.

Lilies and iris bordered the white pebbled path; sycamores, elms, mulberry trees and magnolias graced the sloping grounds. The house with its great round two-story high pillars at the front porch was spotless in white paint and cool green shutters. Everything looked prosperous and as quick and spun as a painted picture.

"Thought you bought a run-down place, Joe!"

"It was pretty shabby when I got here, but the land was excellent, the trees and shrubbery needed only trimming and pruning, and as for these old houses, they are timbered to last. New roofing and outside and some paint—and there you are!"

Changes Mind

I could see that Joe took great pride in his place. Back of the house sloped a great orchard of peach trees, some 30 acres, and at the side of this an apiary of several hundred hives looked like a colony of white Lilliputian cottages.

An oldish colored man took my luggage up to a big cool room.

"Get into something comfortable, Cal, and come down," brother Joe said.

That took me only long enough to don my plus-fours and a soft-collar shirt.

Joe was talking to the colored man.

"Put the table under the magnolia tree, Rufus," he was saying.

He started telling me about his sales of honey as we stood on the front porch looking down across the wide front grounds and on to the Roanoke River valley.

I heard sounds suspiciously like the cracking of ice from within and I began to smile in anticipation.

"Don't tell me, Joe," I exclaimed, "that you have also changed you mind about stimulants!"

"Well," he hesitated and laughed rather sheepishly, "my wife sort of helped me change my mind about that. After I had one of her mint juleps I decided that I had never known what nectar really meant. Rufus makes them tolerably good, himself."

Rufus came out bringing a small table. He went down and crossed along a diagonal path with it, straight to a massive elm, one of those rare old wine-glass shaped elms so common through New England and so rare below the Mason-Dixon line.

When he set the table there, alongside a bench that circled the tree, I was puzzled. I looked at Joe, expecting to hear him bawl the old fellow out, but he never said a word.

I heard him very distinctly tell Rufus to place the table under the magnolia tree. I looked about. The only magnolias were down by the gate.

Rufus came back. Joe and I went down and sat on the circular bench. Rufus came with the juleps. After a proper period of respect and tribute to the aromatic and frapped beverage I said: "What was the idea, Joe, of letting him bring you here when you told him to place the table under a magnolia tree?" I asked.

No Mistake

There seemed to be something funny about it. He laughed heartily.

"Rufus made no mistake, Cal," he gestured up to the great elm. "This is the magnolia tree."

"Indeed?" I answered, thinking he was kidding me. "That one," I indicated a sycamore, "is a cocoanut palm, I presume."

"Nope, sycamore. Reckon I'll have to tell you about this magnolia tree."

We applied ourselves to the wheat straws in the mint-decorated glasses for a moment.

"See that building over there?"

It wasn't difficult to see. It resembled, in miniature, Joe's home except that one could see that the lower floor was a great garage. Curtains and flower boxes at the upper windows indicated that someone lived there.

"That was the Martin place when I came here, a pretty much run-down house. Old Sam Martin lived there, with his stepdaughter. He called her 'Maggie' and her life wasn't any too pleasant with him. I decided before I had been here a week, that Maggie was going to be pretty much of a pest.

"You boys quit that soldering now. I heard her shout to them one day. You're getting right smart money because that. No theater don't know no better, but you can't soldier like that.'

"I was indignant. I walked over to the line. 'There was a rickety fence, see those seats on the tree trunk?' The fence ran to each side of the tree and had been spiked against it. I walked over and asked her now to scold my men.

"They're cheatin' you, Mr. Galvin,' she said. 'They wouldn't dare steal like this for one of us.'

"I told her not to bother. I was satisfied. But this seemed to have no effect. When I had an extra well dug my men started it where I indicated. Maggie came over and asked him what he was doing. 'Don't waste time diggin' there,' she ordered. 'You won't strike water in 10 years.' He took her it was my orders. 'He don't know anything. I heard her say derisively.

Stepfather Dies

She disappeared but came back with a forked twig and began to walk around with it. I watched her curiously, more angry than ever with her. I saw the twig bend down in her hands. She marked the spot and came marching over to me. 'I was sitting right here under this tree.

'Have him dig where I marked. I can always find water. It's a better place and you'll get good water in plenty,' she said.

'Thanks, Miss Nosey, but I'll struggle along to suit myself,' I answered. She got rather red, tossed her head and walked away. Well, sir, my man dug twenty-four feet and never found a damp spot. That made me sore. He asked to dig where this buttinski girl indicated and I had to agree. He got water at five feet and more than plenty at ten.

"Her stepfather was taken sick and died. I sent word across to know if I could be of any help. She sent back word that she would struggle along to suit herself.

"Several times after that I found her down in the glen or on the other side of this tree or some such place, and she was either crying or just had been crying. The place had to be sold. I knew nothing about it, or I would have bought it. It went for a fraction of its land value.

"'What's going on here—how dare you tie this girl to that tree?' I demanded.

"'I'm Charles Wiggin. I have bought this place and I propose to run my lines and make sure I get all I bought,' one of the men said.

"'That's not answering me. Why did you tie the girl—' 'She tied herself there!' this chap Wiggin said. I didn't like his looks. I went over and, much as I disliked the girl for her bossy ways, I asked her who tied her and why.

"'I tied myself, Mr. Galvin. Do you know what that man was going to do? He was going to cut down this tree because the land line runs right through it. I pleaded with him. I knew it would make you feel terrible, but he was going ahead. So I tied myself to his side of the tree and told him if he laid hands on me or ordered anyone to I'd have him jailed for assault and battery and mayhem and murder and everything else.'

"'But look here, Maggie—' 'Please don't call me that. I hate the name,' she cried. 'But look here, young woman, it isn't your property—what did you care?'

Buys Property

"'I couldn't see such a beautiful tree cut down,' she said, 'and I didn't want you to think I was a party to it.'

"Wiggin came over and started to make threats. 'Look here,' I said, 'this is a line tree. Do you know what they do to you in Virginia if you kill a line tree?' he said he didn't. I stretched it considerably and told him I could keep him in jail until another tree grew to the same size and that would take three hundred years. He promptly got scared and that girl Maggie just threw her arms about me as soon as she realized that I had scared the man and saved the tree.

"I bought the property of Wiggin soon after that and planned a large garage and a place overhead for the servants, as you see now. It was about this time, when carpenters came to look it over and make estimates, that I found Maggie weeping here by this tree. I felt sorry for her. She said she didn't mind leaving the old place, but when she was a little girl her mother told her she could have this tree for her very own."

"Here comes my wife now," he said, and then he called: "Magnolia, dear, come and see a new relative—my brother Cal."

She greeted me warmly. She was a beautiful young woman.

When she had gone in I said: "Joe, I take it that Maggie and Magnolia are one and the same girl—now Mrs. Joe Galvin—and that she has her tree for her very own and that you never call it an elm, but the 'magnolia tree'."

"Correct, Cal—go and write it into one of your stories if you wish."

Chairman Legge wants farmers to raise less wheat. But the farmers think that would be silly, and the only way to fix things is for the board to buy more wheat.

The logical move to restore harmony would be a concerted drive by both factions to get housewives to burn more toast.

It would probably be impossible; but, anyway, it would give the farmers and the farmers' friends something to crab about besides each other.

Senator Frank J. Harris Is Righteously Indignant

Unless proof is forthcoming, and that promptly, for the charge of Charles J. Pommer, Philadelphia councilman, that Senator Frank J. Harris, sponsor for voting machine legislation, is financially interested in a voting machine company, all decent-minded citizens will resent, no less indignantly than the Senator himself, the slur against his honor.

As things stand now, the accusation lacks substantiation, and Senator Harris says there is not a word of truth in it. He demands proof or retraction, and he should have it.

The Senator is righteously indignant. It is outrageous that a citizen who has served the public so faithfully, and with such expenditure of time and money, in altruistic efforts to promote honesty in our elections, should thus be assailed with an unsubstantiated charge that he is actuated by hope of financial gain.

Build Public Works Now To Relieve Unemployment

Pittsburgh's army of unemployed was swelled yesterday by more than 200 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, laid off for a year. This aggravation of the industrial situation gives added force to the demand that public works like the Town Hall and the subway and the post-office and the river-rail terminals, for which bond issues were long since voted or which were otherwise authorized, be constructed now.

In Everybody's Magazine for August, 1916, William Hard had an article that applies to existing conditions almost as pertinently as if it had been written today. He suggested that the national and local governments accumulate funds as a reserve to be expended on public enterprises in times of dullness, and that a National Unemployment Crisis Commission indicate when it would be proper to spend the money.

The article is of peculiar interest to Pittsburgh because Hard selected local projects as examples of the kind of public works that should be undertaken when many men are out of work. He mentioned the storage reservoirs that the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh wants the federal government to build on the headwaters of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers to protect the valleys from floods and low water. He also spoke of sanitary works that the state asked the city to build to protect the rivers from pollution by sewage.

Hard, 14 years ago, imagined a situation in which the National Unemployment Crisis Commission reported to the President of the United States that the outgoing tonnage in the Pittsburgh district had declined to 75 per cent of normal, and that Pittsburgh employment bureaus had four times the normal number of applications for jobs. The President thereupon directed the chief of engineers to start work on the storage reservoirs, while at the same time the city got busy with the sanitary project.

Thousands of men were thus furnished employment, and thousands of others given jobs in the plants supplying machines and materials for the projects. With the wages received the men thus provided with work purchased needed articles for their families, thereby creating a demand for the material of other manufacturers, who in their turn put still other men to work. And so, as Hard pictured it, the depression found itself reversed, and instead of an impulse downward there was an impulse upward.

Hard's plan was indorsed as practical, at the time of its publication, by a number of industrial leaders and big businessmen, including John Mitchell, president of the United Mine workers; Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior; Jacob Schiff, the banker, and Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company. President Hoover approves the principle.

Pittsburgh has many authorized but postponed public projects, some belonging to the national, some to the county and city governments. There could be no better time than the present to go ahead with them.

Will Doctors Let Man Go Blind Who Cannot Pay?

A Pittsburgh girl avers her father is going blind and that it will take money to save him, which the family lacks. She offers herself in marriage to any American under 35 who will provide $8,000.

What has the medical profession to say to this? Is it possible that physicians would let a man go blind for lack of money to pay for treatment or operation? It is scarcely believable, yet that is the impression that the girl's story gives—and not only her story, but movies and novels in which a somewhat similar situation is a favorite plot.

A good deal has been said in recent years to the effect that modern doctors are rather mercenary as compared with the old-fashioned family physicians of our childhood. They no longer feel themselves bound by the oath of Hippocrates, it is said—no longer feel that they have a "call" to serve mankind, but regard their profession as a money-making trade just as if it were engineering or architecture or any other occupation in which no one expects work to be done for charity's sake.

Of course the hospitals do a good deal of charity work—that is why the State grants them appropriations. And no doubt there are numerous individuals in the medical profession who perform many services to poor people without the slightest expectation of compensation. And yet we have that ugly imputation constantly cropping up, as in the present case, that someone will be permitted to go blind, or die, unless a large sum of money is raised for medical treatment.

It is not hard to imagine a case in which the patient is told, say, that his only hope of recovery lies in spending the winter in Southern California, and is unable to go there for lack of money. But in such a case travel and hotel expenses would be the drawback rather than doctors' bills.

If the implication of the girls who offer themselves for sale is untrue—the implication that there are physicians who refuse to treat poor persons, no matter how desperate their need—the medical profession should make some sort of public declaration on the subject and not tamely submit to the reflection on their humanity.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Beware of October

If the same thing happens next October that happened last October, we'll be hornswogled, that's what we hope.

"Bugs" Baer

You remember last October, have you? Or are you still on margin?

That was the month when Wall street was a miniature golf course.

That was the month when panic was trumps and every bank opened a dental office to extract the gold from your back teeth.

It was lovely while it lasted. And it lasted.

Now, we are almost caught up to another October. Will the well established public make another snap at the scarlet coachman or does the burned child boycott the kitchen stove? Still, what's a little more heat to a rare sirloin?

The brokers are whistling happy days. But they're using a fountain pen full of red ink for a flute.

We like the way they handle stockholders in Germany. A Coburg sausage factory collected its shareholders and told them there would be no dividends this fiscal year to fisk with.

Which was all O. K. with the stockholders. Then the chairman rose on his spare heels and told them that the annual dinner was also canceled by mutual indigestion.

That started a riot. The annual dinner consisted of pig's knuckles and sauerkraut. German investors always get a meal with their director's notices.

Over here we get the notices first and don't feel like eating.

Over here we get applesauce.

After the failure of the company to toss in the bale of sauerkraut, the disgruntled holders of common stock proceeded to tear the sausage factory up into hot dog stands.

They wrecked the joint. The committee on stale business only saved its life by promising a double-header of sauerkraut for 1931. The shareholders then accepted the report of the president and voted to merge with the nearest exit.

Food is very important in all things. And with another irresistible October coming on why don't our brokers guarantee us a banquet in November if it's only in a bread line?

We advise speculators to proceed with caution during the 30 dazes of this October. You remember the turkeys were very fat last Thanksgiving. But who cared? The plum pudding was good at Christmas. But who could swallow it? And the bells rang merrily on New Year's Eve. But we were all tuned out.

THE ENIGMA OF GENIUS

By Archibald Henderson

Perhaps the greatest of all mysteries bequeathed to science by human life is the enigma of genius. It hangs along the sky as a huge interrogation mark. Neither Lombraso nor Mary Austin, neither Freud nor McKeen Cattell, has been able to pluck out the heart of its mystery. Genius is the unsolved problem, the enigmatic X, the unknown quantity in the equation of human existence. All the theories, suppositions, postulates and assumptions of science recoil, baffled and beaten, before this sphinx of life.

Heredity is an untrustworthy guide toward the inner shrine of this hidden maze. Genius is sporadic and evolves explosively, rather than by any principle of natural selection. Not even the principle of atavism suffices to account, in any satisfactory scientific way for the sudden outcropping of genius in entirely unpromising human material. No established background, eugenic, social or cultural, is discoverable to explain the emergence of such figures as Raphael, Rembrandt, Burns, Dickens, Pope, Southey, Shakespeare, Moliere, DeFoe, Keats, Kant, Spenser, Chatterton.

Science herself cannot explain the origin of such scientific geniuses as Newton, Faraday, Pasteur, Franklin. Genius, affirms Tucker, conforms to no rules of heredity or of eugenics. There have been wonderful families in history which attained high levels of ability through a number of generations: the Bernouillis in Europe, the Adamses in the United States. But they are so rare as to constitute spectacular exceptions to the rule that genius does not beget genius.

There is no help to be found in the alleged virtues of formal education. I have known personally several geniuses whose wings would have been clipped, imaginations chained by the restraining influences of strict educative process. An almost endless list might be given of geniuses who proved mediocre pupils or registered total failures at school, college or university. Many of the world's geniuses had little schooling or none at all of a formal sort. The gates of the university are not the portals to the Hall of Fame, although many a genius has chanced to pass through them on his journey to the heights.

It is perhaps to neurology that we must look in the effort to discover the explanation of genius. The depression of one function, for instance, may result in the super-stimulation of some other function. Many a scientific genius has been entirely deficient in a sense of color; many a painter has had no "head for mathematics." There are few geniuses who excel in more than one field; the great majority develop to a very high point one gift or faculty, largely to the exclusion of others. Genius is thus usually single-minded single-tracked.

The genius usually lives in a world of his own creating, and makes or breaks contact with the so-called "real" world at will. It is probably true that the highest genius is he who lives exclusively in the world of his own imagining: Shakespeare and Ibsen, Balzac and Poe, Newton and Einstein. Indeed, Einstein has suggested that, at bottom, there is no essential difference between the great artist, the great scientist, and the great philosopher. Each creates a world of his own, an image world where he dwells in harmonious companionship with the creatures of his fancy.

Genius and greatness, properly weighed and evaluated, are excessively rare. In his selection of the world's great men, Cattell selected only one thousand—which was perhaps much too large a number. Tucker, in his "The Gift of Genius," says it is safe to estimate that of the well-known men of the world, genius forms no more than one two-hundredth of one per cent, and of even the very illustrious not more than one-tenth of one per cent.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Dare to make mistakes! Dare to make a fool of yourself! For sincere foolishness is good stuff. It is, I suspect, the matrix of all great action. Everything noble and brave and wise that men have done, started in foolishness—in a vague groping and blundering in doing things that other men derided or condemned.

Even the earth, at the start, was a sort of divine foolishness. Remember? "And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the water—"

Gazing upon that confusion, from their fixed places in the vast, blue orderliness, the stars doubtless snickered and wondered what the Old Man was up to. But presently, purpose appeared in the chaos, and light in the darkness and—man.

And so it is in all great doings. Foolishness precedes them. And the taller the deed, the greater the preliminary foolishness and risk and daring, and the louder the ridicule and doubt and actual persecution.

Edison is acclaimed a great man now. No one gave him much when he began dasting the elements. Ask the home folks what they thought of the Wright brothers when they started flopping around. They've all joined the I-Knew-Them-When Club now; but perhaps a few will be honest enough to repeat the original comments. And, prior to this tolerant age, they boiled 'em in oil or toasted them at stakes when they tried to start something that upset the status quo.

All that we have we owe to the inspired fools—to the man and the woman who dared to follow a dream. Always they paid a price. They were laughed at—sneered at—cruelly punished. They lost money and standing and home and health and the affection and trust of their loved ones. But they went on—fumbling, groping, blundering—and at last they had their vindication.

But not always. Not always did they find the thing they sought. But whether they did or not—whether they died famous or branded as fools—it was worth all they paid. FOR ONLY THOSE WHO DARED TO DOUBT AND EXPERIMENT AND MAKE MISTAKES, ONLY THOSE WHO HAVE THE COURAGE TO MAKE FOOLS OF THEMSELVES, REALLY LIVE. They are the only human beings who taste the full glory and risk of being men.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

The English like to tell stories about American tourists that don't know anything. As a matter of fact, you'll find that a lot of the American tourists are too smart to believe anything the guides tell them. But the English get a lot of fun out of making believe that the Americans are awful ignorant, just because some of the Americans were never in England before.

They tell about an American tourist that was being shown the ruins of an old bridge in England.

"It's over 2,000 years old," says the guide.

"You can't get away with them bull stories with us," says the tourist. "Two thousand years! Why it's only 1930 now, and if you can figure at all you can see that that's 70 years short of 2,000 years total. And it ain't likely that Adam built the bridge, anyhow."

His Heritage

This is his heritage: to see
Where autumn fieldse glow mistily,
More beauty in the garnered sheaf,
More wonder in the falling leaf
Than common men could hope to gain
From viewing all earth's wide domain.

This is his heritage: to hear
In the lark's lyrics, crystal-clear,
Drifting across far field and wood,
A message few have understood;
Though masters play viol and flute
Still music's self, to some, is mute.

His heritage is this: he gives
A glimpse of realms wherein he lives
To less unclouded eyes; he shares
The garb of loveliness life wears
With those who, else, would never know
How beauty's tides, unceasing, flow.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Then it was found that the sex of an individual depended not, as had hitherto been assumed, on the number of X-chromosomes, but on the proportion of X's to autosome sets. For example, a fly with one X and only one autosome set was female; so was a fly with three of each or with four of each.

H. G. Wells

The normal female fly, of course, has two of each. So that when they are equal a female is produced.

On the other hand, an abnormal fly with two X's but four autosome sets was male; so that when the later outnumber the former by two to one a male is produced.

Various other combinations appeared. In some the X's actually outnumbered the autosome sets; in these "super-females" the insect was female in type, but sterile.

In others the X's were overwhelmed by autosomes in a ratio greater than two to one; three "super-males" were male in type, but sterile. Most curious of all, there were flies in which the proportion was intermediate between two to one and equality.

There were, for example, flies with two X-chromosomes and three autosome sets.

And in their bodily characters and instincts these flies reflected the abnormality of their chromosomes, for they were intermediate in type between male and female—to use the technical term, inter-sexes.

Thus, sex is determined in these fruit-flies not by the X's alone but by a reactive between the X's and the rest of the chromosome outfit. It is determined by a sort of debate in which all the chromosomes participate.

But normally the deciding factor is the number of X's. Both sexes have the same autosome outfit, and its balance is in each case in favor of maleness; its influence is strong enough to outweigh a single X and produce a male, but is overcome by two X's, which then produce a female. It is, however, only in abnormal flies that the votes, so to speak, of the autosomes can become casting votes.

This, by the way, shows how abnormalities can illuminate the normal processes, for without this particular strain of curiosity developing flies the true relations between the chromosomes would never have been discovered.

This struggle between male-producers and female-producers in the nucleus is, we infer, a general phenomenon in sexually reproducing creatures.

It occurs in the development of each one of us. Normally one set has a sufficient majority over the other, and the individual is definitely male or female. But not always.

Some interesting facts were discovered by Goldschmidt, a German zoologist, when he was crossing different species of gipsy-moth of the genus Lymantria.

Here, also, there are rival male-producing and female-producing genes: normally one set outweighs the other completely. But in different species of gipsy-moth these genes seem to work at different rates.

In the European species they are fairly slow. But in the Japanese species the whole tempo of the life-cycle is swifter, and the genes are more active. Let us, for the sake of simplicity, begin by considering female moths.

All females will have male-determining as well as female-determining genes at work, but normally the female ones are in the majority, and whatever female-determining substances they are generating is in excess over the opposed substance produced by the male genes.

But by crossing different species curious results can be obtained. Female moths can then be produced in which the female genes are slow workers, the male genes quick workers.

The moth begins to develop as a female, because of the female genes' initial majority.

But meanwhile the male genes have been producing their male-determining substance at a great rate; and their production catches up with, and eventually surpasses, that of the female genes, so that the moth finishes its development as a male.

The result is an inter-sex in which those organs or parts of organs which are laid down early are female in type, while those whith appear later are male. And the reverse creature, starting off as a male and then becoming female, is also obtainable by appropriate crossing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Youthful Jed Harris, flashing vividly across Broadway horizons a few years ago, is not the only No. 1 boy along the Rialto. The newest "hope" is Chester Erskin, who, just turned 26, is making older producers snap into huddles.

Like the unshaven Harris, Erskin is one of the pale dreamers triumphant over the bitterness of early poverty. His face is etched with a tiny acid wrinkle or so as mementos of the travail. Two years ago he was occupying a bench in Bryant Park and using the public library reading room as an office.

Indeed, the charity ward in a local hospital records he was a patient for malnutrition. But today he has ascended the throne of the great Charles Frohman and will direct activities of the artistic Empire theater to succeed Gilbert Miller.

Mr. Miller is enamored of British life and anxious to confine production efforts to London. Erskin's expression has the fire of the zealot, but has proved him practical withal. In a year he directed three hits—"Harlem," "Subway Express" and "The Last Mile."

While his efforts lacked the drawing room polish of the Frohman regime, he has supplied a raw realism the theater seldom achieves. He vamoosed from a law school in native Schenectady for the stage and acted small parts in road companies and directed repertoire failures.

At a casual glance he might be one of those studious looking office boys so common in New York. He talks hesitatingly and with no assurance. Yet when he selects his company and begins rehearsals he is compelling and thoroughly alive.

If he succeeds, he will have accomplished a post languishing for applicants since Frohman's passing, largely through fear of comparison. The past year, incidentally, has shown the most brilliant productions efforts are the handiwork of striplings.

To my notion super salesmanship is an offshoot of studied reticence. People talked into buying what they do not want rarely return. The places I patronize are those never urging a sale. Show me an establishment handling shoddy goods and I'll show you an over-zealous, lippy sales force, full of extravagant talk.

A waiter at a Child's carries a pocket magnifying glass. He discovered patrons often left their glasses home. He will not be a waiter long.

The newest avenue hotel—The Pierre—offers a soft sublimity to the twistiways sky line, the beauty of a graceful gray spire rising over a monotone of flatlands. It is as obvious as the obelisk or Paul Whiteman backing out of a pup tent, but take a look at it in the soft glow of a youngish moon from Central Park West and you want to be a better boy.

"I saw you in the Harlem cafe," writes Miss K. G., "when the irate patron suddenly flashed a razor. Wasn't it exciting?"

Very. And did you catch my foot work?

They were discussing an unromantic young lady on her first trip to Venice. "While others," observed Mary Boland, "were floating around in gondolas she was just riding around in a boat."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

There are times when it seems hard to follow the straight and narrow path.

You would like to throw aside all consideration for reputation and future prospects and follow an impulse to "Raise the devil."

Not infrequently you envy the fellow with no reputation worth protecting.

He has no established position to maintain—it sounds easy.

It is the restraint of living up to the standards you have set or people expect of you, that is so annoying to you.

You'd like to be free from the conventions of society.

Fortunately, so far, your good sense has kept you from following some of the criminal suggestions that come to your mind.

Somewhere back in your family there must have been someone who was not all that he should have been.

There has come down to you some of the blood of that person.

But it is your good fortune that you have also within your veins the blood of persons who were devoid of evil tendencies, who were true, wholesome and pure.

Thus far you have been strong enough to check bad impulses, but if you let your mind dwell on things of a baser nature you may lose control.
